SOVIET SKY TANKS TAKE CITY

MR. CONSUMER, YOU PAY FIRST NEW TAX TODAY

Defense Levies Hit Liquor, Cigarets.

Washington, D. C., June 30 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. American Consumer will get their first taste of the new defense taxes tomorrow.

With the midnight arrival of July 1, higher levies go into effect on future manufactures of a score of products, and "floor taxes," expected to affect the retail price, are effective on cigarets, beer, and liquor. The floor taxes, applied to stocks already on hand, are ½ cent a package on cigarets, $1 a barrel on beer, and 75 cents a gallon on liquor.

The floor taxes on cigarets, beer, and liquor will bring the total taxes on these products to 6½ cents a package, $6 a barrel, and $3 a gallon, respectively.

100 Gallons Exempted.

Up to 100 gallons of liquor and all beer in the hands of a retailer are exempt from the floor tax, but the half cent must be paid on every package of cigarets.

While the beer tax is not imposed on stocks of a retailer it must be paid by wholesalers and brewers on all their stocks. Wholesale liquor dealers are not granted the 100 gallon exemption.

Congress levied these taxes so that merchants who bought up supplies in anticipation of the increase would have to pay just the same. The treasury expects to collect $4,800,000 from the floor tax on cigarets and $19,600,000 from that on liquor and beer.

Movie Patrons Pay Now.

Levies on other products may not affect the consumer until existing stocks are sold, but movie patrons will pay the new taxes immediately. The tax of 1 cent on every 10 cents of an admission fee will start with tickets costing 21 cents, instead of 41. As a result, many moviegoers who have paid no tax when attending theaters will begin paying at tomorrow's matinées.

Here is the increase on various newly produced products, and services:

Toilet preparations, from 10 to 11 per cent; automobiles, 3 to 3½ per cent; radios, 5 to 5½ per cent; mechanical refrigerators, 5 to 5½ per cent; matches, 5 to 5½ cents a thousand; electrical energy, 3 to 3½ per cent; gasoline, 1 to 1½ cents a gallon; lubricating oil, 4 to 4½ cents a gallon; playing cards, 10 to 11 cents a pack; club dues and initiation fees, 10 to 11 per cent.

Income Taxes Are Increased.

The "nuisance taxes" are expected to produce about $475,000,000 of the billion dollars of new revenue expected annually from the defense tax bill. Most of the remainder will be derived from the higher income taxes payable next March 15.

Most of the yield from income taxes, which are effective on 1940 income, will be derived from a flat 10 per cent increase and higher surtaxes. The new law will put 2,200,000 new income taxpayers on the federal lists, however, by lowering personal exemptions from $2,500 to $2,000 for married couples and from $1,000 to $800 for single persons.

It has been estimated that lowered exemptions alone will bring in an extra $82,500,000—including $15,400,000 from new taxpayers and $67,100,000 from increased payments by present taxpayers.

Supertax to Be Imposed.

Those estimates take into account the flat and universal 10 per cent "surtax" to be imposed on all income taxpayers. For example, if a man owed $100, after taking lowered exemptions and everything else into account, he would add 10 per cent to his remittance, making a total of $110.

The only exception to that rule is for those of large income who have to turn back more than half of it to the government. In such cases the taxpayer remits 10 per cent of what is left over after payment of his taxes, instead of 10 per cent of his tax payment.

The lowered income tax exemptions, long advocated by many in congress who wished to make more citizens conscious of government costs, are intended to become permanent, as are the higher surtaxes. The 10 per cent "supertax," however, is scheduled for only five years.

As a result of those increases, income taxpayers will remit an addi-

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 1, Monday.—Ronald White, senior engineer of the passenger transport board, which controls all London public vehicles with the exception of taxicabs, and Anthony Ruston, one time director of the European press agency, were interned by Scotland Yard operatives during a week-end purge under the defense regulations act, according to this morning's Daily Express.

White is an expert on the floodgate system, which he helped build to protect London subways from flooding in event of air raid damage, and is alleged to have been connected with the Fascist movement.

Ruston is said to be a close friend and business associate of Dr. A. A. Tester, allegedly a personal friend and aide-de-camp to Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist leader. Mosley and his wife already are in jail.

At the time that Ruston was a director of the European press agency a deputy of the Belgian parliament complained that friends of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda chief, had given the agency 110,000 pounds [about $440,000] to start a newspaper in Belgium. Both Ruston and Dr. Tester denied the statement. Ruston also was associated with British Glycerine Manufacturers, Ltd., but resigned in April, 1938.

CRACKS A WHIP AT MAMA BEAR; MAY LOSE EYE

Charles Luther, 19 years old, is custodian of three bears which were on exhibit in a carnival at 91st street and Vincennes avenue.

The mama bear nipped Luther on the right arm as he was adjusting her muzzle. He seized a bull whip and tried cracking it to persuade the bear to reënter her cage.

The long whiplash, however, snapped back and hit Luther in the right eye. At Little Company of Mary hospital it was said he may lose the sight of the eye.

Gresham police said the bear might be taken to the municipal dog pound for observation. The animals belong to John P. Snyder, who is staying at a hotel at 635 North Clark street. Luther is from Ironwood, Mich.

7 Cows on Sale in $4,000,000 New Deal Flop

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Highstown, N. J., June 30.—Another step toward liquidating the $4,000,000 flop of the New Deal at Jersey Homesteads, four miles south of here, will be taken Tuesday. On that day the government will sell seven Guernsey cows, 7,151 chickens, 381 acres of crops in the ground, and an assortment of farm machinery.

The sale will be held to satisfy crop mortgages dated April and October, 1937. The mortgages were given to the federal government by Jersey Homesteads Agricultural Association, Inc., the farming coöperative which was a companion organization to the Coöperative Cloak and Suit factory which already has been liquidated.

Plant Opened in 1936.

Jersey Homesteads was launched as a social experiment seven years ago with considerable fanfare by the Roosevelt administration. After innumerable delays caused by political bickering, union trouble, and other causes it finally opened in 1936.

New Dealers planned the 1,250 acre tract as a subsistence homestead community. Unemployed garment workers in Brooklyn and Manhattan were moved to Jersey Homesteads to run the garment factory. Cash from the factory's production was to be supplemented by the produce from 500 acres of farm land.

Things, however, did not turn out as the theorists planned. The factory failed to show a profit and the government had to advance more money.

$200,000 Goes for $1,811.

Finally, after the factory consistently failed to show a profit, the government gave up and sold the cloak and suit machinery of the factory to recover advances of $200,000. The auction last October brought $1,811. The factory now is under lease to a hat manufacturing firm.

The Agricultural association, like the Coöperative Factory association, failed to get out of the red after four years of operation.

Still Owns Buildings.

After liquidating the Agricultural Coöperative on Tuesday, the government still will retain title to the 500 acres of farm land, the factory of Jersey Homesteads, as well as community buildings and the 200 modern flat-topped concrete homes in which the coöperators were settled.

These homes, planned in 1933 and completed in 1936, are estimated to have cost the government $20,000 each. They are rented for $16.50 per month.

COMMITTEE HOLDS UP CASH TO PAY FOR WPA GUIDE TO MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., June 30 [Special].—On the theory that the writing is juvenile, the statements inaccurate, and the copy loaded with Socialist propaganda, the Milwaukee Guide today appeared destined for the waste basket. The county board WPA committee refused to release the $7,500 appropriated some years ago to publish the Guide.

Copy for the Milwaukee Guide was written by the WPA paid writers' project, which required five years for the chore. Miss Susan M. Drew, county law librarian, read the copy for the county board's committee and turned in the adverse report.

Statements in the book which were found objectionable credited the Socialist party with all good accomplished in Milwaukee in the last 30 years; revealed that the superintendent of the county pesthouse was drunk on duty in 1847; accused a former police chief of recording the foibles of the city fathers in the red-light district to protect his job, and charged that prohibition gave realization to the dream of Italian immigrants that America is the land of opportunity.

U. S. FLEET BACK IN HAWAII AFTER ROUTINE DRILLS

HONOLULU, June 30 (AP).—The Star Bulletin's Maui Island correspondent reported today the return to Lahaina Roads of major units of the United States fleet which last Monday unexpectedly left Hawaii under sealed orders.

Informed sources reported the fleet had engaged in regular drills and maneuvers within 250 miles of here during the last week.

The returned ships included [illegible] battleships, the Pennsylvania, New Mexico, Nevada, Mississippi, and Idaho; the aircraft carrier Yorktown, approximately seven light cruisers, and 15 destroyers. Many of the crew were granted shore leave.

The fleet's return set at rest several reports occasioned by the secret sailing, including one that it was bound for the Panama canal, and another that its destination might be the Philippines.

Windsors Delay Leaving Spain; May Go Tomorrow

MADRID, Spain, June 30 (AP).—The duke and duchess of Windsor, who had planned to leave Spain today, prolonged their stay. They are expected to leave for an unannounced destination on Tuesday. The duchess of Santona, sister of the duke of Alba, Spanish ambassador to London, was their dinner guest.

GERMANS BOMB CROWDED ZONES IN BRITISH ISLES

Blasts Start Fires in Scotland, Wales.

LONDON, July 1, Monday (AP).—German planes hurled incendiary bombs on thickly populated areas of Britain early today as if in answer to British claims of having won aerial initiative in raids on Germany.

The German planes ranged over Scotland, England, and Wales to the accompaniment of thudding bomb blasts and the gunfire of British fighter planes and antiaircraft batteries. No serious damage or casualties have been reported from any of these areas.

Last night the British told of nightly raids on military objectives in German territory, pointing to them as proof that England had won and would keep the "jump" on her foe in aerial warfare.

The British said their raids had seriously curtailed German industrial output and in many cases forced abandonment of night factory shifts.

Shower Bombs in Scotland.

A thickly populated area of northeast Scotland was showered with incendiary bombs loosed from German raiders. Many bombs fell on a large school building, which was unoccupied at the time. The building was set afire.

Other incendiary bombs fell on apartment houses but tenants tackled the blazes with shovels and pails of sand and quickly extinguished the flames. Auxiliary fire services stemmed other blazes.

Fires in two lumber yards were subdued before great damage was done.

An air ministry communique last night reported four British air raids on Germany and German-held territory within 24 hours.

Bomb Airport in France.

British bombs struck a hangar at Abbeville, near the French coast of the English channel Saturday afternoon, it said, set four German aircraft afire and damaged others.

Widespread attacks on transport, industrial, and military objectives Saturday night in Germany, Belgium, and Holland with "damage done to all these objectives" also were reported.

In a renewed air assault Sunday morning on the Nazi air base at Merville, France, grounded German aircraft were bombed, the ministry said, and in the afternoon royal air force bombs left rolling stock ablaze in an attack on a railroad yard north of Abbeville.

It acknowledged loss of six British planes on these forays and said that, in addition to German planes destroyed on the ground, five Messerschmitts were shot down.

Small Damage in Britain.

German aerial forays over Britain Saturday night failed to cause military damage, according to British reports.

A joint communique of the air and home security ministries said that British fighter planes' resistance prevented any concentrated Nazi attack and listed casualties as two persons killed and eight injured.

Other raids in Scotland, the east Midlands and southern England "were inconsiderable," it declared.

British agencies acknowledged that German raiders were "over the southwest [illegible] near Bristol channel" for several hours Saturday night.

Altho high explosive bombs fell on land in the Bristol channel area, they declared there were no casualties and no material damage.

One Road Blocked.

In southwestern England, they said, a half dozen bombs fell in the center of one town, blocked a road, and damaged a wide area, but inflicted no casualties.

Twenty-four bombs hit villages in southeastern England far removed from any industrial center, these sources reported, but caused only broken windows and deep pits in cornfields and pastures.

A 10 year old boy was killed, a man died of shock, and several persons were injured in an undisclosed Midlands town where bombs wrecked the operating room of an infirmary. All the casualties, however, occurred in a residential district, the communique said.

Hint Gibraltar Is Next Target of Nazi Attack

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Map on page 5.)

BERLIN, June 30.—With German air raids against the British Isles growing in scope, a general attack on England by the combined Italian and German land, sea and air forces seems to be rapidly drawing near.

Italy's part in the assault would be to attack British positions in the Mediterranean, it was declared today by the Frankfurter Zeitung, which frequently is used as the mouthpiece of the foreign office.

Some sources speak of an attack on Gibraltar with legionnaires, similar to the Italian Arrow divisions and the German Condor legions which fought in the Spanish war, operating from the land side of "the rock," aided by the attacks of Italian sea and air forces.

Spaniards Demand Gibraltar.

Gen. Franco, who was aided by Hitler and Mussolini in the Spanish war, has declared Spain "nonbelligerent"—the same term which Italy used before Il Duce entered the war on the side of Hitler. There have been several recent demonstrations in Spain calling for the return of Gibraltar.

It is believed that an Italian attack against Gilbraltar is a stronger possibility than an Italian attack against Egypt.

To drive the British out of Gibraltar, Germans feel would enhance their chances of success in a direct attack against the British Isles. The Boersenzeitung, the organ of the German armed forces, said in an article today:

"France's Atlantic coast is in German hands. From Brittany, over Belgium, Holland, and Denmark, to Norway runs the assault front against England. Troops of all branches of the service are being reënforced daily on this front. England feels ever more strongly that the military force of Italy and Germany is being concentrated for the final blow."

Report on British Raids.

German air raids on Saturday night were reported to have extended over south England, middle England, and Scotland. Harbors and munitions factories were reported hit. In many places "explosions and fires were observed," it was reported.

In Cardiff, Wales, and Bristol, the Germans claimed to have set fire to oil depots. German bombers also were stated to have raided the airfields at Lincoln, Nottingham, and York.

The Germans charged that in bombing a western German town a British plane machinegunned a fire brigade trying to put out a fire caused by a British bomb.

A radio announcement from Cologne said 16 persons were killed and 11 wounded by British bombs dropped on Friday night near Wahn, 10 miles southeast of Cologne, but that bombings did little damage.

It was said that bombs on Saturday night fell in fields and meadows near Weiler, Erp, and Borl, in northwestern Germany and in Stolberg, just east of Aachen [Aix-la-Chapelle].

2 Paddle 15 Foot Canoe Across Lake Michigan

Pentwater, Mich., June 30 (AP).—Casey Gregorich, 26 years old, La Crosse, Wis., school teacher, and Joe Sacher, 22, a Sheboygan, Wis., commercial fisherman, today completed a canoe trip across Lake Michigan, landing at Juniper beach seven miles south of Pentwater. The men said they set out from Sheboygan last night, the trip requiring approximately 20 hours of constant paddling.

BIG PLANES SET THEM DOWN IN RUMANIAN TOWN

Bloody Fights Rage Along River.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 30 (AP).—Russian baby tanks, landed by planes, tonight seized Reni, at the juncture of the Danube and Prut rivers, while a series of bloody battles was reported elsewhere along the Prut.

The tanks, suspended between the wheels of big transport planes in a display of warfare in its most modern phase, caught the Rumanian garrison so completely by surprise that its rifles stood in untouched barracks.

[In Washington, D. C., last night military experts said that the tanks landed by plane were probably machines of 5 or 7 tons armed with machine guns. The Russians, who originated the use of parachute troops, have experimented for some years with aerial transportation of such sized tanks, army technicians said, but the operations yesterday were believed the first under actual combat conditions. The tanks are understood to be carried in slings beneath the planes, which land them directly on the field of action. The tanks then are detached and the planes depart on other missions.]

A Commanding Position.

This maneuver in Reni was believed to have gained quantities of military material for the Russians, and gave them a commanding position over the mouth of the Danube, one of Germany's vital communications lifelines.

From Reni the Red army is in a position to block all traffic from the Danube to the Black sea—if it so desires—with hardly more than machine guns necessary. This was seen by diplomats as a serious blow to Germany.

Reports received in military quarters said the Rumanians turned to fight when the Russians crossed the Prut at several points in northern Bukovina which, like Bessarabia, was ceded to Moscow under the pressure of an ultimatum.

Reds Suffer Losses.

These military reports said the Reds were thrown back with considerable losses but that they brought up reënforcements and succeeded finally in crossing the stream and capturing a Rumanian general. Fighting was reported from several other points thruout the day.

The conflict apparently arose over interpretation of the boundary of northern Bukovina. The Rumanians interpreted "northern Bukovina" as ending at the Prut river, but it was believed that the Rumanian minister to Moscow might have failed to advise his government of the demarcation line on which the Russians decided.

The Rumanian Gen. Ulorescu, in command on the Bukovina border, was reported late tonight as still refusing to accept Rumanian war ministry orders to retreat. Instead, he was continuing the fight at an undesignated point along the Prut.

Reports from the Russian-occupied area told of street fighting in many places among communist and anti-communist elements. In two cities, it was said, penitentiary inmates were freed by the fleeing jailers.

Swift Occupation.

Russia's occupation, by parachute and land troops, was so swift that "local incidents" occurred, causing casualties on both sides, a Rumanian general staff communique reported tonight. Parachutists gained a quick foothold near the mouth of the vital Danube.

Foreign military quarters looked upon the Russian use of parachute troops as evidence that the soviets were in extreme haste to take control. The communique did not state the nature of the incidents.

It was reported one "incident" occurred near Bolgrad, in the vicinity of the junction of the Danube and Prut rivers. It was in this region that parachute troops were landed.

This soviet haste to occupy the territory was matched by Rumanian moves to rush new defense preparations, widely interpreted as indicating Rumania was fearful of further soviet territorial encroachments.

Issue Mild Communique.

The Rumanian communique, much milder than other reports of the fighting, said:

"During the course of June 30 evacuation operations from Bessarabia continued. Evacuation was conforming with the program along the general lines marked by the towns of Siretol Mil, Cuciurul Mare, Briceni Balti, Basarabeasca, Tatar, and Bunar.

"In some directions rapid units of Russian forces exceeded their rhythm of occupation and passed Rumanians who were in retreat. On this account there were local incidents.

"Our military column continues its retreat. Evacuation operations will end July 3 at noon."

This last reference was interpreted as meaning that the soviets had granted Rumania a 24 hour extension of the withdrawal period, which previously had been set for July 2.

Overstep Line of Cession.

The press announcement—with government approval—that Red forces had swept on into old Rumania at many places in an apparent overstepping of territory ceded to them added to the general excitement.

The government authorized announcement said the soviet forces advanced at one point as far as Dorohoi, in northern Rumania, 15 miles beyond the Prut river. Russian sources had said, however, that the advance beyond the limits resulted from a military misunderstanding.

Also contributing to the excitement was a disclosure that the Rumanian navy has mined the Black sea ports of Constanta and Sulina—the latter in the middle of the Danube delta.

Rumanian maritime authorities ordered all ships coming to Constanta or up the Danube to wait eight miles out for pilot boats to guide them thru the newly laid mine fields.

New Seat of Government.

King Carol's ministers discussed plans to move the seat of government to the Carpathian foothills in western Rumania if necessary. Speculation concerning Germany's attitude toward the soviet advance was heightened by headlines in Rumania's most pro-Nazi newspaper, Curentul, that the Red push beyond agreed limits showed:

"The despotism of Russian troops who forgot their promises and all their humanity."

[Sources in Washington, D. C., with access to official advices yesterday predicted that the European war will shift eastward in September with a head-on clash between the Nazis and their recent Russian partners in politics.]

An official communique told of a great trek of Jews from old Rumania into the territory newly occupied by the Red army, declaring 7,600 Jews had crossed the Ungheni bridge over the Prut today alone, and that 2,000 had gone from Galati to Reni in soviet territory.

No "Incidents," Reds Say.

MOSCOW, July 1, Monday (AP).—Soviet parachute troops, motorized infantry and tanks are proceeding with the occupation of Bessarabia "without incidents," Tass, official Russian news agency, reported early today. It said the Red army already had accomplished its task and reached newly established frontiers with Rumania in northern Bukovina and that in Bessarabia soviet soldiers were reaching the new frontier, "that is, the Prut and Danube rivers."

Russians Asked to Protect 2 Hospitals in Ceded Zone

BUCHAREST, June 30 (AP).—The Rumanian Red Cross appealed tonight to the soviet Red Cross to safeguard two new tuberculosis sanitariums in Bessarabia, and to provide care for 200 patients, some critically ill. The hospital is in territory being occupied by Russia.

HEAR REDS SEEK PART IN DEFENSE OF DARDANELLES

Fear of Russia Quiets Balkan Claims.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 30 (AP).—Diplomatic circles reported tonight that soviet Russia has asked Turkey for permission to participate in defense of the Dardanelles, straits that link the Black sea and Mediterranean.

This was interpreted as a definite indication that Russia has embarked on a further program of solidifying her defenses against possible attack from the west—with a hold on the vital Dardanelles as a major Russian goal.

The report intensified the belief that Russia was prepared to try a far reaching penetration into southeast Europe, boldly clashing with the interests of Germany.

Silences Revisionist Claims.

This belief appeared tonight to have silenced other Balkan revisionist claims that grew sharp when Russia took over Bessarabia and northern Bukovina from Rumania.

It was believed that Russia now was prepared to make the most of her opportunity, while the axis powers are otherwise occupied, and take additional territory as a shock absorber against any future attacks on original Russian territory. Indications are that the soviets are prepared to move in a manner which may leave Germany with the choice between continuing the western offensive against Britain or defending German "lebensraum" [living space] in southeastern Europe.

Some observers declared that the march of Red armies from the west might quiet—temporarily at least—20 years of Balkan animosities, and check any chance of fighting among themselves over their conflicting claims.

New Developments.

These new developments were taken as indicative of fears that Red armies might not stop at the limits of Bessarabia and northern Bukovina:

1. Hungary bolstered her forces along the Ruthenian frontier, fearful of a soviet push thru the Ukraine. Reliable sources said the recent "advance" of Hungarian troops toward the Rumanian frontier was prompted solely by concern over soviet aims in Rumania.

2. Statements in official Bulgarian circles that Bulgaria's recent mobilization was prompted by fears that Russia might push across Rumania toward the Dardanelles, or that Turkey might move north in anticipation of such an attack. Bulgaria has concentrated more than 250,000 soldiers on the Rumanian and Turkish frontiers.

Turk Fleet on Patrol.

Diplomatic circles watched the developments closely in view of reports that axis powers have assured Rumania they would lend active assistance if the Red encroachment continued.

Russia seized the only bumper crop of wheat and corn in the Balkan area by occupying Bessarabia, it was said tonight. Thus the rest of the region faces a precarious food situation this winter.

Late frosts followed by torrential rains and floods reduced this year's yield of wheat and corn in Hungary, Jugo-Slavia, Bulgaria, and old Rumania by an estimated 35 per cent. Only in Bessarabia are flourishing crops reported.

Plan Nonstop Flight

San Diego, Cal., June 30 (AP).—Plans to fly Richard Archbold's big flying boat, Guba, nonstop to Port Washington, Long Island, brought fresh rumors today that the "flying laboratory" might be acquired by Great Britain for the royal air force.

Russell Rogers of New York, who has been at the controls of the plane on all flights to Africa and Netherlands New Guinea, said the flight route would be via Winslow, Ariz., Kansas City, and Pittsburgh. The takeoff has been set for 2:30 p. m. Friday with a planned arrival at Port Washington early the next morning.

Reports have been current here for several weeks that England was negotiating with Archbold and the American Museum of Natural History for purchase of the Guba. Archbold is research director of the museum.

The Guba claims the distinction of being the first aircraft to fly around the world at its greatest diameter; of making the longest overwater nonstop flight, from Dakar, Africa, to St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, the first to fly across the Indian ocean, and the first flying boat to cross Africa. Crew members said the big plane could be converted into a bomber.

YORKSHIRE AREA SHUT AS BRITAIN WIDENS DEFENSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—Barred from holiday resorts in special defense areas on the east and south coasts, Britons who were making plans to enjoy the finest summer weather of years tonight received another jolt. Lord Harlech, northeastern regional commissioner, issued a ban that cut off half a dozen resorts on the Yorkshire coast.

Holiday visitors were barred and beach bathing and promenading will be prohibited except to persons having a pass from the local military commander.

Pickets on roads were empowered to question any one proceeding toward the defense area. Guests of boarding houses in the area will be subject to police questioning tomorrow.

British Cruiser Lands Stricken Sailor at Miami

Miami, Fla., June 30 (AP).—The British cruiser Diomede put into Key West tonight to land a seaman, J. G. Galloway, ill of acute appendicitis, confirming a rumor that a foreign warship was in the vicinity of the Florida coast. Galloway was removed to the United States Naval hospital, accompanied by a surgeon from the British ship. The vessel remained in port.

NAVY TIED UP BY WAR; FOES NIP AT BRITISH EMPIRE

Japs Push On Toward Rule of East.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—England has steeled herself for events that in only a few weeks, perhaps, will determine the fate of the British empire.

For the first time in history, she has been forced by the threat of an invasion to withdraw her main fighting forces to her home shores, abandon her immediate possessions, the English channel islands, and call on the dominions to strengthen her defenses.

The proximity of the enemy to her own heart has also for the first time made it impossible for her vast sea power to make itself felt in protecting the vital interests of the empire.

Italy, at least temporarily, has already broken the spinal cord of the empire extending thru the Mediterranean. And reports from the far east reveal that Japan, taking advantage of British preoccupation with the war against the axis powers, is wangling concession after concession and achieving her desire to be indisputable mistress of that area at the expense of European and American interests.

Hold Fast in Near East.

At the same time, Britain's hold on her near east possessions, including the rich oil fields of Iraq on the Persian gulf, is precarious, altho an immediate threat is not foreseen.

The British government's acceptance of Japanese demands at Tientsin has been followed by others. All European women and children are being "compelled" to evacuate the rich British concession at Hongkong. They are being sent to Manila, where they will be cared for by the American Red Cross before embarking for Australia.

It is reported that the Japanese and British governments now are discussing Japanese demands regarding "traffic over the Burma road and other questions." The conversations are going on thru the British ambassador to Tokio, Sir Robert Craigie.

Blockade of China Pushed.

The Japanese, who wrung an agreement from France to permit no more shipments of war and other materials to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, the Chinese generalissimo, over the Indo-China railroad, are now endeavoring to obtain a similar guarantee from the British government to coöperate in the blockade against the Chinese government. This would be a hard concession to make, especially since Britain, like America, has supported the Chinese against the Japanese invasion, even to extending loans.

The Japanese demand that Indo-China be opened to Japanese immigration and economic exploitation would have created tremendous repercussions thruout the British empire years ago.

Because relations between Russia and Germany and Italy are obscure, it is not clear here what will be the ultimate effect of the Russian occupation of Bessarabia. Under normal conditions, British interests would be regarded as involved. Now, with "friendly relations" established by the British ambassador to Moscow, Sir Stafford Cripps, the occupation takes place without even a protest being lodged. Comment here wobbles between approving the soviet's action as being historically justified and being a threat to German-Italo interests, and regarding it in the same light as Japanese extremism in the Pacific, which is viewed as profit to outsiders thru the inability of the great powers to prevent seizure by force.

French Collapse Costly.

British defenses in the near east, it is admitted here, will be "powerfully affected" by the failure of the French armies in northern Africa and Syria to fight on the side of Britain. Some comfort is derived from news from Jerusalem that 6,000 Polish legionnaires crossed into Palestine and joined the British forces there before the Syrian army was ordered disarmed.

Until now, according to reports here, the British have taken the initiative with considerable successes on the Libyan frontier. Strategists expected that Italy might launch a great offensive against Egypt in this area, but they pointed out that as long as the British control the Malta and other naval bases, Italian transports would be exposed to great dangers in such a move. How far allied patrols in the Mediterranean depended upon French naval units, bases, and troops is not known, but Italy seems to have been unable to take advantage of the armistice conditions that put the French forces out of the fight.

Keep Red Sea Control.

While they are prevented from sending troops and supplies to the nearest forces by way of the Mediterranean and the Suez canal, British naval forces are said to control the Red sea, making it possible to bring them up thru those waters. The British parliament's passage of a law providing for the functioning of the Indian government, even if communications with the United Kingdom were cut, is expected to sustain the armies in the near east during the hottest moments of the battle of Britain.

Cabinet Moves

Arrows on map point to Clermont-Ferrand, whence French cabinet is reported to have gone, and to Vichy, said to be its ultimate destination.

LONDON, July 1, Monday (AP).—A Reuters [British news agency] dispatch from Clermont-Ferrand said today that the government of Marshal Premier Henri Philippe Petain had arrived there from Bordeaux and would move later to Vichy, where the French chamber of deputies and senate also have decided to meet.

TURKEY REJECTS BRITISH PLAN TO OCCUPY SYRIA

ANKARA, Turkey, June 30 (AP).—Great Britain has sounded out Turkey and Iraq on possible British occupation of Syria, but Turkey has turned a deaf ear, informed political circles reported today.

Under this plan, it was said, a large part of Syria, which is a French mandated territory, would be united with Iraq after British occupation, and Turkey would receive part of the Mosul oil district and the Aleppo region as a reward for her collaboration.

Turkey, however, was said to have expressed interest only in defending her own frontiers. It was said that Britain desired to occupy Syria to forestall German and Italian occupation which would give those axis powers control of the Arabian peninsula.

Ankara officials, however, were said to believe that Germany herself desired to keep Italians out of Syria and hoped later to organize an Arab union under German auspices.

COL. M'CORMICK CITES BARRIERS TO CHANNEL BLITZ

Analyzes British Defenses in W-G-N Talk.

BY BRUCE DENNIS.

If Germany invades England, the attack is likely to be launched from Cherbourg and directed at the English coast 59 miles across the channel. And even if the Germans drive the British fleet from this part of the channel and effect a landing, they will find the narrow, twisting roads of southern England a baffling barrier to troop movements.

These conclusions were voiced last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, in a broadcast on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The studio audience was provided with maps from yesterday's SUNDAY TRIBUNE to follow the address, and radio listeners were advised in advance to have their maps from the paper ready.

Highway Routes Contrasted.

Contrasting roads of southern England with the easily traversed military highways of France and Germany, accessible to friend and foe alike, Col. McCormick said "England is defensible from pure neglect."

Col. McCormick explained why he considered that an invasion from Calais to Dover would be impracticable.

Concerning the possibility that troops could be landed from airplanes, he said that even tho 100,000 were landed in 24 hours they would have only machine guns and a day's rations, and could not hope to win.

War Map Recalled.

"You may remember that after the destruction of Poland," Col. McCormick began, "we published a map showing how Germany would attack France, if she did attack France. The map pointed out that the Germans would advance against the Maginot line, thru Luxembourg, thru Holland, and thru Belgium, while Italy would threaten on the eastern front.

"We advanced that theory with great confidence, because we knew the principle of war that a definite position held in sufficient strength cannot be forced. There was strength enough on the German border to stop any direct attack.

"An attacker faced with a condition like that can march around, or try to lengthen, the opposing line until a weak point develops, and then break thru. It was to lengthen the French line from 75 to 400 miles that the advance was made thru Belgium and Holland, even tho that incurred additional enemies in the hundreds of thousands of men.

Weak Points Fail.

"The plan was a success. The line became too long and the Germans broke thru at Sedan and captured several hundred thousand allied troops. After that the French had not strength enough to hold on the Somme. Again a weak point was found, on the Seine, and the war was practically over as far as France was concerned.

"Military and naval men in this country, and anywhere outside of Germany, as far as that goes, have not contemplated an invasion of England. They have wondered whether or not submarines and airplanes, by bombing factories, docks, and ships at sea, could bring England low."

Col. McCormick noted that recently, however, there have been several stories that indicated Germany seriously contemplated invading the British Isles. He said it appeared the invasion of Norway had no relation to the invasion of England.

It would be too roundabout, he said, the seas are too wide, and the British navy should surely control the North sea.

Narrow Front Described.

He then considered the narrow seas between Calais and Dover, only 22 miles wide, and the possibility that a landing could be made across that narrow channel. He concluded such an attack would be unpracticable.

"Even if an army went from Calais and Boulogne to Dover, and could land where William the Conqueror landed and fight near Hastings, it could not avail them," Col. McCormick said.

"A narrow front such as that would present could be held by the English army without question—a regular army, well trained, again well armed, and reinforced by the splendid Australians and undominated Canadians. It could not possibly succeed.

"What of an air invasion? We know very little of air invasions—in fact we know nothing of them in this country. We don't know how many troops could be brought in and landed from airplanes in 24 hours. But suppose 100,000 could be landed in 24 hours. They would have only machine guns and a day's rations. They couldn't hope to win.

Two Narrow Places in Channel.

"There are two narrow places in the English channel—between Calais and Dover and between Cherbourg and Portland Bill. There is a coast line about 150 miles long.

"If the Germans could drive the British fleet from this part of the channel, there would be a long front, a number of points to land and make the break-thru. They look small on the map, but they're vast in fact.

"How could the Germans hope to control those waters? Their long range guns could hardly hope to hit ships at sea on the far side. Could dive bombers clear the waters? Suppose they did.

"If they did, they would have to reduce the forts on the northern side, Southampton is a great port. Brighton is a big city. Suppose they could reduce these forts.

Dock Destruction Possible.

"Still an adequate defense would be the total destruction of all docks and landing places, because without them tanks and cannon could not be put ashore, and without tanks and cannon, and immense trucks of ammunition a great battle could not be fought.

"Suppose, however, that a successful landing were made. Southern England is defensible from pure neglect.

"I remember writing six years ago how bad the roads were in southern England, how small, narrow and twisting.

"Countries in central Europe have built military roads for the use of their troops, ignoring the fact they are equally useful to an enemy. So France can march into Germany and Germany can march into France with equal ease.

"It is different to try to march into southern England, but if an attack on England is to be made, the map would indicate this is where it must come. It would give a battlefield 150 miles long on which the Germans, if they could assemble sufficient troops, could hope to break a hole in the British resistance."

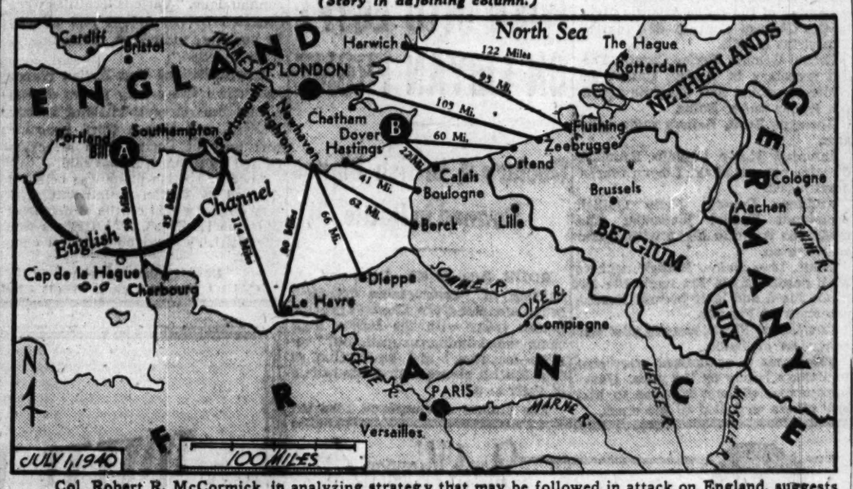
Moving Vignette Presented.

A moving musical vignette of a war mother's visit to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery was the highlight of the remaining portion of the Symphonic hour. Entitled "The Sign," it was written by Miss Tanyah Corday and produced by William A. Bacher. A cast of outstanding actors heightened the effect of the sketch.

The W-G-N Symphony orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, excelled in the fourth movement from Dvorak's New World Symphony and, for relaxation, offered Brahms familiar Hungarian Dance No. 5. Among the solos of Marion Claire, Chicago opera soprano, was Richard Strauss' "Dream in the Twilight," which Miss Claire sang in Berlin a few years ago with Strauss conducting.

Where Nazis May Try to Invade England

(Story in adjoining column.)



Col. Robert R. McCormick, in analyzing strategy that may be followed in attack on England, suggests that invasion might be attempted across from Cherbourg, France. In this area (A) Nazis would have a 150 mile front for operations, while across from Calais (B), the narrowest part of the channel, they would be confined to a narrow front. He also pointed out that the narrow, twisting English roads would be a barrier to troop movements of the invader.

BRITAIN IS SPENDING $12,724 FOR EVERY MINUTE OF HER WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—Each minute of war is costing Great Britain 3,181 pounds [about $12,724 at the official rate].

The country's increase in expenditures above peacetime costs was shown in statistics issued tonight by the treasury. Returns from the first quarter of the financial year showed that expenditures increased by 413,697,402 pounds over the corresponding three months of 1939. The supply services, covering the fighting and defense expenditure, cost 694,834,402 pounds, compared with 281,137,000 in the first quarter last year.

The government's income for the three months was 188,169,450 pounds, 44,112,000 more than for the corresponding months last year. Britain is spending about 3,700,000,000 pounds annually and the chancellor of the exchequer has warned that a supplementary budget embodying substantial increases in taxation is imminent.

BRITAIN ORDERS INCREASES IN FARM PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—Increases in the prices of live stock and farm products have been announced by the minister of agriculture to meet increases in farm wages and other production costs. The standard price for home grown wheat was increased 33 per cent. Prices of barley, oats, potatoes, sugar beets, milk, sheep, and pigs also were raised.

Live stock and poultry will be rationed after July 15, it was reported tonight. Four compound rations are being introduced for cattle and sheep, two for pigs, and six for poultry.

Inducements will be offered farmers to keep a national reserve of cattle on the hoof during the winter, it was announced.

Robert Hudson, minister of agriculture, said Britain is importing more meat than the nation is consuming, thus providing a large reserve. The wheat situation was said to be satisfactory.

CHAUFFEUR FOUND DEAD IN CAR.

Edward Ruck, 43 years old, a chauffeur, was found dead yesterday in his automobile in the garage behind his home at 1412 South Kedvale avenue. Windows and doors of the car were closed. Police said monoxide poisoning caused his death.

Britain Places Matches Under Official Control

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—Britain tonight put matches under official control. Dealers will have to get their supplies from the government controler. Large stocks are available in this country and no serious shortage is likely immediately, the government said, but the halting of supplies from Europe made control necessary to insure a fair distribution.

BRITISH DENY ANY OF THEIR PLANES SHOT DOWN BALBO

Royal Air Force Asserts: 'It's a Mystery to Us.'

CAIRO, June 30 (AP).—The death of Italian Air Marshal Italo Balbo in a flaming plane that plummeted Friday at Tobruk, Libya, was described by unofficial British sources tonight as a mystery to the royal air force.

The middle east headquarters of the royal air force is expected to issue a communique tomorrow on the sketchy Italian report that Balbo and his crew died in the crash of a plane while on a nonfighting mission. There was no disclosure from either side to clarify whether Balbo's plane crashed accidentally, or was shot down—or by whom.

British pilots who have been over Tobruk in the last few days were quoted as reporting they saw a large plane burning on the ground there Friday evening, but that they did not shoot it down, nor any other large plane like it.

Friction with Mussolini?

LONDON, June 30 (AP).—The British foreign office, picturing friction between Premier Mussolini and Italian Air Marshal Italo Balbo, today called Balbo's death "unexplained" and declared "the truth probably will never be known."

The British statement compared Balbo's death with that of Baron Col. Gen. Werner von Fritsch, who had disagreed with Adolf Hitler and was killed on the Warsaw front last Sept. 23.

The British Statement.

The statement said:

"A careful investigation shows that no British aircraft were concerned in the crash of Marshal Balbo's machine and there is thus no truth in the statement that he fell in battle.

"It will be recollected that he was appointed governor general in Libya because his presence in Italy was inconvenient to Signor Mussolini. Since then he has consistently been opposed to the policy of harnessing Italy to Hitler's war machine. His death in an unexplained airplane disaster recalls similar accidents in the past, in particular the death at Warsaw of Gen. Von Fritsch, the opponent of Hitler's home and foreign policy.

"The German wireless itself drew the parallel when it said last night 'Balbo's death thus occurred in the same spirit as that of Gen. Von Fritsch.'

"As in the case of Fritsch and many others, the truth will probably never be known.

"The only fact which can be established is that Marshal Balbo did not perish in combat with the royal air force."

Ocean Flyers Killed.

ROME, June 30 (AP).—In the plane crash which killed Air Marshal Balbo, Italy also lost three other trans-Atlantic flyers and five high military and Fascist leaders. Besides Balbo, the dead were listed today as:

Maj. Ottavio Frailich, Balbo's personal pilot.

Capt. Gino Capannini, one of Italy's finest aviation mechanics experts and a member of the Balbo Atlantic flight to the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition in 1933.

Consul General Enrico Caretti, Fascist secretary to Tripoli, Balbo's favorite physician and one-time squadron leader under Balbo.

Giuseppe Berti, Balbo's radio operator.

Artillery Captain Nello Quilici, prominent Fascist journalist who made the Atlantic flight with Balbo as historian.

Lieut. Lino Balbo, Balbo's nephew who, barely in his 20s, made the Atlantic flight and later became Fascist secretary of Ferrara.

Lieut. Gino Floria, reserve pilot and son-in-law of Balbo.

Telegrams of condolence were sent to Balbo's family by the pope. Newspapers carried long tributes to him and others who died in the crash.

Armored Corps Chiefs

Brig. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee (right), who will command new United States armored corps, and Brig. Gen. Scott, who will be in charge of one of its two divisions. New corps will include 1,400 armored vehicles, 600 guns and howitzers, 13,000 automatic weapons, and 18,000 men.

ITALIANS REPORT PUSH INTO EGYPT ON LIBYAN FRONT

Declare 4 British Planes Downed in Battle.

ROME, June 30 (AP).—Land and air fighting of "considerable activity" broke out along the Libyan-Egyptian border today with the Italian high command claiming occupation of "various localities" and destruction of four British planes with a loss of two of their own.

The Italian communique reported capture of several positions on the Cyrenaica front.

"Considerable activity of our columns in front of Cyrenaica," said the communique. "Various localities were occupied by our troops and attacks by enemy motorized detachments were repelled."

It was claimed that Italian planes shot down two enemy planes during a British attack on the field of Tobruk [Libya], and that a third probably was brought down. The attackers caused no damage, it was said.

Another British plane was believed downed by Italian antiaircraft artillery during a raid on the airdrome of Massaua [Eritrea]. The Italians said the British caused no essential damage.

Rout Italian Cavalry.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 30 (AP).—Reports from Khartum today said two British light armored fighting vehicles routed two groups of Italian cavalry, 1,200 strong, on the Sudan-Eritrean border.

The encounter took place in difficult country fringing the Kassala area of the Sudan, where British mechanized units have been harassing the enemy continually.

The British unit, advancing toward the cavalry, opened fire with machine guns. The cavalry, according to the reports, scattered in all directions, taking cover in the nearby hills and leaving 50 casualties behind.

In the same area small detachments of British mechanized forces were said to have made repeated penetrations into Eritrea, encountering enemy patrols and inflicting casualties without sustaining any themselves.

Air Force Claims.

It was recalled that on June 21 a British fighting patrol was reported to have routed a battalion, inflicting severe casualties and demolishing several machine gun posts.

A British royal air force communique today said, in part:

"Two raids by enemy aircraft on Port Sudan [on the Red sea coast of Egypt] caused no material damage. One enemy three-engine bomber was shot down.

"At dawn RAF bombers again raided El Gubbi [Libya], registering direct hits on huts, tents, and parked aircraft, causing considerable damage.

"Our aircraft were engaged by a large force of enemy fighters. During the engagement one machine was shot down in flames and a second badly damaged. Two of our aircraft were lost in the fight.

51st Raid on Malta.

VALETTA, Malta, June 30.—Malta today experienced its 50th and 51st air raids since Italy declared war. The first alarm sounded at 9 a. m., but no firing was heard. An hour later there was the second raid and this time heavy antiaircraft fire and machine gunning was heard. A number of bombs were dropped.

INFECTION BLAMED FOR DEATH.

Henry Boye, 56 years old, 5139 Patterson avenue, an egg merchant, died in County hospital yesterday, supposedly of an infection of a hip fracture suffered June 17 when he fell from bed in his home.

WE'LL BEAT FOE, BRITISH ARE TOLD BY CHAMBERLAIN

Insists Invader Will Be Pushed Into Sea.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—Declaring "it would be a faint heart indeed that could doubt our success," Neville Chamberlain, former prime minister and now lord president of the council, tonight reviewed the strength with which Great Britain hopes to win the war.

Neville Chamberlain.

In a broadcast which was relayed to America and the British dominions he again emphatically denied reports that there were differences in the war cabinet regarding the advisability of continuing the struggle. He characterized these reports as German propaganda.

Nation United, He Insists.

Chamberlain described the nation as "solid and united," and declared that "we intend, under the leadership of the prime minister, to attack our enemies and meet their attacks upon us." Attacks from both the sea and air, he said, "might be launched at any moment."

He repeated what military experts have been saying for some time—that the sea will prove a formidable obstacle to Adolf Hitler. He said Germany would be unable to land important forces until the navy, "still growing and vastly superior to the German," is eluded or driven off.

Air Force Strength Told.

The former premier also declared that despite the fact that Britain was unable to furnish decisive aid to France, the British air force now is stronger in numbers than it has been since the beginning of the war.

He spoke of tremendous land forces which, he said, also have proved themselves superior to that of the enemy. Lastly, he mentioned the great effort of workers to speed up war industries.

Chamberlain admitted that the enemy might achieve a break thru here and there. "If he does," he added, "we will fight him on every road, in every village, and in every house until he or we are utterly destroyed." If the enemy is driven to evacuate, he added, "there will be no friendly fleet waiting for him. There will be nothing waiting for him off the beaches of England but death and disaster."

Hits Reports of Disunity.

Chamberlain said, in part:

"The first thing I want to say to you tonight is that all the members of the war cabinet are working together in complete harmony and agreement. Any one who lends himself to German propaganda and listens to idle tales about disunion among us, or who imagines that any of us would consent to enter upon peace negotiations with the enemy, is just playing the Nazi game.

Prefer Ruin to Nazis.

"We are a solid and united nation. We would rather go down to ruin than admit the domination of the Nazis. But we intend, under the leadership of the prime minister, to attack our enemies and meet their attacks upon us with resolution and fighting spirit which become a great people.

"Tho we are left alone to defend freedom and civilization, brave men and women will only be braced by the knowledge that we must now rely upon ourselves under Providence to win thru, as we won thru before.

"I don't for a moment underrate the military might which has overwhelmed the gallant French army and reduced France to her present lamentable position. We all know that the enemy is now free to fall upon us.

Warns Drive Is Immient.

"No doubt the air raids we have lately experienced are only the prelude to something more serious. The Nazis are staking everything upon the chances of winning a short war. We know that they are even now completing their preparations for an attempt to engage this country. At any moment that invasion may be launched by sea and air.

"But the enemy is divided from us by a more formidable antitank obstacle than any he has yet encountered, namely, the sea.

"Our navy, which is still growing, is vastly superior to the German, and our warships must be eluded or driven off before any seagoing expedition can land on our shores.

"Don't forget that even if an expedition were safely landed, it has still to be supplied—in the main, at any rate—by sea, with all that a modern army requires to fight on in the face of fierce resistance.

"Then consider the position in the air. Our air force is stronger in numbers today than it has been since the beginning of the war, and at the same time, is superior in equipment, training, and morale to that of the enemy. Our air force would have to be destroyed or driven off before the enemy could land safely from sea or from air.

"Then we have land forces. At this moment there is a larger army in this country than there ever has been during the whole of our history . . . an army of which a large part are seasoned troops who have not only met the enemy already in battle but have felt their own superiority to him. That army is every day growing stronger in numbers, in preparedness, and in equipment.

War Workers Aid Task.

"Lastly, we have that other great army of men and women who are putting their whole strength into the task of furnishing us with the weapons and the food we need or who are devoting themselves to the work of civil defense.

"One and all, they are animated by the same fighting spirit which will never give in.

"I have given you material reasons why we should be able to beat off any enemy attack. But we have something stronger on our side. We shall be fighting for our own hearths and homes; and we shall be fighting with the conviction that our cause is the cause of humanity and peace against cruelty and persecution, the right against wrong, a cause that surely has God's blessing upon it.

"It would be a faint heart, indeed, that could doubt of our success."

Axis Attack on Gibraltar Expected

Map locates the British fortress of Gibraltar, commanding the western entrance to the Mediterranean, which Germans hint may be target soon of land attack from Spanish territory to north by German troops and of sea and air attack by Italian forces.

BATTLE TO MAKE ENGLISH CHANNEL A NO MAN'S LAND

First Raiding Party Sent Out by British.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—A recent British raid across the English channel to scout the German occupied French coast suggests the channel may become a no man's land in preliminary skirmishes of the battle of Britain.

While newspapers have featured the aggressiveness of the British air, navy and army units in landing on the continental coast and attacking the Germans, soldiers point out that it is customary for troops of each side to make raids across a no man's land, especially before a battle. In a war of position, as this one has come to be again after three months of fast movement, military men insist the only way to learn of the enemy's forces and his intentions is to send scouting units to observe and to capture prisoners.

New Tactics Necessary.

On land, this is usually done by a party of a few dozen men. After their army isolates a small section of enemy trenches by surrounding it with a barrage, the raiders race across no man's land and try to grab a few prisoners to bring back for questioning. Intelligence officers thus learn the immediate plans and the strength of the enemy forces opposing them.

When, as at present, the no man's land between Britain and Germany consists of the North sea and the English channel, which is 22 miles wide at the narrowest place, raiding parties must use boats or airplanes and a new kind of tactics. Fast motorboats that carry torpedo tubes and machine guns are an ideal transport for raiders, who can effectively be ferried across under the cover of darkness. In the bad visibility that usually prevails in this area, the boats are difficult to see, being built low to the water.

Coastline Thinly Held.

Traveling at a rate of more than 50 knots and using smoke screens, they could probably escape from destroyers even if they were discovered. As the boats neared the shore their motors could be cut off and oars could be used, or the raiders could rely on their speed to make a safe landing if they considered the fire power of their machine guns could overcome the sentries.

At the last moment the raiders could either wade to shore or row ashore in small rubber boats and steal up on the soldiers guarding the coastline. It is improbable that there would be at all points strong forces of troops ready to fight off landing parties, altho there might be strong posts only a few miles apart.

This sort of reconnaissance raid is supplementary to airplane reconnaissance, which can cover a whole territory but cannot bring back the exact information on enemy intentions, preparations and morale that can be extracted from prisoners.

Prisoners are the prime purpose of such raids, but valuable reconnoitering can be done before a gathering of the opposition forces a withdrawal. Military experts here expect a number of German raids on Britain before the launching of a main attack.

BANDITS SHOOT GIRL IN HOLDUP OF AUTO PARTY

Miss Helen Wierzbicki, 18 years old, 1457 West 47th street, a clerk, was shot in the left knee last night by one of three armed bandits who attempted to rob her, another girl, and two young men.

She was sitting in a parked car at Loomis boulevard and 53d street with Miss Irene Stryganek, 19, of 5204 May street; John Moranda, 22, of 1236 West 50th street, and Anthony Kozubowski, 23, of 4934 Loomis street, a shipping clerk, when the bandits forced their way into the car.

They drove the group to Laflin and 53d streets. There Moranda and Kozubowski pushed the guns of two of the bandits to one side and started punching. The robbers leaped from the car. One fired two shots thru the open door, hitting Miss Wierzbicki. The robbers fled.

FALL FROM WINDOW FATAL.

Edward Bolan, 52 years old, 5538 South Ashland avenue, was killed last night when he fell from a window of the second story home of a friend, Stanley Kamen, 5212 South Justine street, whom he was visiting.

HITLER INSPECTS BLITZKRIEG TORN MAGINOT LINE

BERLIN, June 30 (AP).—Adolf Hitler made a personal inspection today of the Maginot line, the $500,000,000 system of fortifications that failed to save France.

The German high command said the chancellor examined "various heavily armed works of the Maginot line which were rendered incapable of resistance by new German weapons in the shortest time."

Hitler visited forts in the region of Mulhouse and upper Alsace, across the Rhine from Germany, in German occupied French territory.

CUBA PREPARES PLAN FOR LEAGUE OF THE AMERICAS

Predicts U. S. Entry Into War by Spring.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 30.—A five point program based primarily on the establishment of a western hemisphere league of nations as protection against European aggression will be presented to the second conference of the 21 Pan-American republics to be held here July 20.

Secretary of State Miguel Angel Campa, chairman of the Cuban delegation, in announcing the Cuban program, said he believed that the United States "will be forced by international events and complications to enter the war next spring," and asserted that "Cuba automatically will become the coveted prize of Germany and Italy."

Explains Cuba's Peril.

An attack on Cuba, he said, would come because it is the "most logical and advantageous base for effective attack against the United States. We must do everything possible to defend this Heligoland of the Americas."

Campa predicted that within 48 hours after the United States entered the war "all the western hemisphere republics will do the same."

Cuba's program for the conference also includes:

FIRST—A formal request that the United States immediately occupy all the European colonies in the western hemisphere as a measure of military and naval precaution against the possibility that the American republics later might need them when they enter the war against Germany and Italy. After the war is ended these possessions are to decide, by plebiscite, whether to be annexed to the United States or any of the western hemisphere republics or be given complete independence.

Seeks New Monroe Doctrine.

SECOND — An effective Monroe Doctrine for the entire western hemisphere—with all the republics effectively coöperating in its enforcement, benefits, and responsibilities—to be known as "The Doctrine of the New World."

THIRD—An effective system of international and financial coöperation and unanimous refusal to accept any of the economic advantages reported to have been offered by the Rome-Berlin axis to Uruguay, Argentina, Chile, and Brazil.

FOURTH—A unanimous declaration against the establishment of any form of government in the western hemisphere that is not the democratic and republican system and adoption of effective steps by all the nations to prevent such a move.

The program also includes various measures to prevent espionage and fifth column activities.

The sessions of the conference will be held in the national capitol, Campa said. Secretary of State Cordell Hull is expected to head the United States delegation.

BRITISH FLYERS DROP 24 BOMBS ON SWITZERLAND

BERNE, Switzerland, June 30 (AP).—Two bombing planes whose pilots apparently became lost or wanted to drop their load of explosives where they would do the least harm loosed 24 English trade-marked bombs today into peat bogs and forest foothills of the Swiss Alps. No casualties were reported.

The Swiss high command communique said two foreign planes crossed the Rhine river from Germany, continued to the Schwyz canton in central Switzerland, dropped the bombs, then headed west toward France.

Military observers expressed belief that the planes were British, whose pilots became lost on a raid aimed at southeastern Germany.

The bombs were described in the high command communique as a new type, British made 25 pound incendiary bomb—many of which failed to explode.

U. S. LINER GOES BACK FOR MORE HONGKONG YANKS

HONGKONG, July 1, Monday (AP).—The American liner President Coolidge, which turned back to Hongkong last night after leaving for Manila with a capacity passenger list, will remain until midnight tonight [11 a. m. Chicago time] to take aboard any more Americans desiring to leave this British crown colony. The President Coolidge returned on orders from the United States department of state, but Consul General Addison Southward said he had advised, rather than instructed, Americans to leave.

German Trucks Carry Belgians Home from Paris

PARIS, June 28 [Via Berlin] [Delayed].—Belgian refugees are being repatriated by German authorities. Trucks capable of transporting 35 persons and baggage call for them at an assembly point. With the caravan goes a kitchen truck with capacity to feed all. Many younger Belgians are picked up at Le Bourget by trucks that take them a large part of the way back to Belgium.

GOERING TAKES AUTO RIDE THRU PARIS STREETS

No. 2 Nazi Then Occupies Hotel Ritz Suite.

PARIS, June 28 [By airplane courier to Berlin — Delayed] (AP). — Smiling broadly, and resplendent in his white uniform, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, No. 2 Nazi, rode into Paris in an open car today on the anniversary of the signing of the Versailles treaty.

Café terraces were crowded, but there was little pomp about his visit and no demonstration. After his tour of the grand boulevards, Goering took a suite at the Hotel Ritz.

The German military government proclaimed the application of German criminal law to Paris, with penalties running up to death for possession of arms or broadcasting apparatus.

The decree provided that violations of Nazi law would be judged by military tribunals or special courts.

Armistice Terms Published.

Crimes listed included unauthorized relations with prisoners, issuance of anti-German tracts, participation in public gatherings or anti-German demonstrations, strikes or discharge of workers, listening to non-German broadcasts, and circulation of anti-German news.

Armistice terms by Germany and Italy were published for the Paris population.

"Altho very serious for us, the conditions by the reich do not sully French honor," said the Paris newspaper Le Matin.

Another newspaper, Les Dernieres Nouvelles, said that disarmament and occupation of France had put the country "in a position of neutrality." It urged "absolute correctness in our relations with representatives of the country which has conquered us."

"Let us do justice to them; they have not made life hard for citizens who respect their rules," the newspaper added. "And to allay our grief let us work without respite for the recovery of old Gaul, which has become suffering France."

Banks to Be Reopened.

German banking officials indicated to Paris bankers they would facilitate return of normal financial measures. Paris bankers said they were asked by the German officials to reopen their banks as soon as they could muster their staffs, and expressed a hope the Bank of France would operate.

French control of credit export was declared satisfactory by the Germans, who said its measures would be continued. Import and export of merchandise will be facilitated.

German money will be interchangeable with francs at the established rate of 20 francs to the mark. [The nominal value of the mark is 40 cents.]

The German "Kreditkasse," which opened quarters in Lloyds bank, is primarily for German army requirements, but authorities said arrangements may be made to advance credits in currency until the French banks are in operation.

600 REBELLIOUS JEWS SLAIN BY RUMANIAN TROOPS, NAZIS ASSERT

BERLIN, July 1, Monday (AP).—DNB, official German news agency, reported today that several hundred persons were killed yesterday in Galati, Rumania, when the Rumanian army quelled armed Jewish uprisings.

The German radio listed the number dead at about 600, with many more wounded. The radio said about 10 leaders of a demonstration yesterday morning were shot dead. Later, it said, about 2,000 persons, mostly Jews, arrived by train in Galati escorted by Rumanian soldiers.

The radio said these were mostly from Galati and Bucharest, and were being returned from nearby Bessarabia, where they had gone to apply for soviet citizenship in that newly ceded territory.

It said this crowd had fought Rumanian soldiers in Reni, Bessarabia, but was subdued and loaded onto the train. Arriving in Galati, the radio related, one man shot a Rumanian soldier and the whole group fled. Rumanian soldiers then encircled part of the town, shooting the fugitives with machine guns.

Belgians to Be Allowed to Take Jobs in Germany

BRUSSELS, June 30 by Radio (AP).—The German radio announced today that Belgians will be allowed to work in Germany and send up to two-thirds of the salary to their families. The announcement said there is a demand especially for skilled and unskilled labor, for miners, metal workers, welders, and textile workers.

WHEELER HOLDS 3D PARTY THREAT OVER DEMOCRATS

Demands Strong Plank Opposing War.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] predicted last night that a new and great antiwar party "will be formed for the 1940 political campaign unless the Democratic party adopts a peace plank in its Chicago convention as strong as the one Republicans at Philadelphia rejected. He spoke at a "keep America out of war" massmeeting in the Auditorium theater.

The rejected Republican plank against "shedding one drop of blood of sons of America in Asiatic or European war" which Wayland Brooks, Republican senatorial candidate from Illinois at one time had written into the Republican platform, was described by Wheeler as the kind of plank the Democratic convention must adopt if formation of a peace party is to be avoided.

Linked with Lewis.

Third party hints have linked Wheeler with John L. Lewis, Congress of Industrial Organization czar, and Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.]. Wheeler also is mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Wheeler asserted there must be more than Tweedledum and Tweedledee separating party peace planks during the coming presidential campaign.

"We, who want to keep the United States out of war, must see to it that the substance of the language rejected by the Republicans is unmistakably accepted by the Democratic party," Wheeler declared. "If neither party is willing to give this pledge, then a new and a great antiwar party will arise to challenge both old parties.

"Today people are not interested in whether you are a Republican or a Democrat. Witness Wendell Willkie, a Democrat, capturing the Republican nomination."

Assails Appointments.

Wheeler asserted that war makers had captured the Republican party and now are feverishly at work in their efforts to capture the Democratic party, which convenes in the Chicago Stadium on July 15. Quoting President Roosevelt's "I hate war" speech in 1936, Wheeler used the same words as reasons for opposing the appointments of Henry L. Stimson to be secretary of war and of Col. Frank Knox as secretary of the navy.

"I haven't changed. I hate war now," said Senator Wheeler.

"Both of these gentlemen are publicly avowed proponents of American intervention.

Issue Clearly Defined, He Says.

"The issue of 1940 is clearly defined so that all may know," said the Montana senator. "It is not a struggle between two schools of political thought, but a battle whose prize is America's manhood. In this battle you are not a Democrat or a Republican—you are for peace or war."

The Rev. Dr. Ernest F. Tittle, pastor of First Methodist church, Evanston, also appealed to the audience for American neutrality in European and Asiatic wars. Six national peace organizations coöperated in the mass meeting which was presided over by William Ayer McKinney.

MAYER'S SALARY CUT IN HALF, BUT STILL TOPS FILMS

Crosby Totals $410,000 from Two Studios.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—Next to Fort Knox, Ky., the biggest pot of gold rests in Hollywood, according to a list of salaries released tonight by the United States treasury.

Movie salaries continued to lead the country. Louis B. Mayer topped the pay list in 1938 for the second successive year, according to this second instalment on salary reports for that year. But Mayer's compensation of $688,369, including a bonus of $541,119, reported by Loew's, Inc., was just about half the $1,296,503 which he received in 1937.

Bing Crosby, radio crooner who made good in the movies, was the highest paid star in 1938, according to a compilation of the salaries paid by Paramount and Universal Pictures. This totaled $410,000—$260,000 from Paramount, as reported previously, and $150,000 from Universal.

Miss Colbert Tops Actresses.

Claudette Colbert topped the actresses with a combined salary of $426,944 paid by Paramount and M.-G.-M. This includes the earlier report on salaries paid her by Paramount. She moved Greta Garbo out of top position. Miss Garbo made $472,499 in 1937, but dropped to $272,000 in 1938.

Loew's, thru Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, its subsidiary, paid Wallace Beery $355,000. M-G-M salaries were included in Loew's reports. In all, Loew's paid 73 salaries of $75,000 or more in 1938.

$300,000 for Norma Shearer.

Cary Grant, who has been teamed with Miss Dunne, also piled up an impressive salary—$340,625—paid by RKO and Columbia Pictures.

Other movie salaries announced tonight were: Norma Shearer, $300,000; Frank Capra, director, $294,166; Robert Taylor, $184,833; Mervyn Le Roy, director, $300,000; Spencer Tracy, $212,000; Fred Astaire, $266,837.

200 CHURCHMEN URGE AMERICA: STAY OUT OF WAR

New York, June 30 [Special].—More than 200 prominent Protestant churchmen, in a statement issued today, called upon all Christians to speak and work for peace and "to keep open the channels of civil and religious freedom for all men."

The statement declared "that the best interests of the people of America and the cause of the Prince of Peace can best be served by steadfastly refusing to become involved in this war." Giving emphasis to its statement, the group recalled pronouncements made by leading religious groups at the close of the last war which were outspoken in their abhorrence of military force.

Among the leading ministers who signed the statement were the Rev. Dr. Charles F. Boss Jr., executive secretary, Commission of World Peace of the Methodist Church, Chicago; the Rev. Elbert N. Conover, Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, New York; the Rev. Dorr Diefendorf, former editor of the Christian Advocate; the Rev. H. E. J. Gratz, editor of the Epworth Herald, Chicago; the Rev. Dr. C. Franklin Koch, executive secretary, Social Missions of United Lutheran church, New York, and the Rev. Dr. Halford E. Luccock, professor at Yale Divinity school.

CALLS FOR 'BURST OF PATRIOTISM' AMONG BRITONS

SHREWBURY, England, June 30 (AP).—A call for a "burst of outraged patriotism, flaming like a furnace, thru which no invader, however mechanized, would be able to pass," was made tonight by Harold Nicolson, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of information. In the last 10 years, Nicolson warned, "we in this island have allowed our hearts to soften and our muscles to grow slack. We have been lazy, we have been optimistic," he declared. "We must now be rapid, angry, active, brave."

NEW DEAL FEAR OF WILLKIE IS BARED BY TALK

Some Believe Roosevelt Will Shun Challenge.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—The 1940 presidential election canvass is opening with the Republican leadership highly optimistic of victory.

Wendell Willkie.

The nomination of Wendell Willkie in Philadelphia has evoked a demonstration of virtually universal enthusiasm in the party. The belief pervades the party that he is the candidate supremely qualified to rouse the country to the necessity of driving the New Deal from power before it is too late and the leader best fitted to take the measure of President Roosevelt in the debate of the issues.

Republican leaders, surveying the situation since the nomination, are convinced that Willkie will command the support of a united Republican party and that he will receive the votes also of millions of conservative and other anti-New Deal Democrats.

Attitude Betrays Apprehension.

Democratic leaders, while professing unqualified optimism of Democratic victory, unconsciously betray doubts and apprehensions. Evidently the nomination of Willkie was bad news for the Democrats, even at the White House, where the President's grumpy refusal to comment contrasted strikingly with his satisfied and radiant reception of the news four years ago that Gov. Landon of Kansas was to be his opponent.

Some Democratic officials say they will not be surprised if Roosevelt declines renomination for a third term to avoid going up against the Willkie buzzsaw which wrought havoc among the New Dealers who tried conclusions with him in committee hearings.

The majority of the Democrats, however, are more confident than ever since the Philadelphia nominations that Roosevelt will accept renomination in Chicago. The party, they feel, will insist that Roosevelt run as the only Democrat with a chance of winning.

Need Roosevelt Coattails.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Pat Nash in Illinois, Frank Hague in New Jersey, Tammany in New York, and other Democratic bosses and thousands of local Democratic candidates whose only chance of victory is to ride in on the Roosevelt coattails will exert every possible influence to get Roosevelt to run.

The nomination of Willkie is a challenge Roosevelt cannot dodge without showing the white feather.

"Mr. Roosevelt," said Willkie, "is the champion New Dealer, the outstanding advocate of the philosophy which holds that the government's control over the individual shall be extended and intensified. That is what the New Deal means and it is the most vital issue of the national campaign ahead. With Mr. Roosevelt in the fight defending this philosophy we can obtain a clear cut verdict. If any other candidate is named the issue will be clouded. We would all rather beat the champ."

G. O. P. Support United.

The claim of the Republican leaders that the party is united in support of Willkie is not seriously disputed. The only ground for the contrary impression was the manifesto of 40 western congressmen issued during the convention against the nomination of Willkie. This opposition was based on Willkie's identification with the utilities interest.

There does not appear, however, to have been any substance to this opposition. Virtually all of the congressmen who issued the manifesto are already in line for Willkie. Senator John Thomas of Idaho, who announced he would not be a candidate for reelection next November if Willkie were nominated, has eaten his words, announced his candidacy and got Willkie's blessing.

Dr. Baer.

"We Germans know nothing of the existence of this so-called fifth column," he said. "Statesmen and generals have tried to excuse their mistakes and failures with the ghost of a fifth column. He who likes fairy tales may believe them."

Mayor Kelly declared his belief that Chicago's citizens of German descent "have faith in the perpetuation of our form of government and will fight for the protection of America in a showdown."

The celebration, attended by thousands, was sponsored by German-American societies. Music, choral singing, and athletic contests provided entertainment. Many children wore German peasant costumes.

CHINA TO FIGHT ON; HAS YEAR'S WAR SUPPLIES

CHUNGKING, China, June 30.—The Chinese are determined to fight on despite the heavy blow represented by the closing of the Indo-China frontier. Authoritative sources declare that sufficient supplies have accumulated to permit the Chinese armies to carry on operations on this year's scale for at least another year.

Meanwhile, efforts are being concentrated to augment this supply by increasing traffic over the Burma road. Severe limitations are being placed on the use of gasoline and small arsenals are being shifted nearer the frontier in order to cut down trucking.

China's war materials industries continue to produce appreciable amounts of arms and so far Japan's air bombardments have not vitally damaged an important plant.

POLICE AND FIRE OFFICIALS TO BE GUESTS AT SHOW

All in Chicagoland Are Invited on July 14.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Chiefs of police and fire departments thruout Chicagoland will be honored guests at the third annual Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show to be held in Soldiers' field July 14.

The fire and police chiefs will march in the grand opening parade, which will bring out the mighty water towers and aerial ladder trucks of the city fire department, and the speedy police squads with all their latest equipment for fighting criminals.

After the parade the visiting chiefs will be escorted to a section of the stands set aside for them. There they will be welcomed by the heads of the Chicago police and fire departments and the park district, which are sponsoring the thrill show in cooperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The chiefs' requests for tickets, however, should be made immediately. Because of the seating arrangements which must be planned, all requests for seats in the chiefs' section must be in THE TRIBUNE office by next Saturday.

The chiefs should make their requests on their official stationery or properly identify themselves in their letter. The letters should be addressed to Philip Maxwell, Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show, care CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Chicago officials say that the police and fire departments of Chicagoland combine with the city departments to make the metropolitan area the best protected in the nation against fire and crime. Volunteer and regular firemen and the suburban police frequently work shoulder to shoulder with the Chicago departments.

New methods developed in the Chicago fire department's training school and in the Chicago police department's crime laboratory are always available to the suburban officials. Valuable records of the city departments may also be consulted.

Tickets for the thrill show will go on advance sale to the public soon. The price will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

BRITISH SAY NAZIS DEMAND OUSTER OF KING HAAKON

LONDON, June 30 (AP).—Germany has threatened to put Norway "fully" under Nazi control and administration if the Norwegian parliament does not remove King Haakon and his refugee government, now in London, said an Exchange Telegraph [British news agency] dispatch from Goteborg, Sweden, today.

The dispatch stated that Joseph Terboven, German commissioner for Norway, had demanded that parliament be summoned to oust King Haakon and Johan Nygaardsvold, head of the refugee government.

The Goteborg newspaper Posten was reported as saying that the king had been asked to abdicate, and if a new cabinet is not formed, the Germans would take over complete administration.

TWO MORE SHIPS TORPEDOED, SAYS AMERICAN VESSEL

New York, June 30 (AP).—The American cargo-passenger ship Excalibur reported to Mackay radio that a British and a Canadian freighter were torpedoed tonight about 300 miles southwest of the Irish coast. The message said:

"British steamer Guido [3,921 tons], position latitude 48.03 north and longitude 11 west, also Canadian Zarian [4,781 ton] torpedoed at 6:30 p. m. [E. S. T.]."

Mackay radio said the Zarian radioed that she needed tugs immediately.

The Excalibur, en'route from Naples to New York, is believed near the Straits of Gibraltar with 250 American refugees aboard.

Two nights ago the Excalibur reported that a message from the "American ship Edgehill" said she had been torpedoed off Ireland. The torpedoing was not verified.

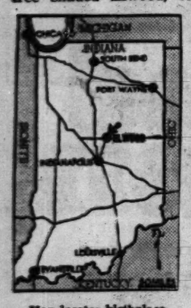
ELWOOD: WHERE THE SUN SHINES AFTER 20 YEARS

Once It Had Everything, Including the Willkies.

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Elwood, Ind., June 30.—Peaceful, tree shaded Elwood, on which the sun ceased to shine 20 years ago, is bright with glory again.



Map locates birthplace of Wendell Willkie.

Long ago Elwood began to vanish. When Wendell Willkie was born here, on Feb. 18, 1892, the fourth child of the august old real estate dealer and attorney known as the "Clarence Darrow of Madison county," the town had 15,000 inhabitants and 40 taverns.

It had a gas boom, with four holes drilled in every square block; a tin factory, a glass factory, a brick yard, a foundry, a box factory, and shovel, radiator, and lamp flue works. In the words of a native: "We had everything then."

It also had the Willkies—old Herman, the father, who wore a batwing collar, had more books than the public library, was city attorney, wrote the shrewdest $2,000 mortgage on his home the local bankers ever have seen, and graded the public school system.

Battle with the Schools."

Old Herman, dead these 10 years, had many victories—he won a case against the glass works, won the 1909 tin strike for the strikers and caused many judicial reversals—but his hardest fight was with the public schools. He substituted separate grades for the all-inclusive "A B C to allegebray" schoo' room.

Then there was Henrietta, the mother, Indiana's first woman lawyer who teamed up with Herman as "Willkie & Willkie" but did most of her work behind the scenes. When Herman had a difficult case, he brought it home, and he and Henrietta, a woman of strong mind and considerable intellect, would take opposing sides and argue it out in the quietude of their 6,000 volume library.

Henrietta was a large boned woman. She was an omnivorous reader—the day of her death, four months ago at the age of 79, a neighbor found her reading a child's book, "Rab and His Friends," on her porch.

House a Delight to Boys.

Her house was one of utter confusion, but a delight to the neighborhood boys who played with her four sons. Built in 1902, it had all the drab architectural impediments of that period—gables, scalloped wood on the upper story, and ornamental stained glass windows. The neighbors called it "very French."

It has passed out of Willkie's hands now. The great board fence that enclosed it when the Willkies built—the fence that rival gangs of boys stripped constantly—is gone. The gray house has been painted white, there is grass on the lawn, a grape arbor in back, and maples shading the stone porch, but no one who ever was in that house can forget it, or its fiery, unconventional household.

It had two stories, a basement, and an attic, but none was used for conventional purposes. The Willkies studied on the first floor, slept on the second, ate in the basement, and played in the attic. The attic, in the words of a playmate, "belonged to the whole neighborhood," and the dining room was used rarely.

Individuals and All Cooks.

No two Willkies ate at the same time. Each prepared his own meal in the basement, on a broken-down stove, and each ate at a long, wooden table beside it.

"They never had butter," one man recalled. "They bought lard in cans. The boys would say, 'come on down; let's eat,' and so help me, your rations would be a bunch of bananas, that can of lard, and a box full of sliced bread."

This is the house in which Wendell Willkie lived until he was 18 and went away to school, and to which he returned for a brief period after the world war. When the Willkies built it and moved in, the neighborhood was aghast. "Those Willkie boys here!" they cried.

For those Willkie boys—Fred, Robert, Wendell, and Ed—were anathema to the conventional respectability of a little Indiana town. They fought, they ran the five blocks to town four abreast, they rode farmer's fruit trees to earth. They tore around like wild Indians. They played football under the electric light until the curfew blew at 9 p. m. They had neither decorum nor repose.

One Rises to Defense.

Only one neighbor, Mrs. Lydia Gillespie, recalls happy dealings with them. She lives across the street, in a house bright with golden oak, and now, at 89, says gently: "They weren't bad. They were smart boys. They just couldn't keep still."

She was having her house cleaned the day the Willkies moved in, and some one chided her, saying: "It's no use for you to clean now, the Willkies have moved. They'll throw clods of dirt and everything."

They threw no dirt, she says, but their first move was into her husband's prized maples.

"So my husband went out," she recalls, her dim old brown eyes merry, "and says: 'Boys, what are you doing?' They said: 'Climbing.' One boy already was up a tree and another was going after him. 'Now boys,' he said, 'I don't climb my trees, and I don't want any one else to. I tell you, boys, you stay on your side and I'll stay on mine, and we'll get along fine. If you don't I'll climb your trees. How would you like that?'"

Rewarded from Pantry.

This appealed to the Willkies' sense of humor. They returned to the Gillespie home—but for cookies, not for climbing.

If any one then had prophesied good of the Willkie boys, or of Wendell in particular, the town would have shuddered. Wasn't he the boy who, with six others, broke into Miss Mary Cox's physiology room one night—Miss Cox, now 79, still teaches here—and stole her beloved one-armed, one-legged skeleton?

With 30 yards of cord ripped from the blinds, they knotted the skeleton's head into position, hung it high in the branches of a tree outside the school, and fastened the other end of the cord to a blind in the assembly hall. When the blind was raised next morning the skeleton rode grinning and creakingly into the midst of 400 students.

Rides High Before a Fall.

Wasn't Wendell Willkie the boy who climbed to the top of the town gas tank to paint his class numerals? When the policemen found him he was on the bos'n's seat busily at work with his brush.

Wasn't he the boy who, with George Dehority, now a banker, painted the school walk a brilliant scarlet one dark night? And, being caught, spent the next week scrubbing it clean while his schoolmates jeered in glee?

That was Wendell Willkie, tall, gangling bundle of irrepressible energy, whom only one teacher, Phil Carleton Bing, professor of history and better known as "Pat," thought much of.

It was Prof. Bing, a little red headed Irishman, now dead, who caused a metamorphosis in the Willkies' third son. He got hold of him one night and told him, in the words of a classmate, to "cut out the monkey business." He even induced him to join the Episcopal church, and joined with him.

No one believed that the metamorphosis would be permanent—but no one believed then that 32 years later the little Episcopal church would be used only for meetings of Townsend plan advocates, that the town would have lost 4,000 inhabitants and virtually all its industry, and that only the WPA, hollyhocks, and the cannery would flourish.

Certainly no one believed then that Wendell Willkie would bring the sun back to Elwood. Why, just 21 years ago, 10 years before he took on a $75,000 a year job, he stood in the bank here and said: "Well, I can live on $10 a week if I have to. I won't like it, but I've done it, and I can do it again."

They believe it now.

WILLKIE, RESTED BY CRUISE, GETS TO N. Y. ON YACHT

New York, June 30 (AP).—Rested by a week-end cruise, Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, returned to New York harbor tonight aboard the yacht of Roy Howard, publisher.

After spending the night on the yacht at an East river anchorage, Willkie will return to his office for a press conference and to resign his $75,000 a year post of president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation.

He will confer here Wednesday with a subcommittee of the Republican national committee regarding selection of a national party chairman to conduct his campaign. Willkie then may take a short vacation before delivering his formal acceptance address at the high school in Elwood, Ind., his boyhood home.

FALL OF WORKER ALLIANCE TOLD BY RELIEF CHIEFS

Top Leaders of Radical Group Quit Posts.

The Workers' alliance, once a potent radical influence among the unemployed and recognized in some quarters as a bargaining agent for WPA workers, is rapidly disintegrating. Some of its top leaders have quit. In rural districts especially its followers are deserting.

This is the substance of reports received from relief officials. They said the lack of recent activity by the Workers' alliance speaks for itself, and that both the national organization and its Illinois branch are collapsing.

David Lasser, who had headquarters in Washington, D. C., has resigned as national president. Altho he said he quit because of domination by a "political group"—which he did not deny was the communist party—Lasser in 1937 represented the alliance at the Moscow celebration of the 20th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

Hunger March Leader Quits.

Herbert Benjamin has given up his national vice presidency. He led the first "hunger marches" on Washington in 1931 and 1932. Last year he admitted before a congressional committee that he had been a member of the communist party for 18 years.

Gilbert Lang, head of the Illinois branch, has disappeared, relief officials said. Lang was brought here from New York in February, 1938, after Lasser and Benjamin had visited Chicago. His leadership started with a spectacular strike of 6,700 WPA workers at Chicago airport.

Two years ago the alliance, with headquarters in New York, claimed a membership of 800,000. Dues, fees, and contributions totaled $56,783 in 14 months at about that time, Lasser once testified.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt became an honorary member of the alliance June 7, 1939, after addressing delegates to a meeting sponsored by the organization.

Cause of Collapse Listed.

Relief officials listed several causes for the collapse of the alliance:

1. Congress and state legislatures in the last year have reduced Work Projects administration and relief appropriations despite efforts of the alliance. Members took this to mean the organization had lost its power and there was no use in belonging to it.

2. Drastic changes in the communist party line or policies have made it difficult to hold members, let alone recruit new ones. Aggression against Finland largely shattered belief in the communist claim that it stood for peace.

3. Col. F. C. Harrington, national WPA administrator, did not extend the welcome to alliance officials obtained from his predecessors, Harry Hopkins, now secretary of commerce, and Aubrey Williams, now head of the National Youth administration.

Air Base Strike Recalled.

Also, it was said, there may have been fear by members that past deeds of the alliance would bring down the wrath of a defense-conscious nation. Last July approximately 1,600 WPA workers struck on a project to improve Scott field, central army air base near Belleville, Ill.

A blow to the alliance in Illinois was the resignation last year of Frank W. McCulloch as executive secretary. McCulloch got out because, he charged, the organization was communist-controled. He had many followers, who formed the Illinois Workers Security federation.

Son Slays Man Who Hit Father

Raymond Sobol and son, Raymond Jr., 19, after youth had shot and fatally wounded a man who hit father.

Aftermath to Quarrel

Raymond Sobol Jr., 19 years old, was held by the Hudson avenue police for an inquest hearing today into the fatal shooting of George Sawalish, 30 years old, 3909 Altgeld street. Sawalish was shot by the youth early yesterday outside a tavern at 1318 Webster avenue following a celebration of his sixth wedding anniversary.

According to the police, an argument started in the tavern between the Sawalish party and Sobol's father, who is a bartender there. During the quarrel the elder Sobol was struck over the head with a bar stool. The party left, but Sawalish returned later to get a pet dog that was left behind.

Young Sobol said that he heard Sawalish pounding on the front door of the tavern which had been closed. He seized a shotgun and left his home over the tavern and went to see what the pounding was for. He said that when he approached Sawalish the latter started toward him and he fired at him. The charge struck Sawalish in the side and he died a short while later in Alexian Brothers hospital.

REPORT 5 LOST IN TEXAS AFTER WEEK-END FLOOD

Schulenburg, Tex., June 30 (AP).—Violent flood waters born of week-end cloudbursts along the watersheds of the Colorado and Lavaca rivers swept thru the fertile southeast Texas area today, pouring into business districts of isolated towns and trapping many residents who took refuge in trees and on housetops.

Several persons told C. S. Morgan, Yoakum newspaper man, they saw two families swept down the Lavaca river in their homes at Hallettsville. They gave the names of those missing as Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stanzel and daughter, Marie, and Mr. and Mrs. John Sorcek. County Judge Paul Feitsch of Hallettsville estimated that at least a dozen others were missing. More than 50 were rescued from housetops.

The flood, which struck at 7 a. m. after rainfall of 12 inches in 12 hours, had receded this afternoon and the river was back within its banks.

City officials appealed by radio for help, and boats reportedly were being rushed from towns outside the immediate danger zone. From a few miles below Austin to Columbus, the Colorado struck at every community along its banks—Bastrop, Smithville, La Grange, and Columbus.

FAIL TO UNCOVER TRACE OF INDIANA PRISON FUGITIVE

Indiana authorities still were without a trace yesterday of the whereabouts of William Denton, a life term murderer, who escaped Thursday from a parole officer who was returning him to Indiana state prison in Michigan City.

Altho Alfred Dowd, warden of the prison, insists on waiting for a written report on the circumstances of the escape before taking action on it, the parole officer from whom Denton fled has told the story of the getaway. The parole officer is Frank Hildenbrand, a veteran worker in the prison.

Hildenbrand was returning Denton from Hazard, Ky., where the prisoner was recaptured after escaping June 15. He said he did not handcuff Denton on the automobile trip back because he had forgotten the keys to his handcuffs. He said the car stopped for a traffic light near Michigan City and that Denton leaped out and fled. Hildenbrand said he pursued the fugitive, but was unable to catch him.

MR. CONSUMER: YOU BEGIN TO PAY NEW TAX TODAY

Defense Levies Hit Liquor, Movies, Cigarets.

tional $319,000,000 or so in 1941 and about $580,000,000 each succeeding year for four years.

With the normal 4 per cent tax rate remaining, here are some examples of what moderate income earners would pay:

Annual income.	Present tax.	New rates.
SINGLE PERSONS.
$ 800	None	None
1,000	None	$ 4.40
2,000	$60.00	83.60
MARRIED PERSONS. [No Additional Dependents.]
2,000	None	None
2,500	None	11.00
4,000	44.00	70.40
MARRIED PERSONS WITH ONE CHILD. [Extra Exemption $400.]
$2,400	None	None
3,000	None	13.20
4,000	28.00	52.80

[The figures above are based on an earned income deduction of 10 per cent, which still will be allowed, but do not include such permissible deductions to charity, bad debts, etc., which an actual taxpayer might make.]

Must Pay Higher Surtax.

On net incomes up to $6,000, the normal tax rate of 4 per cent will be continued, but increased surtaxes will begin at $6,000 and continue up to $100,000. The rise at $6,000 is from 5 to 6 per cent; at $90,000, from 55 to 56. The biggest jump, 13 per cent, occurs in the $44,000 to $45,000 bracket.

Following are examples of existing and proposed surtax rates on individual incomes, with the total surtax given for the higher amount in each bracket:

Amt. of surtax net inc. [thous.]	Existing law. Percentage.	Total surtax.	Proposed sched. Percentage.	Total surtax.
6-8	5	160	6	200
10-12	7	440	10	560
20-22	15	1,560	24	2,360
44-45	27	6,350	40	9,380
90-100	55	30,000	56	36,780
100-150	58	59,000	58	65,780
5,000 up	75		75

[The fact that the amount of tax increases in the $100,000 to $150,000 range, tho the surtax rate is not increased, is due to the fact that exemptions are lowered and the 10 per cent "super tax" is added all along the line.]

Corporations will help carry the load, as an extra 1 per cent is added to each bracket of their income tax rates. The corporation levies will now begin at 19 per cent for concerns making more than $25,000 a year. Estate and gift taxes also are increased 10 per cent.

Altogether, the new taxes are expected to yield 4 billion 692 million dollars in five years. The proceeds will be used to pay off 4 billion dollars in defense loans. To permit the issuance of defense bonds the act raised the federal debt limit from 45 to 49 billion dollars.

2 DELICATESSEN STORES BOMBED; PROBE MILK SALE

Police yesterday were investigating the bombing of two northwest side delicatessen stores early in the day in what was believed to be a flare-up of violence against sale of nonunion milk.

The first explosion was at a store owned by Michael Shanahan at 5140 Irving Park road, where a black powder bomb tore out the front door and smashed windows, causing damage estimated at $200. Shanahan and his wife and two children, who were asleep in the rear of the store, were not injured.

The other bombing occurred 45 minutes later at a store at 4450 Diversey avenue, where a similar bomb did $150 damage. Police said they were informed both stores sold products of nonunion dairies.

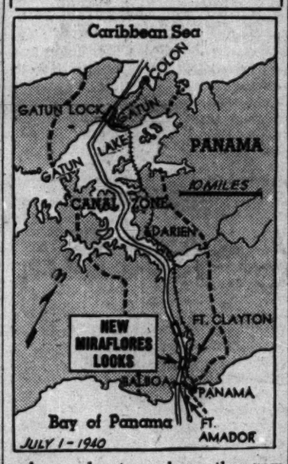
Start New Locks



Arrow locates where the new Miraflores locks in the Panama canal will be built.

PANAMA CITY, Panama, June 30 (AP).—The dredge Las Casadas will lift the first 15 cubic yard scoop of mud tomorrow for the approach channel to the third set of locks for the Panama canal.

The new Miraflores locks, authorized by congress last August, will cost $227,000,000, about three-fourths of the original cost of the entire canal, and will be wider, longer, and deeper than the first two sets, which were designed more than 30 years ago. Work is expected to last six years.

The new locks will be 140 feet wide, 1,200 feet long, and 45 feet deep. The old locks are 110 feet wide, 1,000 feet long, and 40 feet deep.

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 27.

1. The highest priced canned salmon is usually the Red White Pink Orange.
2. Which of the following is the most surefooted Lamb Calf Kid Colt?
3. In music the letters F-A-C-E are the names of the Treble Lines Treble Spaces Bass Lines Bass Spaces.
4. Pineapples grow on Trees on Vines on Plants Underground.
5. The combination of inks most typical of bookkeeping is Blue and Red Black and Blue Green and Red Black and Red.
6. The industrial activity of a nation is partly indicated by the amount of steel which it produces. I have listed below the five outstanding nations in Europe with their last year's outputs of steel, expressed in gross tons. Try to match the output with the country to which it belongs. You get one point for each correct matching. By way of comparison, moreover, you might be interested in knowing that the output of the United States was 46,750,000 gross tons last year. A gross ton contains 2,240 pounds.

—— Italy	[a] 24,500,000 gross tons
—— United Kingdom	[b] 2,300,000 gross tons
—— Germany	[c] 17,500,000 gross tons
—— Russia	[d] 8,400,000 gross tons
—— France	[e] 13,500,000 gross tons

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

FIGHT SECRET HEARINGS FOR KNOX, STIMSON

Washington, D. C., June 30 (AP).—Congress will reconvene tomorrow after a week's recess amid indications of a heated contest over senate confirmation of President Roosevelt's nominations of Col. Frank Knox to be secretary of the navy and Henry L. Stimson to be secretary of war.

Both David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the senate naval committee, and Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate military committee arranged to call their groups together Tuesday morning to hear the two Republicans testify concerning their views on United States policy and the European war.

Walsh announced that the naval committee would meet behind closed doors and immediately encountered opposition to such procedure from members of the committee.

Altho the military committee has reached no final decision on procedure, Sheppard said the Stimson hearing also would be closed.

OPEN TESTIMONY TODAY IN JURY FIX TRIAL OF 4

Testimony in the jury fix trial of Attorney George Crane and three co-defendants will begin today before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge James F. Fardy. On trial with Crane are James Creed, superintendent of city dumps; John Howe, a former state policeman who is under a robbery sentence, and Sam Orlando, 11th ward Democratic politician. The defendants are accused of attempting to fix the jury which acquitted Orlando and Joseph Vinci in a vote fraud case last Dec. 20.

FIVE KITTY DAVIS GIRLS WILL FACE CHARGES TODAY

Five girls and three men who were arrested early yesterday in the Kitty Davis cocktail lounge at 245 South Wabash avenue are scheduled to appear today in the Woman's court. The arrests were made by Sergt. Frank O'Sullivan and a squad from Commissioner Allman's office.

The girls arrested gave the following names: Mrs. Kay Bradley, Miss Anita Bennett, Miss Ethel Larson, Miss Kitty Boyd, and Mrs. Betty Fackler. They were charged with operating a gambling game because they played "Bingo"—high dice win but the house wins all ties—with the customers for stakes running up into the dollars.

George Stephens, alias George Davis, husband of Kitty Davis, and a bartender, Frank De Dalvio, were charged with selling liquor to minors. A customer, Stephen Meredith, 6748 South Campbell avenue, was charged with resisting a police officer.

Sergt. O'Sullivan said it was a routine raid—that the place was frequented by too many minors.

MAIN N.Y. AIRPORT REAPS DIVIDENDS BY ACCESSIBILITY

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.

New York, June 30.—New York's main airport is more conveniently located than is Chicago airport. Superhighway improvements, which are under way and are not just talked about, will increase New York's superiority in plane transportation. These facts were established in a survey completed in the Tribune's road car.

Trial drives between State and Madison streets in Chicago and Chicago airport—a distance of 10.8 miles—average 40 minutes 15 seconds. The bus from the Palmer House ticket office allows 50 minutes for the trip.

From the Grand Central station in mid-Manhattan, across the street from a new central airline ticket office, the Tribune road car rolled to the 40 million dollar La Guardia field—9.3 miles by the most pleasant route—in 29 minutes 40 seconds. John Carey, who operates the airline limousines, said his schedule calls for 27 minutes.

Plan 16 Minute Schedule.

"After the first of the year," he said, "a tunnel under the East river and a new superhighway to the airport will give us a 15 or 16 minute schedule between the field and the heart of the metropolis.

"In know the Chicago transportation problem. I studied it for the American and the United airlines. The only way Chicago can compete with the convenience of New York's terminal facilities is to get a lake front airport."

The Queens midtown tunnel, which he referred to, is a 58 million dollar construction job. It will be completed in September. The new superhighway link between this tunnel and the new airport is to be completed about Jan. 1.

Trip Safer and More Pleasant.

In addition to saving time for passengers, mail, and express, the trip to the airport here is more pleasant and safer than in Chicago. Seven-eighths of a mile from the Grand Central station the driver is on a $10,700,000 section of the East river drive, opened to traffic on June 19.

This water front facility is comparable with Chicago's outer drives. At two points, however, the design is radically different. Between 56th and 59th streets and between 81st and 89th streets the engineers were pinched for right of way so there they curved the roadways into a triple deck structure somewhat like double decked Wacker drive.

The bottom deck is for north bound traffic, the middle deck is for south bound, and the top is a promenade with playgrounds for "dead end kids" such as have been publicized on the stage and in the movies.

Drive Leads Across Bridge.

The East river drive leads to the 60 million dollar Triborough bridge [toll 25 cents] for a 45 mile an hour drive with safety into Grand Central parkway, a depressed superhighway with a continuous grade separation for three traffic lanes in each direction.

This takes one to a parking area with a capacity of 5,000 automobiles at the new airport built by filling a square mile of Flushing bay, just as it has been advocated that a lake front airport should be built in Chicago.

"And it certainly should be built on Chicago's lake front," said Ralph S. Damon, vice president in charge of operations for the American Airlines, during a lunch in a cafeteria in his company's hangars here. "It would save 30 minutes in the trip to the airport from loop or from points convenient to the outer drives.

Important Time Factor.

"Thirty minutes is important to persons, mail, and express traveling by air or they wouldn't be traveling by air. To save this much flying time from the present Chicago airport to Detroit, Mich., for example, we would have to increase the cruising speed of our planes from 180 miles an hour to 270 miles an hour.

"From a commercial and a national defense standpoint Chicago needs an additional port. There are times now when traffic over the Chicago field saturates the air. In time of stress, there will be an increase in this traffic.

"The present traffic would warrant our using the 63d street and Cicero avenue field solely for passengers, mail, and express going thru Chicago. The lake front port would be used by traffic originating in or destined to Chicago.

Defense Needs Cited.

"From a national defense standpoint—well, I'm no military expert altho the army has been doing a lot of consulting with me lately. It's obvious, however, that Chicago should have a second airport for use should one be closed by sabotage or attack.

"Furthermore, a field surrounded by water would be difficult to capture and difficult for an enemy to hold, judging from newspaper descriptions of Hitler tactics."

Pending construction of a lake front port, Chicago airline customers dodge pedestrians, tangle with trucks and street cars, and miss and get caught by traffic lights in an automobile trip that detracts much from the convenience, speed, comfort, and pleasure of air travel.

Compare Air Fields

Map of New York region (above) indicates the accessibility of the new air field to mid-Manhattan as compared (lower map) with the time required to reach Chicago airport from the loop. Lower map also shows how this could be overcome by a lake front airport in Chicago.

ALIEN SHOOTS 2 AFTER TAUNTS ON CITIZENSHIP

Two men were shot and seriously wounded yesterday during a drinking brawl by an alien who said they had taunted him because he was not an American citizen. The shooting occurred in a garage behind 3759 South Halsted street.

The victims were William Coolahan, 42 years old, 4601 Emerald avenue, who was shot in the head and above the heart, and Thomas Ritchie, 52, of 3547 Union avenue, who was wounded in the left side. Both were taken to the Bridewell hospital.

Edward Rutkauskas, 23, of 3907 South Halsted street, confessed the shooting. He told Assistant State's Attorney Francis T. McCurrie he shot both men with a .22 caliber pistol because of their taunts. He said he came here from Lithuania three years ago and has not taken out citizenship papers.

Ritchie told police he did not take part in the quarrel but went into the garage when he heard loud voices as he was passing. He said Rutkauskas turned the gun on him after shooting Coolahan.

SEEK MORE JOBS IN CHICAGO FOR NEGRO WORKERS

A massmeeting sponsored by the Chicago Urban league will discuss the employment problem of the city's Negro population tonight in the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Park way.

Belford V. Lawson, an attorney from Washington, D. C., will be the principal speaker. Other speakers include Earl B. Dickerson, president of the league chapter here, and A. L. Foster, executive secretary.

League officials assert Negroes are not being employed as quickly as the current rise in industrial activity warrants, and that the number of Negroes on relief and on Work Projects administration jobs is far above their proportion to the whole population. The Urban league has placed thousands of Negroes since it was organized in 1916.

BEACHES OPEN FOR SUMMER SEASON TODAY

The park district's 12 beaches and outdoor swimming pools in 38 parks will open today for the summer season, George T. Donoghue, parks superintendent, announced yesterday. The board of education at the same time will open 23 high school pools for the use of boys and girls 10 to 18 years old, according to James B. McCahey, board president.

Approximately 250 lifeguards, selected after tests in swimming, first aid, beach procedure, boatsmanship, and resuscitation, will be on duty. They will attempt to maintain the park district's 1939 record of no fatalities. Last year 18,314,467 bathers used the park district's pools and beaches.

The high school pools will be open from noon to 4 p. m. Monday thru Friday.

MILITARY SHOW THRILLS 60,000 AT FINAL NIGHT

A thrill a minute was given last night to 60,000 spectators at the second and final performance of the military show presented by the Illinois National Guard in Soldiers' field. The total attendance for the performances last night and Saturday night exceeded 120,000, guard officials said.

Nearly 10,000 guardsmen and 900 mechanized units participated. The big event was the mimic blitzkrieg in which combat cars, tanks, airplanes, and infantry men went thru seemingly realistic action.

The show, the third annual event of its kind, was sponsored by the Illinois National Guard association. Profits will be used for recreational and athletic equipment for guard units.

A NEW YEAR BEGINS.

Today starts a new year in government accounting. Rearmament in the new fiscal year will be certain to run the total expenditures of the national government to a figure never before equaled except in the year when we were fighting the war in Europe and financing several of the belligerents who otherwise would have been obliged to give up.

But altho rearmament will provide a convenient excuse for the billions of outgo in the year which starts today, it is unavailing to explain the record of the governmen in the year just closed. The huge military authorizations were not even proposed by the President until two months ago. The grants since made by congress were of money to be spent starting with the new year, and some of the expenditures for warships cannot be made for a number of years. The go ernment, as the President said, has military equipment "on order," but that isn't paid for until it is delivered.

Despite the fact that the outgo hadn't even started on the preparedness program, expenditures in the year which just closed amounted to more than 9½ billion dollars. It beats by about a half billion dollars the record breaking figure of the year before. It is 50 per cent more than in the first full year of Mr. Roosevelt's administration. It is about 2½ times the rate of expenditure thru the long period of prosperity before 1932.

There can be no question but that many of the billions spent last year were wasted. The main objective was to spend money; if some essential purpose was served that was quite incidental. "We deliberately spent more than the government's income," Mr. Morgenthau said in one of his few formal addresses. And even in his budget message last January Mr. Roosevelt stated that the government had to spend more than was necessary to promote recovery and keep our people from becoming bankrupt. That, incidentally, is r theory denounced by every reputable economist.

When Mr. Roosevelt took office the national debt was 21 billion dollars. It is now close to 45 billion dollars. In the same interval taxes have been increased enormously, and more now is collected from the people than ever before. Such a volume of debt and taxes would be a burden in any event, but if that had been the price of the country's insurance against attack the load could have been borne more readily. As it is we have spent the money and must carry the debt, and have yet to provide for our defense.

No more graphic presentation of the Roosevelt follies can be made than to recite the figures in the government's financial statement for the year just closed: Nearly 10 billions paid out, nearly 4 billions of it borrowed, and the national defense shamefully neglected.

A PROPHECY IN 1926.

Fourteen years ago Hugh A. Drum, then a brigadier general and assistant chief of staff of the United States army, made the following statement before the house military affairs committee:

"Personally, I believe that aviation is of extreme importance in national defense; I feel that that importance has grown ever since the world war. Speaking particularly about the army, I feel it has replaced considerable of our coast defense conceptions and material. I feel further that it is going to supplement very strongly the artillery that is employed with the army in a land battle.

"I know from one or two actual incidents in war [and I claim some vision] that the bombing plane will be able quickly to grasp a situation on the battlefield and, by its speed and ability to carry a limited number of bombs, it will be able to meet a fleeting situation that even artillery cannot meet with all its accuracy, and I foresee in the future a replacement of some of our heavier land artillery in the ground battle by the airplane."

Lieut. Gen. Drum, now commander of the 1st army, had the courage to put his vision on record in 1926. For once a prophet can be honored in his own time.

Incidentally, Gen. Drum's 1926 statement summarizes fairly well the conservative military opinion of the value of aircraft in the present war. In the battles of Flanders and France the Nazi air force was most effective when it operated in coördination with ground forces, rather than when on independent missions. The coming battle of Britain may, of course, tell a different story.

ITALIAN ARMISTICE TERMS.

Italy's armistice terms to France were almost as modest as its military operations in the brief war with the already defeated nation. Frenchmen during the armistice will not be obliged to see much of Italian uniforms. The occupied region is a sliver along the Italian frontier. There are demilitarization provisions, but the Italians are not rubbing the wounds to keep them open and smarting.

The inspired Italian newspapers cried havoc and no pity, but Mussolini did not even show his fac- at the armistice negotiations. Did he recall that he had fought by the side of Frenchmen? He didn't take a triumph or lug a few of the conquered in chains along his new Appian way. Il Duce may have thought it wise to take out some reinsurance. These are armistice terms, not peace terms. There may be a lot of war between the two. Before Italy can cash in and take its profit Great Britain must be beaten or persuaded to make a peace which abandons continental Europe and the colonies of continental Europe to Rome-Berlin dictates.

What if neither event should happen? Mussolini might be facing a resurrected France. That would be an awkward situation for a man who had been very tough when France was down and out. It would be bad enough in any case, but horrid if there were a blazing hatred.

TO BE FOUGHT OUT ON THIS LINE.

Mr. Willkie, in his appearance before the Republican convention as it was about to adjourn, said that he expected to conduct a crusading, aggressive, fighting campaign to arouse a common purpose in the American people and a determination that their way of life should not pass from them. In the simplest terms, that is the issue of the 1940 campaign. The New Deal proposes to destroy this way of life. The New Dealers have sat in judgment upon it and have declared it a failure. In pursuance of their policy of changing it they have endeavored to make it a failure.

The intentions of the present administration can be easily proved. Most of them are confessed and the documentary evidence is available. Such a campaign as the Republican nominee proposes to make should leave no voter in doubt. The choice can be made with open eyes. Mr. Roosevelt, in his closing speeches in the 1932 campaign and in his first message to congress, declared that the debts and deficits of the federal government, if continued, meant the destruction of private enterprise and of our economic, political, and social order.

The nation, he said, could not survive a continuance of spending which laid its destructive weight upon every man's back, deprived him of the means of making his living, and would throw him upon the street hunting work which could not be found. Those remarks have been repeated often, but not by the man who made them in 1932 and early in 1933. They were true then and they are true now. But the man who warned the country has just recently required congress to raise the debt limitation because he has already exceeded it.

Mr. Roosevelt adopted the ruinous policy and the Republicans can prove that he and his New Deal associates did so because they desired to destroy the private enterprise and the freedom which the chief of the New Deal said could not survive the policies he once condemned. He condemned them to gain office. He adopted them to continue in it. The Democratic party as he has remade it and as he controls it will gather in Chicago to applaud and indorse, not the man who eight years ago pointed out the road to ruin, but the man who for seven years has hustled the nation along that road.

The Republican party accuses this man of the intent to do what he said would be done if the country was forced to endure what he has forced upon it.

Mr. Roosevelt has denounced dictators and he has followed in their footsteps. He has condemned them in Europe and imitated them in America. He has tried to establish here the conditions which produced them there. He has chained free enterprise while pretending to release it. He has spoken for peace and he has invited war. He knows what the consequences of his policies will be and has said that he knew, but he has pursued them. He takes advice only from men who have declared that the American system, the American way of life, is a failure. They propose to make it over in the form of the autocracies they profess to abhor.

The Republicans can prove that this is not a record of inconsistency, blundering, and stupidity, but is a record of intentional subversion of a form of government and of a free economy which the New Dealers hate. They hate it and show their hatred in the angry words they use in talking of it and of the people who are trying to preserve it. They prove that they detest it and that they intend to destroy it. They are already on their way. They are completing their eighth year of throwing against it the debts, deficits, and taxes which Mr. Roosevelt said would destroy it.

If they could add war to the destructive economic forces they have released it might be barely possible to rescue this country in the time remaining for a change of administration. They have sought to make the usual political practices of the country odious. They have endeavored to picture opposition as opprobrious. They have tried to weaken the Republican party as it returns to formidable form by winning away men who had been given rewards and honors by that party. Already they have undermined the free institutions of the country, they have impaired its liberties and taken away its privileges, and they now try to break down its protective political processes.

The record is plain against them. Purposes and motives are revealed. Documents, confessions, fact, and evidence are all available, and the indictment can be read to people who will understand. Such a campaign will be made by the Republican party, which has not been charmed into acceptance of the communist manifesto as a substitute for the constitution of the United States.

LET BROOKLYN COLLEGE HAVE AN R. O. T. C. UNIT.

[New York Sun.]

Last January the faculty council of Brooklyn college rejected a petition from students that a voluntary unit of the Reserve Officers Training corps be established there. At the time the board of higher education was acquiescent; at least, it took no public action to the contrary. Enough military history has been written since then to explain the change in the attitude of the board, which now requests the Brooklyn college faculty to reconsider its position. Charles H. Tuttle, whose resolution to that effect was adopted by the board this week, pointed to the "grave national emergency" and to the consequent need of "coöperation in the immediate upbuilding of means of national defense."

Unless the faculty acts promptly to alter its position it may find that voluntary military training is no longer an issue. The feeling is growing that every youth who enjoys the advantages of living in the United States—including those who accept the privilege of a college education at public expense—should without quibble be ready to come to the country's defense. The public is getting impatient with the pseudo-intellectualism which led a majority of the Brooklyn college faculty five months ago to assert that military training is not "appropriate" to a liberal arts college.

"O, MY PROPHETIC SOUL!"

For a literary forecast of the military tank, see "The Land Ironclads," a short story by H. G. Wells, first published in the Strand Magazine on Dec. 30, 1903. It was reprinted in a collection of Wells' tales of scientific fantasy in 1929 [Doubleday-Doran].

This story describes a battle between an army which is completely satisfied with itself in regard to physical prowess, training, and equipment, and another which is supposed to be composed largely of anemic, city bred fellows, unaccustomed to outdoor exercise. Army No. 1 sounds as if it might be English, after the seasoning of the Boer war; the other fellows are merely Wellsian supermen.

Comes a surprise attack with armored machines, followed by cyclists; and army No. 1 is shot to pieces and captured in a few hours. But even when bagged, its officers and men are slightly contemptuous of their conquerors, who haven't fought according to the rule books.

Wells' tanks are not according to the modern design. They are built on a "pedirail" principle, with stumpy metal legs, resembling elephants' feet, mounted on wheels. They are apparently steam engined; at any rate, Wells speaks of their puffing and emitting steam.

Another piece of pre-world war prophecy in fiction which is interesting in the light of current events is "When William Came," a short novel by Saki [H. H. Munro], published in 1913. Its scene is London, immediately after an imaginary conquest of England by Germany. Britain has become a province of the German empire, and its easygoing people are tamely adapting themselves to this new order of things.

There are no horrors and strokes of melodrama in "When William Came." The book is in a light mood of social satire; but there is a sharp edge to Saki's graceful style. It was directed against a self-satisfied, pleasure seeking tendency in the English upper classes.

When the war that Munro foretold came, he enlisted in the ranks. He died in service, as a corporal. The saying, "No more privacy than a goldfish," usually attributed to Irvin Cobb, was originated by Saki in 1903.

IN OTHER LANDS.

Over my homeland, the moon still beams;
I have my work, and I have my dreams;
I have my treasures to love and keep,
And when I am weary, I can sleep.

But other women, in other lands
Are forced to labor with unused hands;
Are made to walk where they would not go,
And to learn dread things that they should not know.

They cannot gaze at a starlit sky
With calm delight. How long can I?

Portals of Destiny: A Dream.

How large the room was I could not tell, for the walls were lost in shadow. But the ceiling was low, except at its center, where it curved into a dome, made of glass, which showed a fragment of midnight sky. Beneath it sat a woman. The soft, downward light painted lovely shadows upon her face. Her robes were of moonlight, and her hair was silver. On each finger she wore a star. When she spoke her voice was the breeze of the night:

"I am Dreams. When I close my eyes the world sleeps. Memory is my brother. My eyes are the dreams of sleep, but these stars are the dreams of Life." And placing her pale, jeweled hands on my brow, she said: "Dream and forget, or fulfill a destiny."

Then I passed thru a doorway of shadows, into a similar room, where sat a woman whose dress was made from the threads of the rainbow. Her hair was gold, and she wore sandals of gold. Her bare arms held a harp, which she plucked with slim fingers. When she spoke her voice was the voice of the birds and the streams and the forests!

"I am Music. Memory is one string of my harp, the others are things unknown to the world. When I play the world is at peace. Listen and forget, or fulfill a destiny."

Again I passed thru a doorway of shadows, into a similar room, where sat a woman in garments of green. Her hair was black, and her sandals were white. Her eyes were closed. And when she spoke her voice held the essence of all color.

"I am Art. Memory is my brother. What I see the world cherishes." And opening her eyes, she said: "Look and forget, or fulfill a destiny."

And so I passed thru a doorway of shadows into the outside world, where the sun dimmed my sight, and the sea drowned all sound, and the only dreams I dreamt were those of sleep. E. B.

THE GENTLE ESSAYIST.

[Charles Lamb, 1775-1834.]

The room he sat in, like an airy keep,
With Gothic windows and a city view,
And burnished volumes shelved in niches deep,
The glimmering hearth with double blazes burned;
Of wisdom with expressive skill adorned;
A cupboard crystal filled; a leather-bound
And massive India ledger on the floor;
And many pages written and unwrit
Scattered from chairs and tables to the door
Where thru warm welcome breathed to come and sit.
The dweller of this sanctum, still in bloom,

Beer from Davy Jones' Locker.

The subway diggers are turning up odd bits of Chicago's archaeology, but I doubt if they will unearth anything as dramatic as certain objects that were found in 1927 when the cofferdams for the La Salle street bridge were being made. I was watching this operation on behalf of the magazine Popular Mechanics, and reached the south bank of the river just as the workmen were studying the stuff that had come up in one of the shovelloads.

Two bottles of beer, a woman's handbag, and a child's purse containing 25 cents. Commonplace things, but big with drama, for they were relics of the Eastland steamship disaster in 1915. The beer was still good; anyway, the workmen opened the bottles and drank it with apparent relish. The handbag and purse were sent to the public custodian's office. Newcomer.

Wendy, which may be Mr. Willkie's name among the boys, is also the name of a character in Barrie's "Peter Pan." CHARLES COLLINS.

BACKACHE FROM BAD POSTURE.

WHILE backache may have a thousand causes, all too often we overlook a common starter—bad posture. How many of us stand or sit properly? Some of our so-called easy chairs oblige us to rest the weight of the body upon two points of the spinal column—just above the hips [the lumbar region] and the back of the neck. In consequence, there is undue strain upon muscles and ligaments. Even on standing we may lean more upon one leg than the other, tilting the bones of the pelvis and twisting the vertebrae. In other words, we may look to faulty mechanics in the way we handle the skeleton as the most frequent source of back distress.

Without question much of our trouble may be ascribed to unhygienic childhood habits. Careless positions at the school desk or at the study table at home will finally bring about weakening of certain muscle groups. We then have back failure just as, under other circumstances, we may face heart failure. The difference is that we have formed such pernicious customs of poor carriage that we yield all too quickly to the symptom of fatigue which—as the months and years go by—is transformed into pain.

Rarely will soreness be experienced by one who has a perfectly straight spinal column—when the body is held in even balance. Proof comes in striking fashion when we observe how often exercises—designed to restore symmetry—are beneficial. As we know, any structure that is overstretched or overstimulated will become powerless after a while. But it is usually after the normal alignment has been disturbed that discomfort will come.

There is little reason to search for a focus of infection, a metabolic derangement, or even arthritis until we have corrected the simple faults of posture. With an accentuated curve at the lower end of the spine—and with muscles that are well nigh in spasm—the patient may be in agony during the day. Aching may last well into the night and only disappear as slumber deepens. This spots the origin with unerring accuracy and the remedy is clear. All of the parts must be freed from weight bearing—at least temporarily.

This means rest in bed for a few days on a firm mattress. Next a pull is demanded to ease the tension on the lower end of the vertebral column. Pulleys affixed to the foot of the bed can be so adjusted that a weight of several pounds—five or six—will be sustained by each leg. For the first day or two the suffering may be increased. Later—as the tension is overcome—there will be complete relaxation. For the first time in months or even years the victim will be unaware that he or she has a back.

Meanwhile the patient may indulge in breathing movements, contracting the abdomen and holding it taut—while three or four breaths are taken. The wall is then relaxed and the operation repeated several times [six or eight] at hourly intervals. This has the advantage of forcing the upper spine backward, of expanding the cage in which the lungs are housed, and of strengthening the abdominal wall.

After a week or so the individual may be up and about with some mild calisthenics—sufficient to stretch the rested regions. This is aided by heat—the infrared lamp—and deep but gentle massage. Activity is limited to bending the entire trunk backward and forward and then from side to side.

While the above regimen will succeed in a high percentage of cases of purely postural difficulty, it may be salutary even tho an infection is present. Bed rest and a nutritious diet raise the level of resistance. If signs of germ invasion persist and atrophic arthritis is detected on X-ray films, recourse may be had to a 30 minute sweat, heating the body to a temperature of 101 degrees Fahrenheit with hot water bottles. With thin, emaciated persons this is not so satisfactory, but it may bring some improvement.

Naturally tumors, dislocations, injury to the pads of tissue that lie between the segments of the vertebrae, and pelvic disease in women should be considered, but it is fair to state that three-fourths, perhaps more, of all backaches can be helped by this treatment. At any rate, we can adopt correct practice in both sitting, standing, and walking. Straight chairs are far better than those that encourage slouching.

ENCIRCLING THE MOUTH.

T. W. F. writes: What is circumoral pallor?

REPLY.

A white ring encircling the mouth. The skin in this area is unusually pale. This sign accompanies infectious or contagious maladies [such as scarlet fever] and is noted particularly in children.

PAIN BEHIND EAR.

M. M. writes: For some time I have had pain behind the left ear. Does this indicate that I have mastoid disease?

REPLY.

TATTOO MARKS.

S. M. T. writes: How can tattoo marks be removed?

REPLY.

There is no successful chemical method. Surgeons, however, have devised a clever plan by means of which strips of cuticle are replaced by skin grafts.

WILLKIE FOR PROSPERITY.

Chicago, June 28.—The best thing I have heard for a long time is the nomination of Willkie.

I am not a politician. I have no ax to grind. But I do know that Roosevelt and his communists down in Washington have kicked business around so with fool regulations [passed just to give jobs to New Dealers] and have put so many taxes on business that business has lost all incentive to expand, and expansion is what we have always had, up to Roosevelt, to provide jobs. I personally know of several large improvement jobs in factories that would never be done if Roosevelt were President. No use in spending money with him in. With Willkie as President we will have the best times we have had since 1918.

J. W. KELLOGG.

DISAPPOINTED.

Chicago, June 28.—After listening to the nomination of Mr. Willkie for President on the Republican ticket I wondered if the Republicans expect to be complimented for nominating a 90 day Republican? Is it not a disgrace for the Republicans to be unable to find one good man who can do things without looking to the Democratic party? DON C.

ALL THE ANSWERS.

Chicago, June 28.—The Fifth avenue Hoosier knows all the answers for the raw deal campaigners, and with a beautiful, home loving wife, should win in a walk. BRAZIL HOOSIER.

HE KNEW HIM WHEN.

Chicago, June 28.—During the brief Willkie campaign for the presidential nomination on the Republican ticket I was particularly amused that THE TRIBUNE was boosting the stock of Mr. Dewey. Perhaps THE TRIBUNE did not know Wendell L. Willkie. It so happens that I went to school with Willkie in Elwood, Ind., and knew the fighting determination and the will power of the Willkie family. I have maintained for the last year that the only man that could beat Roosevelt in the coming campaign was Wendell L. Willkie. If Mr. Roosevelt has nerve enough to run against Willkie I still contend Mr. Wendell L. Willkie will be our next President.

EDGAR G. BALL.

THE TREND TOWARD GLAMOR.

Chicago, June 28.—Whether the Republican selection of Willkie was a wise choice remains to be seen, but it does prove one point: that the delegates at Philadelphia followed the dictates of a custom, or fad, if you will, that is quickly finding its way into the maelstrom of American politics—namely, the placing of a higher and higher premium upon looks, or personality, or glamor, whatever you may wish to call it.

If Roosevelt is nominated as Willkie's opponent the coming presidential campaign will certainly be the most glamorous that this nation has ever witnessed.

EDWARD T. KAVANAGH.

VICTORY.

Wilmette, Ill., June 28.—Pennsylvania citizens must be proud of their delegates who waited until the battle was won and then went in to win it à la Mussolini. How different from Senator Vandenberg. The people thruout this country owe him a debt of gratitude for releasing his Michigan delegates so that they could start the landslide for Wendell Willkie, the only man who can assure us of a Republican victory in November. N. P. Z.

FROM MR. CHIPERFIELD.

Canton, Ill., June 27.—As a representative in congress from the state of Illinois I, together with congressmen from other states, appeared before the resolutions committee of the national Republican convention in Philadelphia on the evening of Wednesday, June 19, urging the adoption of a strong peace plank. Being the only congressman present from Illinois, I urged the adoption of the exact peace plank which had been recently adopted at our state Republican convention. I have only praise and commendation for the splendid efforts of Brooks and other members of the Illinois delegation, but believe I am justified in calling your attention to the fact that I made a similar effort before the convention opening. ROBERT B. CHIPERFIELD.

AMBULANCES WITHOUT DOCTORS.

Evanston, Ill., June 24.—Last Friday noon a fire truck and street car collided on Halsted street, injuring one of the firemen rather seriously. Within 10 minutes' time a police ambulance, two or three squad cars, and a fire department ambulance arrived at the scene of the accident, but with all that array of equipment not a single doctor came to give aid to the injured fireman.

Eventually he reached a hospital, but how cruel and inhuman it is for an injured person to have to wait all that time for medical aid.

Other large cities have ambulances assigned to hospitals and whenever there is an accident or disaster doctors are on the scene as quickly as ambulances can get them there. Are we less civilized than these cities, or is it because we cannot afford a proper ambulance system?

W. F. MATTES.

P.-T. A. ELECTIONS.

Chicago, June 27.—I am taking this way of voicing my protest against women holding official positions in the P.-T. A.'s of our schools whose children have graduated from the school. I am for giving the new members a chance of holding offices. INTERESTED PARENT.

GERMANS IN AMERICA.

Chicago, June 28.—Here of late I have been hearing a lot about how disliked the German people in this country are; also how terrible they were treated during the last war. All this from Germans who came to this country after the war.

Now I have been in this country only 34 years, and never at any time have I ever been molested just because I committed the crime of being born and raised in Germany. During the duration of the war I bought the daily German paper, played German records in my home, and spoke the German language whenever I cared to speak it.

My advice to these Germans is, if you are being too terribly mistreated and if you want to shout Hell Hitler, pack your kit and go back where you came from, and leave this country to the people who really appreciate it.

I have two boys and one girl, and have raised them to be loyal American citizens, and I shout long live the good old U. S. A.

MRS. F. S.

FOR A HOUSECLEANING.

Evanston, Ill., June 28.—You will recall that during Herbert Hoover's administration he was rendered completely helpless by a large Democratic majority. Now is the time to open up a campaign to prevent this same setup in the event we are successful in sending a Republican to the White House this fall.

Our voters should be continuously advised to vote straight Republican tickets if we are to remove from the halls of congress these men who will continue to stop all constructive legislation that may be presented in the future.

VALIDITY OF DEED.

Chicago, June 27 [Legal Friend of the People].—In 1935 my grandmother gave me a quitclaim deed to property in the state of Iowa. This deed was notarized, but was not recorded until December, 1939. There was and still is a $500 mortgage against this property now held by my uncle. I am not of age.

1. Can this deed be set aside by my uncle or any one else who might wish to do so?

2. This uncle has been living in the house all these years without paying any rent.

3. Can I hold him for the rent?

M. K.

1. In general, the validity of a deed depends on proof that it was delivered during the lifetime of the grantor. Delay in recording invites contest on this point.

2. Obviously it would be appropriate for you to bring matters to a head. It is not clear why you have permitted this situation to continue.

3. Yes, as far as the facts stated are concerned. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

APPLICATION FOR CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, June 27 [Legal Friend of the People].—I have a friend who came to this country in 1920 from Canada and has lived here ever since. In 1929 she married a naturalized citizen and since then has done nothing about papers. [1] What does she have to do now to obtain papers, or [2] did she become a citizen when she married? E. S.

1. She may, as the alien spouse of a citizen, apply for final papers without a declaration of intention [first paper], provided she has resided continuously in the United States for at least three years in pursuance of a legal admission for permanent residence. An application blank may be obtained by the subject in Room 718, New Post Office Building, Chicago.

2. No; if she married a citizen after Sept. 21, 1922, as stated, she did not become a citizen by such marriage, as under an act of congress approved Sept. 22, 1922, the citizenship of married women on and after the latter date is independent of that of their husbands. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT.

Dist. Dir. of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

TODAY IN HISTORY

July 1, 1863

The battle of Gettysburg, usually regarded as the turning point of the civil war, began, resulting from a chance encounter between federal and confederate troops. The confederates, under Lee, were about 75,000, and were opposed by 82,000 federals under Meade. On this date preliminary skirmishing on Seminary ridge developed into a real battle which continued for three days, at the end of which time Lee retreated into Virginia.

YOUTH, 2 GIRLS KILLED, 3 HURT IN TRAIN, CAR CRASH

Auto Strikes North Shore Coach Near Racine.

Racine, Wis., June 30 [Special].—Three young persons were killed and three others seriously injured this afternoon when their automobile collided with a Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee train. The accident occurred at the Chicory road crossing two miles south of Racine.

The dead were: Helen Vance, 18 years old; Ruth Gobine, 18, and Glen Nelson, 22, son of a former Racine alderman. The injured are: Walter Nickelson, driver of the car; Louis F. Jensen, 24, and Pearl Reuille, 18.

The girls, all clad in riding clothes, had entered the car a short distance from the scene of the accident at the invitation of the youths, who had offered to take them to a horseback riding academy. The girls were riding in the rear seat of the sedan and were thrown from the car.

Deputy Niels Fuller asserted that the Nickelson car crashed into the side of the first coach of the train, and was hurled 261 feet along the roadbed. The car was demolished.

B. H. Burke of Milwaukee was motorman of the train and George Kelly of Waukegan was conductor. The train stopped 1,200 feet south of the crossing. Deputy Fuller said there were no gates nor an electric warning signal at the crossing.

The three deaths brought to nine the total of traffic fatalities in Racine county this year.

BOY AMBUSHES, KILLS DAD BECAUSE 'HE WAS SO MEAN TO FAMILY'

Houghton, Mich., June 30 (AP).—Sheriff J. G. Salmi said tonight that Albert J. Fountaine Jr., 14 years old, had confessed waiting in ambush with a .22 caliber rifle and shooting and killing his father because "he was so mean to the family."

The elder Fountaine was killed near his home one and a half miles south of Chassell this afternoon as he returned from a fishing expedition on which he was accompanied by his daughter, Alice, 13, and another son, Telesphore, 16.

Salmi said the boy told him he waited until his father approached his hiding place and fired from close range. Coroner E. J. Schumaker said the bullet struck Fountaine in the head. Officers found the boy sitting on a milk pail at the home of a neighbor.

Salmi said the boy would appear tomorrow before Probate Judge Herman A. Weider at Houghton.

5 KILLED AS CAR HURTLES FROM ROAD INTO TREE

Crashes Near Des Plaines Railroad Crossing.

Five men were killed yesterday when their car plunged off Rand road, half a mile northwest of Des Plaines, and crashed into a tree. The accident occurred about 300 feet from the Soo line railroad crossing, and deputy sheriffs believe the driver may have swerved off the road when he saw a train coming.

The dead are Charles Jenkins, 30 years old, 2258 North La Crosse avenue; Charles Miller, 3326 Clark street; Lawrence Lloyd, 28; Harold Anderson, 35, and his brother, Enoch, 30, all of 3311 Sheffield avenue. It is believed that Harold Anderson, a carpenter, was driving. Miller died in County hospital. The others were killed outright.

Relatives of the evictims said they thought the five were returning to Chicago from Fox lake.

Baby and Woman Killed.

An infant girl and a woman were killed in a crash of two cars at Irving Park and Barrington roads in northwestern Cook county five miles east of Elgin. The victims were Christine Wojkowski, 7 months old, 2355 Elston avenue, and Mrs. Ella Mae Mosley, 28, of Pontiac, Livingston county. Five others were injured.

The Wojkowski child was in one car with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wojkowski; her grandmother, Mrs. Sophia Rojek, and her uncle, Michael Rojek, the latter of 2102 North Damen avenue. Mrs. Mosley was in the other car with her husband, Earl.

Police said Mosley's car struck the Mojkowski machine and hurled it against a pole. Mosley told police he had not stopped at Irving Park road, a thru thorofare, because no stop sign was visible. He said witnesses told him the sign had been knocked down several days ago and had not been replaced.

Two Held After Crash Death.

Englewood police held two men after an auto accident in which an unidentified woman was killed at 59th and Halsted streets. They are Gerald Ruble, 6224 Dorchester avenue, an entertainer, and Russell Sherwood, 6600 South Normal boulevard.

Police said Ruble was driving and that the car went over the curb and struck the woman after a collision with another car driven by Edward Lill, 5800 Aberdeen street.

Sherwood, who owns the car, was arrested at the scene. Ruble was taken into custody in his home, where he said he went to change clothes. He told police he and Sherwood had given a ride to a young woman a short while before the crash and that the accident occurred as he turned to ask her where to go.

Hit by Car: Dies.

Frank Miller, 52, unemployed, died in Berwyn hospital of injuries incurred Friday when he was struck by a car at 47th street and Joliet road, Lyons. The driver was Ivan H. Spoor, 424 South 8th avenue, La Grange. Miller is believed to have lived in Lyons.

Andrew Mican, 50 years old, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile at Western avenue and 135th street, Blue Island. The driver was Felix Klausner, 20, of 66 West 105th street. Police said Mican worked as a handyman and lived in Blue Island but had no permanent address.

James Marebelli, 50, of 1423 Grenshaw street, unemployed, was found dead in the street at 1330 Roosevelt road, apparently a hit-run victim.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 419 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 319 were killed in Chicago, where 11,002 persons were injured during the same period.

SUBWAY BUILDING COST RUNNING UP TO $110,000 A DAY

Construction expenditures on the subway this month are reaching a peak of $110,000 a day, of which $85,000 is going into the pockets of workers in the tunnels or workers manufacturing materials used in the subway, Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, announced yesterday.

Harrington said approximately 36 million dollars of subway work has been completed or placed under contract. The cost of the project, exclusive of equipment, will be 42 million dollars. About 25 million dollars of the total will go directly or indirectly to some 40,000 workers.

Expenditures will decline slightly after this month, Harrington estimated, atho construction will continue until the end of 1940 or later. Six contracts have been completed, eight are under way, three more are about to start, and one award is pending.

Attorney Weymouth Kirkland, counsel for the publisher, has asked that Annenberg be given a suspended sentence because of his age of 64 years and because Annenberg and his corporations will pay the government 8 million dollars in tax claims, interest, and penalties.

Joseph Hafner, a business associate of Annenberg, also will appear today before Judge Wilkerson for sentencing. Hafner has pleaded guilty of conspiring to violate the income tax law.

Make Hair Grow while the sun shines

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is more rapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.
THAT Hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is an established scientific fact. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting Thomas' hair and scalp treatment at once.
Your hair will respond more quickly to this famous proved method of treatment now than at any other time. Within an unusually short time your dandruff will disappear, abnormal hairfall will stop, and new hair will actually be visible on the thin and bald spots. Call at the Thomas' office and talk your problem over with the expert in charge. He will gladly examine your scalp without charge or obligation and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do for you. Come in today.

Farming in Circles.

June 30, 1940.

FRANK W. ANDREW of Palmyra, the man who farms in circles, explained the fine points of automatic circle farming to a group of his Macoupin county neighbors yesterday. They watched a driverless tractor pull a cultivator in spirals, giving Andrew's two rows of corn their final cultivation. There are 31 acres in the field and each corn row is 40 miles long.

Frank W. Andrew.

Andrew has been farming in circles since 1938 when he hitched a disk, drag, roller, harrow, and grain drill to his tractor and started the machinery spiraling around a field, putting in his wheat crop. He had invented a scheme for the automatic operation of his tractor in spirals by attaching a wire from a drum in the center of the field to an automatic steering device on the front of the tractor.

All Done by Machine.

All the work of plowing, preparing seed beds, planting and cultivating now is done automatically. While he has found a few drawbacks, Andrew insists that these are offset by numerous advantages of his system.

"I have had a little trouble with weeds in the corn this year," he said, "because there has been a lot of rain and I can cultivate the corn only one way, like any other drilled corn." Most farmers in the corn belt plant corn with checkrow planters so they can cross cultivate it. Some prefer drilled corn, insisting that it usually makes a higher yield than corn that is checked."

Andrew does all his spiral farming within an oblong field of 88 acres. The rest of the 330 acre farm is in timber pasture. This year the corn is at the west end of the oblong field and there is another circular field of the same size at the at the east end. Here he has a circle within a circle—11 acres of oats in the center and 20 acres of soy beans around the outside. There are two smaller circles in the middle.

Many Improvements Made.

Altho Andrew still uses the same old model tractor with which he started spiral farming, he has made a number of improvements on it. He wired an electrical connection to the oil line that makes a short circuit and stops the tractor if the oil pressure fails. Another gadget stops it if the water in the radiator gets low. One of his latest installations is an automatic switch to stop the tractor instantly if the wire that runs to the drum in the center of the field should break.

"Such things are especially important for a tractor that works alone in the field with no one to notice when things go wrong," he says. He thinks all tractors should have some of the safety devices he has installed.

Andrew may decide to make some of the automatic tractor controls for sale while his own tractor is working alone in the fields. He already has several unsolicited orders for them that have come from neighbors who have watched Andrew going casually about his other farm work while the tractor did the field work. He has not figured out what he will charge for the attachments, but he is sure it won't be much. He spent less than $10 on the one he uses.

Like Labor Saving Devices.

A good portion of Andrew's inventive ability is directed to labor saving equipment for the home. When a high line [electric high tension] was built past the farm this spring he wired the buildings for electricity and made all sorts of devices from old pieces of machinery that could be run by small electric motors. Now his wife and mother shell green peas with a clothes wringer and run the ice cream freezer with the transmission from a junked automobile—three speeds forward and one reverse.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Rose Andrew and her niece, Kathryn King, have little to do as device made by her inventive husband, Frank W. Andrew, the spiral farmer, makes ice cream without manual labor. The contraption, which has three gear shift speeds, was made from transmission of old automobile, a small tractor wheel, an electric motor, and a belt.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., June 30.—Today happens to be the day when the fantastic but frequently futile Hays office sends out its quarterly batch of studio press correspondents' cards to all the representatives of newspapers, press associations, and periodicals whose duty it is to report on the loves, lives, and news of the movies.

Today the Hays office will send out 298 cards, and this reporter, who now begins filing copy, is No. 298. One out of the nearly 300 persons devoted to noting that Cary Grant and Barbara Hutton dined together, that Dorothy Lamour looks as well as could be expected—which is two under par in short pants and short hair—and that the movie industry is faced with a Grave Problem. The movie industry has always been faced with a Grave Problem, so if the boys in the composing room will keep a paragraph to that effect in the holdover rack it will save a lot of typesetting.

Those 298 cards do not include the annual ones. Hollywood, which is built on sand, oil deposits, and expiring contracts, cagily figures that nobody will last more than three months anyway, so most of the cards are sent out quarterly. However, there are 96 old duffers who seem to be steady enough to warrant annual cards. And there are 25 more, mostly leg persons, devoted to digging up chitchat for the radio. Total, 419 Hollywood correspondents. It makes a guy feel like a drop in the bucket.

There is a difference of opinion as to the value of a Hays office card. It is supposed to be issued only to people who have a circulation of 50,000 or more, but no provision is made for the blood pressure a correspondent has to reach upon meeting Susanna Foster clad as a strip tease girl on a Paramount set. It is supposed to get you into places, but it doesn't have to. All the studios have their own pasteboards plus passes to the parking lots, and if a reporter isn't careful he will have in his wallet more cards than an Elk bound for a convention.

However, the Hays thing makes the small paper correspondent feel good and it does help eliminate fakers who just want to go on studio sightseeing tours. It helps, but isn't perfect. A short time ago a Canadian arrived at the Columbia lot and said he was a correspondent. They fell on his neck—and neck-falling is a lovely art here—and took him around. Showed him the "Howards of Virginia" set. Fed him frequently. Took him to a preview. Introduced him to all the babes and he-men. Couple of days later they happened to read a short in the papers about his languishing in jail on account of an unpaid hotel bill. That part was all right, but what killed them was that he wasn't a correspondent, but a perfume salesman.

Then there was the dashing figure who said he was a polo player, aviator and wandering journalist for the London Express. He had a little trouble getting his checks over from England once in a while, but Hollywood generously embraced him. He played polo with Guinn [Big Boy] Williams and he went on a trip in Errol Flynn's yacht. He had a fine time. Then one day Hollywood discovered that maybe he wasn't a correspondent and affection cooled. The last anybody heard of him he was a grease-monkey at the airport. But he was a charming guy and a good polo player.

As Ed Sullivan has pointed out, there are some genuinely sad cases among the many European and South American correspondents. Some were working on space and there isn't any more space. Some have lost their jobs.

Good morning!

"There was a little girl——" and, While she DIDN'T "have a little curl Right in the middle of her forehead, When she was good she WAS very VERY good——" And she definitely NEVER "was horrid" . . .

Before trekking forth to see "Anne of Windy Poplars," pray to be made "a child again just for tonight"—or something like that. . . . For this new "Anne" film, adapted from the L. Montgomery novel of the same name, is as naïve as the book, which is being pretty naïve, and its heroine is just too, TOO sweet. [Being too sweet is Cinema Actress Anne Shirley's great drawback, to my notion.]

As the Montgomery character of like name, Anne descends upon Pringleton to teach school and is promptly and persistently persecuted by all the Pringles—with here and there an exception. And Pringles practically populate the town. . . . WHY are they so mean to the little girlie? Why, because old Hester Pringle, most influential of the clan, has other ideas about who should be the school ma'am.

Nothing, however, can down the gallant Shirley spirit, put out the light of the Shirley friendliness, or sour the sweetness of the Shirley disposition. . . . The finale shows Pringleton eating out of the Shirley hand.

The story is dated and absolutely nothing has been done to modernize it. Dialog is likewise, and the picture's treatment is exactly muted to the demands of the innocuous tale. The acting, I guess, just fits it, too.

But, it is clean—dear me, YES! And it has a MORAL. Of course! I. e.—love will find a way.

Familiar Music Superbly Done Stirs Ravinia

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The climax of the first week of the Ravinia festival came about 6 o'clock last night. It was entirely off schedule and unexpected. It came at the end of the most unassuming and—on paper—the least interesting of all the week's programs. It came when the attendance—very good earlier in the week—had slumped badly.

But the comparatively small audience recognized this climax for what it was, and put on one of the biggest demonstrations in Ravinia's recent history. Palms pounded as fast as their owners could get them apart and together again. The pavilion rumbled with stamping feet until you would have sworn that a hundred trains were passing by. And this went on not for seconds but for minutes, while Eugene Ormandy and the Chicago Symphony orchestra bowed and smiled and wondered what had happened, and everybody grew more and more emotional.

What had happened was that a familiar and to many a trite piece of music had received a performance so startlingly good as to constitute nothing less than a revelation. With Mr. Ormandy piling one exhilarating nuance on top of another and with the men of the orchestra seeming to exult in the absolute perfection of their execution of the conductor's every idea, Johann Strauss' worn old "Emperor" waltzes stood forth not as a mere collection of attractive tunes, but as a triumphantly successful attempt to express a genuinely significant attitude toward life.

For this music, when performed in so intoxicating a manner, projects with heart warming urgency that certain something which we lamely call "the spirit of Vienna." It is compounded of gayety, thoughtfulness, and taste. It is merry, but it has a "Tomorrow we die" overtone. It is candid and generous of feeling, but it has a pride and a fastidiousness of its own.

The "Emperor" waltzes came at the end of an all-Viennese program which included also music by Mozart, Schubert, Mayseder, and Von Reznicek. Mozart's contribution was a collection of four German dances which had never before been played in Chicago. The audience found one of them—a piece called "Sleigh Ride"—so infectious that it demanded a second Chicago performance right away.

—o—

Another event of the Ravinia weekend was a first local performance [Saturday evening] of Harl McDonald's Symphony No. 1, "The Santa Fe Trail." It turned out to be a gorgeously colored musical representation of the forces which went to make the American southwest. Spanish colorings and Spanish turns of phrase are especially noticeable and especially attractive. Mr. McDonald handles the job of orchestration in a virtuoso manner.

The Saturday night audience heard also a first Chicago performance of a cool, exquisitely phrased set of seventeenth century pieces—Corelli's sarabande, giga, and badinerie.

In saying good-by at the end of his Ravinia week yesterday Mr. Ormandy paid what was obviously a sincere tribute to the members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. He lauded them both as men and as musicians.

Situation Summed Up.

A letter from England tells of the little evacuee, one of a group of children being looked after by an American woman now living in England, who was saying his prayers.

"Please, God," he prayed, "take good care of yourself, for if anything happens to you we're sunk."

Scoop?

One of the famous legends of the musical world is concerned with the friendship between Russian Composer Peter Ilich Tschaikowsky and Mme. Najeda von Meck, the wealthy widow with whom he engaged in a long and intimate correspondence, but with whom he never spoke, and who, by supplying him with 6,000 rubles a year, enabled him to give up teaching and devote his time to composing. That they did see each other and that Tschaikowsky spoke to her at least once is attested to by Nicolai Malko, the Russian born orchestra conductor from Copenhagen who will conduct the Tschaikowsky cycle at Ravinia, beginning tomorrow evening.

Malko lived for seven years on the 20 acre estate near Brailow—given to his father, a doctor in the Ukraine, that once had belonged to Mme. von Meck, and which had been occupied for some time by Tschaikowsky. The coachman who was in service at the time Tschaikowsky lived there was still there during Malko's stay. He told Malko of the time when the composer and his benefactor encountered each other:

He was driving Tschaikowsky when a carriage approached from the opposite direction carrying Mme. von Meck and her children, the coachman said. Both carriages slowed down. Tschaikowsky got to his feet, lifted his hat, and started to stammer a greeting as the carriages came side by side. But Mme. von Meck, who had stipulated from the first that they should have no oral communication, did not stop.

Malko has conducted only once before in America—the Boston Symphony orchestra last winter. Formerly conductor of the Denmark state radio symphony, he was in Copenhagen when the German troops entered. Malko, who taught last summer at Mills college and now is on the staff of De Paul, has taken out first papers for United States citizenship. He will conduct at Ravinia Thursday and Saturday evenings also, and next Sunday afternoon.

Admirer's Gift.

Richard Crooks, who sings at Grant park tonight, recently received a fortune in the form of a set of books. A first edition set of Voltaire, inscribed with the autograph of each owner since 1782, arrived at the Metropolitan Opera house from New Haven, without note or comment. Inquiry established the sender as an old lady who had listened to the singer night after night for years.

Summer Drama Season Opens in Chicago Region This Week

BY JUDITH CASS.

SUMMER theater enthusiasts are finding a great variety of dramatic fare from which to choose as summer stock theater companies get under way. From the Dunes to Wisconsin, country theaters are a-buzz with activity. "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," "Brother Rat," "Outward Bound," and "The Night of January 16th" are some of the plays that are being offered next week-end.

The last named will be put on by the Belfry Players in their made-over Mormon church in Williams Bay on Lake Geneva, from tomorrow thru Sunday night. Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener, the Arthur Wakeleys, Mrs. Robert Tarrant, Dr. and Mrs. William F. Petersen, and the Robert Johnstones are some of the Lake Geneva summer residents who are to be found regularly at Belfry Players' offerings.

The Belfrey Players are actively engaged in theater work the year around. Fewer than 40 persons from surrounding towns form the permanent active membership. Summer members are welcomed, however, and tryouts for the fourth play of the season, "The Pursuit of Happiness," were held at the theater yesterday afternoon.

Theater Improved by Gifts from Friends.

The many friends of the Players constantly are making possible additions and improvements in the theater. A gift of costumes—Paris gowns and hats from the Edwin E. Ayer estate on Lake Geneva—has been received recently. Plumbing was installed this spring, and a concrete floor was laid in the basement. A parking lot at the side of the church has been provided for the convenience of patrons.

"Outward Bound" will be presented at the Lake Zurich summer theater from Friday thru Sunday at 8:45 o'clock. "Brother Rat" is being offered by the Theater of the Dunes to the south. "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" will open the Woodstock Summer theater season. Performances will be given Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights in the old Opera house.

Summer theater in the Coach House theater on Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine's estate in Oconomowoc, Wis., will open on July 15 with "Get Ready to Live." Chicagoans will have an especial incentive to see this play, for Mrs. Loyal Davis will return to the stage in it, with her daughter, Miss Nancy Davis, a debutante of last season, making her stage debut as the ingénue.

Mrs. and Miss Davis are leaving for Oconomowoc today to spend a month. They will occupy Mrs. Valentine's home. Mrs. Valentine is at her Southampton, N. Y., summer home.

Benefit July 10 at Home of Mrs. T. Philip Swift.

Mrs. T. Philip Swift will open her home in Lake Forest for the annual benefit for the Lake Bluff orphanage, to be held this year on July 10. It will be a party that will offer entertainment to all ages. Catherine Lewis, well known bridge expert, will give a brief talk on the fine points of the game, followed by a demonstration play of the hands. The guests then will go out to the spacious grounds for a fashion show and tea.

Pony rides, a puppet show, and refreshments will be provided for children. Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell is general chairman in charge of the party.

The clever young women who are on the board of the North Avenue Day nursery never are at a loss for ideas for amusing benefit parties. They are planning a "Come as a Song" dinner-dance for the night of Sept. 28 at the Racquet club. Mrs. Alanson Donald is chairman of the party, with Mrs. Theron Chapman, Mrs. Frank B. Johnston, Mrs. Graham Fairbank, Mrs. Thomas Tyler, and Mrs. John Ames among those assisting her. Mrs. Robert F. Carr Jr. is president of the board.

C. Durand Allens Off for Month in Adirondacks.

The C. Durand Allens of Winnetka have gone to the Adirondacks for a month's stay at the summer camp of Mr. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Allen of Hubbard Woods.

The Fate of the Darmenys

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Madge Darmeny, a childless widow, finds she has but a few months to live and sends for her nearest relatives, her own niece, Leda, and her husband's nephews, Frank and Geoffry. She wants to select the most deserving heir unbeknown to them. Pretending she has to retrench financially, she suggests they all live with her on her large estate. Amelia Pennyfather, a distant cousin, and an eavesdropping old maid, already lives with Madge. Leda is married to Frank, but is having an affair with Geoffry, who is unprincipled, but has managed to become Madge's favorite thru his flattery. Frank has an 8 year old daughter, Betsy, by a former marriage, and Shirley Westall, Madge's secretary and close neighbor, is acting as Betsy's governess. Frank, miserable because he suspects Leda and Geoffry, sees the sweetness of his first wife in Shirley and falls in love with her, the because of his high moral standards, he does not declare his love. Shirley, devoted to Betsy, sympathizes with Frank and soon finds her sympathy turning to love. Madge, anxious for Geoffry to settle down, suggests that he marry Shirley. Geoffry, tiring of Leda, and anxious to stay Madge's favorite, pays court to Shirley. Leda gets jealous, and after a number of fits of rage, Madge begins to see her and Geoffry in their true light and decides to change her will in which she has left Geoffry most of her estate. Amelia eavesdrops and hears about the new will and about Madge's ill health. Having a crush on Geoffry, she tells him what she has heard. He gets Madge's keys to her safe and reads both wills. The new one which is to be signed that week has left the estate to Frank. Geoffry is wild and in a fit of temper starts out to the Westall cottage to see Shirley. Frank who has been there to see Dr. Westall, who is an old friend of his, comes out of the house with Shirley. Geoffry waits for him until Shirley goes back in the house, then waylays him and threatens to get Shirley as he got Leda. Frank knocks him down, loosening Geoffry's front teeth. Later Frank confronts Leda with Geoffry's accusation, and she goes into a tantrum.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

ALONE.

Amelia Pennyfeather and Betsy were the only persons in the dining room when Frank came down to breakfast the next morning.

He had not seen Leda. When he awakened the doors he had left open were closed.

Miss Pennyfather was dressed as for some extra excursion.

She had on her best costume, a dark purple coat and skirt more suitable for winter wear than now, her best silk blouse, and a striking confection on her head that had the shape and general appearance of a bird's nest. By her plate lay her purse and a pair of new kid gloves.

"Cousin Amelia's going to Canterbury," Betsy informed her father. "She's going to buy herself some new clothes, 'cause next week she's going to Hastings for a holiday."

"You amaze me!" said Frank. "I didn't know you ever stirred from Beechbourne, Amelia."

Amelia's lips drooped sadly.

"It's my nerves," she said. "Ever since I was shot at I haven't had an easy moment."

"Well, I think it will do you a lot of good to get away," Frank said.

He went to the sideboard to get himself something to eat, and coming back with his plate Betsy noticed the strip of sticking plaster across his knuckles.

"O, you've hurt yourself, daddy," she exclaimed. "How did you do that?"

"I think I ran against something in the dark," Frank replied.

Betsy giggled.

"How funny! So did Uncle Geoffrey. Only it was his teeth he hit. He's gone up to London to see the dentist."

Amelia goggled at Frank, moving her jaws in that odd, gasping fish way she had when stirred beyond the power of speech.

Frank met her eye to eye.

"I think perhaps you have guessed correctly, Amelia," he said, "but need we discuss it?"

Amelia rose hastily, picked up her possessions and turned to leave the room, but had to stand aside at the door for Shirley, who had just arrived for her day's duties. Betsy's attention was thus happily diverted.

Then Aunt Madge came in, unexpectedly followed by Leda, who seldom had breakfast anywhere but in bed.

Leda looked a little pale, but otherwise appeared to be her usual self.

Geoffry's pressing need to see the dentist was mentioned again by Betsy, but drew no particular interest, since Amelia fluttered back at that moment wearing a face of consternation.

"I've just remembered," she wailed. "Thursday is early closing day in Canterbury. There's no use in my going if the shops all close at one. O, dear, I am so disappointed!"

"No, early closing in Canterbury is on Wednesday," said Shirley.

"O, dear, are you sure?"

"Positive. But I'll ring up, if you like."

"So long as you're sure," Amelia quavered.

"I really am sure, Miss Pennyfather."

Amelia scuttled out again.

"I seem to lose track of time," Mrs. Darmeny said. "Shirley, I think I'd like some coffee this morning, instead of tea. Will you give me a cup? . . . I somehow got an idea it was Friday. No, Alfred Barnes is coming tomorrow, so tomorrow must be Friday. Well, what are you people going to do with yourselves today?"

Betsy threw her a coy, sidewise look, and then switched it to her father.

"I know what I would like," she said. "And I think it's about time daddy kept his promise."

"What promise?" Leda asked absently.

"He said we'd go fishing, but it never came off because of those old Point-to-Points."

Nobody wanted that subject to be brought up, and Frank said quickly, "Well, we can go fishing today. We'll start at once."

Betsy shrieked and clapped her hands. Then her face fell.

"I guess we can't start just at once," she said, giving her Auntie Madge another ogling look, "'cause I shall have to do my practicing first."

Madge Darmeny knew her cue.

"I think we can give the old piano a rest today," she said with a smile. "Shirley, dear, will you tell Mrs. Lemon to put them up some lunch? I take it you'll want to make a picnic of it?"

"O, yes, we will! O, Auntie Madge, you are so kind! Can Shirley come, too? I know daddy would love Shirley to come."

Madge shook her head. "I'm sorry about that, but I shall need Shirley myself."

Both Frank and Shirley breathed again. Quite carefully they had avoided looking at each other this morning.

"How about me?" Leda asked in a hard, flat tone. "Or wouldn't I do as a substitute for your beloved Shirley?"

"But I didn't think you'd want to, Mummy. Of course we'd love you to come."

And if Betsy's voice wasn't quite as cordial as her words, at least it passed muster.

It was a long time since Madge Darmeny had had Beechbourne completely to herself. At least the servants were unobtrusive and did not count. It seemed a little foretaste of heaven to get Amelia off the premises, if only for the day.

Even Shirley. . . . Well, why not give Shirley a holiday, too? And Geoffry was out of the way, too. Of course she loved them all dearly; too much for her perfect contentment; but it was just grand having this day to herself.

She planned it carefully.

There were the magazines and the last batch of books from the library that she hadn't had much time for lately. She could dip and browse to her heart's content, and have her lunch at a little table on the terrace. Something very light. Amelia always tried to make her eat too much. And perhaps she'd invite herself to tea at the vicarage.

But before settling down she decided to ring up Alfred Barnes, have a carefree chat with him, and remind him—altho he wouldn't have forgotten—that tomorrow was Friday, the day he was coming to Beechbourne with the new will for her to sign.

She must remember that they would need a couple of witnesses, and none of the servants would do, because they were all down for remembrances.

The sun was going down, trailing the sky with rose and amber. In the wooded hollows of the purple downs twilight already lurked.

Madge Darmeny, from where she sat on the flagged terrace, could see the triumphant banners of the sunset and the soft, deep shadows of the night that would soon triumph. A lone star shone faintly pink against the high dome of heaven.

Her perfect day was over.

Gibson brought her a shawl, for it seemed to him that she had had a tiring day and the air was cool. She hadn't even rested after lunch.

He wondered if he ought to speak to Miss Pennyfather about it, but decided not to.

It was just as well, for Miss Pennyfather at that moment was in her cluttered bedroom unromantically soaking her feet. She, for one, had had a very tiring day, and at the end of it, after trying on everything the shops at Canterbury had to offer, had come home with a new sunshade and a pair of canvas beach shoes. But if she wasn't too worn out she would go again tomorrow.

There was one dress, a spotted navy blue foulard, she had almost bought. The only real difficulty with that one was its price. It was just five shillings more than Amelia Pennyfather had decided she could pay. If she spoke to dear Madge about it. . . . Heavens, the time! She mustn't be late for dinner. All day she had been bursting to know what it was that had happened to Geoffry last night. With him it was now the 11th hour. He must be feeling very low in his mind. Her heart ached for him.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Hey, Rube!

New Mermaid Outfits Tempt Land Sirens

BY REA SEEGER.

Venturesome land sirens toying with the thought of becoming mermaids, are encouraged by the beach togs hung around the shops and stores. Never have there been so many eye catching bright colors in satin lastex. Swim suits in a sleek streamline without much of a skirt or the newest affairs with skirts that feature flare and area come in grand shades of red, in handsome jade greens, yellows as clear as the feathers of a pet canary and in bold blues.

The big idea this summer is to shine and blaze in color and to cool this color down or contrast the vivid brilliance with stunning beach coats. One of the most unusual terry cloth coats we've shopped is the snowy white model with a huge monogram script design high on the left arm.

Hood models are legion and in every color. Gathered waistlines are also this year's vintage with long loose sleeves and the hood at the back shoulder combining to give that monkish manner. Terry cloth capes come second in shopping popularity.

There are some tricky new numbers appliqued with brilliantly colored bands or stripes. . . . These, too, have the inevitable hoods. Sharkskin beach coats are excitingly new, in copper color and in plaster white. A new length is featured and a new nipped in at the waistline effect, making them look like specially smart street coats as they reach the kneelines.

Shawls for beach wear are tremendously popular and we've a sneaking suspicion they're used instead of towels, a lazy lady's trick, but a good one as most of the shawls are of snowy white terry cloth with fringe trim, close kin to a bath towel.

Outsize bath towels designed for beach lounging have reached a new record for size and brilliance of color and clash of contrast. Some of them have the proportions of a room size rug, which should more than satisfy the territorial greed of the most restless beach lounger.

Sally to Invite Youthful Cub Fans to Game

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

School's out and it's time for fun again, boys and girls!

The party season is now open, and all you youngsters are invited to lend an ear to the good news I have for you. We've made plans for the entire summer, and every week there'll be a gay party for 100 boys and girls.

We know there are lots of children who don't get to see movies and circuses and baseball games, even tho it is vacation time, so that's why these parties are planned by Chicago Tribune Charities. As all the thousands of children who've come to these parties in the past know very well, it doesn't cost you a penny and any child is eligible to try for an invitation. My only idea is to see that you have a good time, and I think the news of our first party will make you believe that.

It's to be on July 11 at Wrigley field and 50 boys and 50 girls will come with me to see the Chicago Cubs play Boston.

Since I can't take all the boys and girls who would like to see the Cubs in action, I'm going to try to select the youngsters to whom such a party would mean the most. If you don't care much for baseball—altho I've heard of few boys or girls who don't—or if you'd rather see a movie, then you probably wouldn't want terribly to come. But if you'd rather see Gabby and the boys than anything else you can imagine, then you're just the lad or lassie I want as my guest. All you have to do is write me a letter that will convince me that you'll have a perfectly swell time out at Wrigley field, you see!

If you're a real Cub fan, winning an invitation shouldn't be hard for you, but there are just a few simple rules you must remember. After telling me why you'd enjoy this party, remember to tell me your full name, your address and your age. You must write every single line of it all by yourself, and mail it so that it will reach me by Wednesday, when I'll read all the mail and select 100 winning letters. Please don't ask for invitations for your friends—let them write, too, if they want to come.

Mail that letter to Sally Joy Chicago. Wednesday isn't far away.

Drama Groups Ready to Open Summer Season

John R. Leonard has opened his summer home in the Adirondacks, where he expects to have his daughter, Mrs. William Turpin, and young Leonard; and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Daniel Leonard, and her two children, as guests during the summer. Daniel Leonard drove his father east.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopewell L. Rogers haven't decided whether they will be at Nantucket, Mass., as usual. They are planning tentatively to motor east at the end of July. Mrs. Rogers' daughter, Miss Dorothy Counselman, has returned from Bryn Mawr college.

The Lucius B. Mannings won't return from California until next fall. Their second daughter, Miss Meredith Manning, a bud of last season, has joined them in the west.

Two New Grandchildren Please Howard C. Holbrooks.

With two new grandchildren to occupy their attention the Howard C. Holbrooks are looking forward to an especially pleasant summer. Their daughter, Nancy, and her husband, Guy Stillman, became the parents of their second daughter, Victoria, on June 11 at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. David Majonnier, the former Barbara Holbrook, and her husband became the parents of a son, their first child, on June 13 in the West Suburban hospital. Mrs. Majonnier and David Jr. are at home in Oak Park. Alexandra Stillman will be a year old on July 4. She and Victoria are grandchildren of Mrs. Fowler McCormick, who is in Canada at the moment. Mr. McCormick is here.

Ann Doty to Become Bride of Ernest P. Clark Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Lappin Doty of 526 Sunset road, Winnetka, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ann, to Ernest Putnam Clark Jr., also of Winnetka. Miss Doty attended the University of California, from which Mr. Clark was graduated last December. The wedding will take place at 8:30 o'clock on July 20 in the Christ church chapel in Winnetka and will be followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. Clark and his bride are planning to live in Evanston.

Park Soloist

MRS. WILLIAM E. VOGELBACK.

Mrs. William E. Vogelback [Parthenia Vogelback] is busy these early summer days for she is first vice president of the Chicago Drama league and chairman of the Children's Civic theater, and tomorrow she will be the soloist with the Woman's Symphony orchestra in Grant park. Mrs. Vogelback is well known as a pianist. Rudolph Ganz is to direct the orchestra.

The Children's Civic theater will open on Navy pier today; all children from the ages of 8 to 18 years old are invited to register today and to receive free instruction in music, drama, dancing, and puppetry during the eight week season.

Forest Vesper Concerts Draw Bigger Crowds

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Departing June's gray mood lifted yesterday in the forest preserves at the sound of thousands singing. The third series of woodland vesper hours found increasing numbers thronging from playfields and picnic groves to the song centers, willing to chance, if the ballad phrase may be borrowed, the wind and the rain in their hair rather than miss the music and share in its making.

In one spot, at least, the sun could not restrain a gallant salute to such a troubadour spirit. Hundreds noted, exchanged neighborly glances, and spoke appreciatively of it as they dispersed. That was in Thatcher woods at River Forest when, at the close of the songfest, all voices rose in the national anthem. Eyes were focused on the flag suspended above the platform. As if on uncanny cue the sun emerged for a moment to sweep the banner in the forest with a golden spotlight.

The singers, who had Thatcher woods ringing as once Sherwood forest rang to the hearty tunes of Robin Hood's merry men, were the purple and gold robed choristers of the Chicago and North Western railroad, whose director was Harry Slater. The Austin Methodist Episcopal church choir is to give the Thatcher concert next Sunday.

In Caldwell woods, at Milwaukee and Devon avenue, the Bethel Male chorus, with Robert E. Bowlus directing, was the musical nucleus which attracted some 1,500 auxiliary choristers. A happy witness to the mastery of her son in converting the audience into a singing multitude was Mrs. C. W. Bowlus, who came from Fremont, O., especially for the concert. Two soloists won particularly warm applause—Margaret Michael, singing "The Last Rose of Summer," and William C. Anderson, who voiced the spirit of place and twilight hour in "I Heard a Forest Praying."

The Century Male chorus will sing next Sunday in Caldwell woods.

Mrs. Grace Humphrey brought her Parker Women's chorus to Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street, where an enthusiastic audience sang about half of the program. The Immanuel Lutheran church choir will sing there next Sunday.

This is the third season of the Sunday sings in the forest preserves. The concerts are jointly sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and the board of forest preserve commissioners.

Numerology By Evelyn Holmes

July 1, 1940.

Universal Day—Making concrete plans for your summer the best way to use this 4-day.

Universal Month—This is likely to prove a very explosive month, with not only politicians talking too much, but the general public joining in. Every one will be airing his opinions. Friendly overtures from enemies should be accepted skeptically, and so-called friendly governments must watch that in the heat of the excitement they don't step on the wrong toes. There will be plenty of rumors on the home front with "whisperings" and gossipy comments about front page personalities. Odd international friendships will come to light, changing the appearance of the war fronts.

Month Ahead—Those born on this date, and all those in a 4-year, should tread softly this month. They should do nothing to draw attention to themselves. Plenty of patience will be needed. Wait until next month for your vacation, preferably the second or third week of August.

The blueberry season is short, alas! Would that it were not so, for these purple-juiced berries make the most delicious muffins, pies, and other desserts. And they make good jam, too, with a little lemon to pep up the flavor.

A rich baking powder biscuit dough rolled around sugared blueberries, sliced and baked, calls for whipped cream or ice cream as topping, and makes a wonderful dessert. It's as good as the cherry roll dessert which is made similarly. Perhaps it's even better. That depends upon whether cherries or blueberries rate first with you.

Blueberry Dessert Rolls
[One dozen]

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons solid shortening
1 egg
About ½ cup milk
1 cup fresh blueberries
¼ cup sugar

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar together. Cut in shortening with pastry blender. Beat egg slightly in measuring cup and fill cup to three-fourths full. Add to dry mixture and stir to make a soft dough. Turn out on a lightly floured board and knead gently for 30 seconds. Pat or roll out into a rectangle about half an inch thick. Sprinkle with berries mixed with sugar. Roll jelly roll fashion. Roll may be baked intact at 375 degrees for about 45 minutes and sliced for serving. Or the roll may be sliced before baking, the slices arranged on a greased baking sheet and baked at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. If they are baked as individual rolls they'll be brown and crusty on top and sides. If a single roll is baked the servings will be crusty only at the sides.

For a blueberry pie that IS a blueberry pie make the crust with cold orange juice instead of water. And add a little grated orange rind to the pastry, a half teaspoon to a teaspoon.

Blueberry Pie

1 quart fresh blueberries
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
Juice of ½ lemon
2 tablespoons butter
Pastry for double or lattice crust

Mix sugar and flour. Spread half the mixture over the bottom pie crust. Cover with berries. Sprinkle lemon juice over the berries and then add the remaining sugar and flour. Add pricked top crust or lattice strips to the pie. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes, reduce heat to 375 degrees, and bake 20 minutes longer.

If you can find currants as well as blueberries in your fruit market, and you should find them one of these early July days, this is a good jam to try with the combination of fruits.

Blueberry and Currant Jam

1 quart blueberries
1 pint currants
¾ cup sugar per cup of mixed fruit

Clean, stem, and crush the fruit. Cook until tender, which will be two or three minutes. Then add sugar, and boil as rapidly as possible without scorching, until thickened. Cool slightly, pour into clean glasses, and seal with paraffin.

Add the juice of a lemon to a quart of blueberries in making plain blueberry jam, and measure two-thirds cup of sugar to a cup of fruit and juice. Cook as described for blueberry and currant jam.

Corner Lifting Trick Aid to Mouth Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We were fairly hypnotized sitting across the aisle from a nicely dressed woman, and good looking except for the comical maneuverings of her lips. You know the grimaces we make when we're doing a special mouth makeup job at home. Well, that's the kind of mouthing this woman was doing, but without mirror or lipstick. A habit obviously, but not a good one.

It reminded us of other funny mouth habits that make this inviting feature less so. Projecting the lower lip up over the other is a habit peculiar to one person we know. And pushing at the teeth with the tongue is seen a bit too often. Biting lips is another thing, but more peculiar to older, nervous women, we think.

For a magic mouth beautifying trick, we would still advocate the corner lifting as the best yet discovered. It's odd how instantaneous is the revitalizing effect of a good mouth corner lift. Try it when you're down in the mouth and see what happens to that gloomy thought you were entertaining. It just disappears, but back it comes if the mouth corners slip again. So keep the corners up.

For tinting your lips have you yet looked into the tiny paint brushes that are becoming more and more popular as the foundation implement for a nicely madeup mouth. As we interview the movie stars, usually getting ready to have a color picture made, we see them wielding this tiny brush with superb art and their lips are more effectively tinted as a result.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

There are two good reasons for washing your hair frequently in hot weather. First, perspiration and the flying dust make it necessary. Second, an immaculately clean scalp and head of hair contribute to that feeling of freshness which it's so important to strive for when the temperature soars.

We have the greatest respect for the woman who can set her own hair. Envy, too. It's a knack that saves time and money and makes it possible to keep her grooming score high all the time.

For these women, whether they "do" their own hair all the time or just between visits to the beauty shop, the choice of a setting lotion is important. One of the best we've ever found for home use has many points that are commendable.

It's quick. It cuts drying time to a minimum. And it's good. It doesn't leave a flaky deposit and apparently contains some hair-softening agent that gives the hair a gleaming pliancy. That awful stiff look is eliminated.

This can be used between shampoos when your hair needs extra careful brushing. Brush all the dust out, then use the lotion to set your wave softly. It's the next best thing to a real shampoo.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is one thing to play a hand boldly, even riskily, when the success of the contract depends on such tactics, but it is quite another to jeopardize an important contract that is "ice cold." In the first case there is a great deal to gain and comparatively little to lose; in the second, the position is reversed. The declarer in today's hand should have been completely satisfied with the situation in which he found himself. His clumsy efforts, misdirected by greed, instead of attaining the desired result of an extra trick on a redoubled contract, cost him an enormous swing.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 heart
1 spade	2 clubs	2 diamonds	2 hearts
3 diamonds	3 hearts	3 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass

As may be seen, both West and North did considerable bidding on their none-too-robust holdings. East and South bid correctly. East could hardly know that his partner had done so much bidding when vulnerable on a comparatively poor hand.

West opened the heart queen and, the moment dummy was spread, declarer could see that his contract was safe. The most he could lose was one spade, one diamond, and one club, since his losing heart could be ruffed with dummy's low trump. But, having noted that, he proceeded to get fancy.

After winning the king of hearts he led a low club. West overtook his partner's jack with the ace and returned the ten spot. Declarer ruffed and returned a diamond, which West ducked and which was won by dummy's ten. The ace of hearts was next cashed, and a heart ruffed with the five of diamonds. The queen of trumps was led, but West still held off. Declarer now entered his hand with the spade king and laid down the diamond king. West won with the ace and, seeing that his remaining nine spot of trumps would be picked up if he should make declarer ruff a heart, returned a spade. Now declarer was in a mess; he could not return to his own hand safely in order to draw West's blank nine of trumps. When he attempted to do so by ruffing a club with the eight spot, West overruffed with the nine, for the setting trick.

Normal play, which would have been to ruff a heart in dummy at the first opportunity, would have insured the contract and also would have resulted in an extra trick if West erred ever so slightly. After drawing trumps declarer could lead his singleton club and, if a club were returned, an automatic squeeze between the club and spade suits would develop on East.

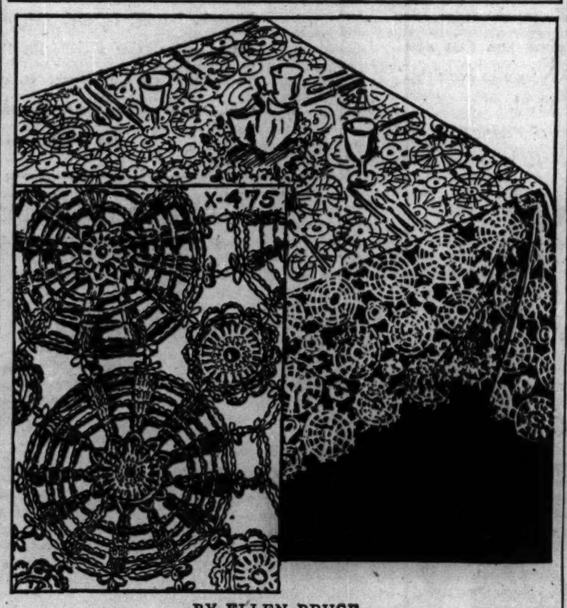
Medallion for a Tablecloth



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

When you start to make a tablecloth as a wedding gift, just consider this delicate and lacy pattern, which was "just made" for a formal tablecloth. It is composed of medallions and joined with smaller circles of similar design. This same wheel design may be used for a bedspread, altho a heavier crochet cotton must be employed.

For instructions in crocheting the wheel medallion for a formal tablecloth, No. X-475, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ALL-STAR SQUAD NAMED

A BELL CLANGS AGAIN TONIGHT FOR DEMPSEY

20,000 to See if Jack Still Can Punch.

BY STEWART OWEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlanta, Ga., June 30.—Jack Dempsey, New York restaurateur, Miami and Los Angeles hotel magnate, and occasional prize fight referee, is going to don boxing gloves again tomorrow night in the strangest venture of his heterogeneous career as a public figure.

Dempsey, now 45 years old, is going to fight one Clarence [Cowboy] Luttrell, a Texan known thruout the south as a rough, tough wrestler. The bout, scheduled for 10 rounds, is to be held in the Atlanta Southern association baseball park and it has these Georgia folks so wrought up that 20,000 of them are going to pay $30,000 to see it. More of them would pay more if the park would hold them.

A Louis Bout? Don't Be Silly!

The mystery of the ageing former heavyweight champion's motives in reentering the ring is the big item in what appears to be the screwiest boxing match ever arranged anywhere. Why is he doing it? Everybody down here is asking.

The first thing that occurs to the public mind is that Dempsey is essaying a comeback, trying to build himself up for a crack at Joe Louis' heavyweight championship. That, of course, is ridiculous and nobody knows it better than Dempsey himself.

Asked how much truth there is to the report that he was thinking of building himself up for a title bout, Dempsey replied:

"I'm afraid that's just thinking, and somebody else is doing the thinking for me. That talk is just for local consumption to build up this match down here. I haven't any illusions about where I stand in the fight game."

He May Pick Up $15,000.

Then there is the explanation that Dempsey is broke, that he's on his uppers, and that he's willing to do anything to pick up a little chicken feed, even to the extent of making himself ridiculous. That one won't hold much water, either. In the first place, it isn't chicken feed that Jack will collect for tomorrow night's work. He has a guarantee of $15,000, with an option of 50 per cent of the net gate receipts. Since the city of Atlanta takes 5 per cent and the federal government 10 per cent of the gross in taxes, Jack probably will take the $15,000 and be contented with that. The American Red Cross is taking 5 per cent.

Fifteen thousand dollars isn't to be sniffed at by any one, but if it were, Dempsey would seem to be in a better position than most people to do a little sniffing.

Has $400,000 in Annuities.

Without actually auditing Jack's private accounts, we did gain a fairly good insight into his financial condition, assuming, of course, that the answers he and his retinue gave to rather pointed questions were as candid and honest as they appeared to be. Dempsey is reputed to have $400,000 in annuities coming due in 1942. He owns half interest in a Miami hotel which is valued at a half million dollars and which last year made a $60,000 profit, "less taxes." He owns another in Los Angeles that is rated around $200,000.

In addition there is his New York restaurant business. Dempsey recently closed his famous place opposite Madison Square Garden and that gave rise to the rumor he was broke. He has opened another around the corner on Broadway.

"I'll tell you about that restaurant," said Max Waxman, who manages Dempsey's lucrative business of ref-

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

NEW YORK sports writers, who have been awarding Joe DiMaggio a trophy every few weeks since he joined the Yankees, are not the least nonplused by his present sub-.300 batting average. . . . They soon are going to give him a medal for being the most popular proprietor of a fish grotto on San Francisco Fishermen's wharf. . . . Rollie Hemsley in the current issue of a baseball weekly tells how he conquered booze. . . . All players and others who have a weakness for dipping their bills in demijohns should read the message. . . . It seems Rollie tests his reform by hanging around saloons hissing fellows who swig. . . . Jimmy Slattery, former light heavyweight champion, is a boxing instructor in Ithaca, N. Y. . . . Mule Dowell, former Chicago Cardinals full back, is athletic director at Texas Tech. . . . The St. Louis Cardinals apparently were so interested in planning their first night game and getting heavy sugar for the sale of Joe Medwick they have kept the All-Star game a secret. . . . However, it will be played in Sportsman's park a week from tomorrow, as far as we know. . . . Andrew Hemmingway Lotshaw, eminent trainer of the Cubs, may consider it libelous, but Dick Bartell credits his current comeback after his 1939 Chicago flop to the ministrations of Denny Carroll, the Detroit Tigers' masseur. . . . Pete Beeson, football coach at Gettysburg college, has returned to his alma mater, Indiana university, for work toward a master's degree. . . . Eleanor Holm Rose, who again is starring in the aquacade show at the New York World's Fair, still holds 10 of the 14 A. A. U. backstroke records, and swimming records are the most fragile in sport.

Al Bailey, a Trinidad, Colo., High school tackle, gulped down a quart of milk in 15 seconds to win a bet. . . . Larry MacPhail, president of the Dodgers, finally has a Landis on his side. . . . Latest addition to the Dodgers' farm chain is Landis, N. C., a class D club. . . . Orval Grove, White Sox pitcher who recently was released to Oklahoma City, whistles like Rip Russell of the Cubs, only prettier. . . . The colored man with the No. 16 shoes, who is hired as a member of the Washington ground crew to tamp down filler in the pitcher's mound and batter's box and otherwise supplant a roller with his huge feet, now has an apprentice. . . . The apprentice wears only No. 14, but expects his feet to spread after he has tamped a while. . . . Joe Farrell, press agent for the Chicago Blackhawks, wonders on a card from Rockford, Mich., if Canadians are going to be so hot after Hitler they won't be able to sharpen up their skates, come autumn. . . . Rumor has it that Joe McCarthy has a chance to win his protest of the game the White Sox won from the Yankees, 1 to 0, in 11 innings on June 20. . . . The protest was based on the claim that Solters didn't hold a foul from Dickey's bat long enough to constitute an out as called by Umpire John Quinn. . . . Later in the game Dickey fanned twice and again fouled to Solters, but Joe is said to feel certain Dickey would have made a game winning homer if he had not been called out on the challenged play. . . . A double header with the Yanks wouldn't hurt the till any, tho this circumstance, of course, will not affect the ultimate action on the protest.

The Boogey Man.

When I was small the boogey man
Who made me limp with fear
Was Mr. Jack-in-the-Beanstalk—
I'd shiver as I'd hear
The tales of his activities;
Then there was Bluebeard, too,
And for good measure, the bad Wolf
Would scare me thru and thru.

I'd creep to bed and think of them—
Old Sinbad was another,
Then Ali Baba and his crew
Would almost make me smother;
I'd pull the covers o'er my head,
So great was my alarm,
Lest boogey man would get me
And make me come to harm.

And now, tho grown, the boogey man
I find, is with us still,
He cries dire news by radio
In tones well meant to chill;
Pull up the quilt of common sense
And don't give way to doubt,
The boogey man can't get us
If we just watch out!

Country Children.

If you are a country child, you'll know
Where all the early wild flowers grow,
Hepaticas and buttercups gold.
And who would know, but a country lad,
Where pussywillows may be had,
Or of the little newborn things
Upon a farm, that April brings.
Then a thousand things there are to tell,
When summer comes—the fragrant smell
Of new mown hay . . .
Wild roses—clover by the way,
A path in the woods—a bluejay scolding,

SOX GIVE AWAY ONE GAME, 7-5; WIN OTHER, 3-1

Errors Beat Lyons; Smith Stops Indians.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox yesterday put an end to that business of being allergic to big home crowds. After 20,054 had suffered with them in the blowing of the first game of a double header with the league leading Cleveland Indians, 7 to 5, they put over three dramatic runs in the second game to triumph, 3 to 1.

The Indians won the first game on five unearned runs, but nevertheless Al Smith, in achieving his ninth victory to one defeat, outpitched Ted Lyons and deserved to win. It was a different story in the second game, in which Al Milnar sought his 12th victory, but came out with his third defeat of the season.

Eddie Smith should have had a shutout in the second game, but he had to wait to the sixth inning before he was convinced that he wasn't going to be shut out himself on a phony run the Indians scored in the third inning. No two of the five hits he yielded came in the same inning.

FIRST GAME

In the first game the Sox had four earned runs to two earned runs for the victors. This is just to give you some idea of the nature of the Sox defense and not an effort to say that Lyons, who yielded 14 hits, including a homer by Lou Boudreau, should have defeated Al Smith.

The Sox got off to a one run lead in the second inning on a single by Solters and a sacrifice and a walk. In the third the Indians went ahead with a pair of unearned runs. With one out, McNair fumbled Smith's grounder. Boudreau supplied the second out with a fly to Kreevich, but Weatherly singled. Solters was a bit clumsy, or at least ill advised, in attempting a shoestring catch of Hemsley's liner. It bounced past Julius for a triple, scoring Smith and Weatherly. McNair threw out Trosky.

Defense Messes Up Things.

Sox Are Stopped Short.

The next scoring was in the eighth. Boudreau doubled and took third on a wild pitch. Weatherly fanned and Webb made a swell play to get Hemsley while holding Boudreau on third. Trosky, however, lined a single to right center, scoring Boudreau.

In the ninth the Sox scored a run and had the tying runs on base before the first putout was accomplished. Rosenthal dumped a single back of second and went to third on McNair's single to left. Tresh beat out a bunt, Rosenthal scoring. Johnny Allen replaced Al Smith. Kennedy and Wright, batting for Lyons, flied to Chapman and Boudreau threw out Webb.

SECOND GAME

Reds Win, 7-4, 7-6; Cubs Use Nine Pitchers

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., June 30.—The Cubs succumbed to the pitching wiles of Bucky Walters today in the front half of a double header, but that's only half the story. Refreshed by a 20 minute recess they came bouncing back, piled up a five run lead, and were well on the road to victory when things began to happen. The lead melted bit by bit into a tie and finally, in the ninth, the title holding Reds turned loose a salvo that nailed down another victory and tightened their grip on first place. The scores were 7 to 4 and 7 to 6.

The Cubs gave 26,960 spectators quite an exhibition of pitchers, or maybe it should be termed a parade. Larry French, Vance Page, Vern Olsen, and Bill Lee marched past the assembled multitude in the first battle, from which French was lucky enough to escape the consequences. In the second game, five of them, some repeaters, were in the march, Charley Root leading a line made up of Olsen, Jake Mooty, French, and Lee. This time French failed to escape, being charged with the defeat.

Gleeson Hits 4-Run Homer.

Against Walters the Cubs accomplished only one deed of consequence. They filled the bases in the fifth and Jim Gleeson picked this spot as the ideal moment for his third homer of the season. It tied the score, offsetting two homers by Linus Frey and a few other things which happened during French's régime. But while Page's sore arm relieved French's distress in the sixth he could do nothing on his own account in the seventh. Olsen was equally ineffective as a rescuer and the Reds, simply by producing four hits, made the inning a three run success.

The Cubs jumped away to a flying start behind Root in the second game by battering Gene Thompson. They nicked him for a pair of runs in the second inning, assisted by a triple from Phil Cavarretta. They added three more in the third on Bill Nicholson's ninth homer. They made it 6 to 1 with a run in the fourth, but Root immediately weakened and the steady changes of pitchers thereafter failed to discourage the champions from assembling 13 hits in the last six innings.

French Comes In Again.

French's second appearance of the afternoon came in the midst of some excitement kicked up against Mooty in the eighth and this threat was held to one run because of a catch by Gleeson. But when McCormick, who earlier had hit a homer against Root and a double off Olsen, lined a two bagger to left in the ninth, the Cubs were seized by panic. Lombardi was purposely passed and after Craft had sacrificed, Arnovich was given an intentional walk. With the bases loaded, Lee was called back and Joost shot a safe liner over third,

Galento, Hurt in Brawl, May Put Off Fight

BULLETIN.

Newark, N. J., July 1, Monday (AP).—The Newark Star-Ledger said today that Tony Galento, heavyweight boxer, was severely cut on the chin last night when his 26 year old brother, Russell, threw a beer glass at him during an argument in Tony's Orange barroom.

Witnesses, the paper said, reported the cut was an inch long and deep enough to cause postponement of his scheduled 15 round bout with Max Baer in Jersey City tomorrow night. Galento was taken to a physician's office for treatment and later returned to the barroom with a heavy bandage on his chin, the Star-Ledger said.

LUKE APPLING IS ONLY WHITE SOX PLAYER CHOSEN

Seven Yanks Listed for July 9 Game.

Luke Appling, star White Sox shortstop, who has been slugging the ball as of old, is the only Chicago player listed on the American league All-Star squad announced yesterday. Luke probably will be the starting shortstop in the 1940 All-Star game, which will be played in St. Louis on July 9. Joe Cronin, Boston Red Sox manager, who played thruout last year's contest, will manage this year's game from the bench and Lou Boudreau of the Indians, no such hitter as Appling, is the only other shortstop nominated.

As usual, the New York Yankees dominate the selections, seven members of the wilted champions having been picked by American league managers. The league leading Cleveland Indians are second with six on the honor list. The Red Sox will send four, the Detroit Tigers three, the Philadelphia Athletics two and the Washington Senators, St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox one each.

Pick Seven Pitchers.

The honored players, by positions, are as follows: Pitchers, Bob Feller and Al Milnar [Indians], Buck Newsom and Tom Bridges [Tigers], Dutch Leonard [Senators], Red Ruffing and Monte Pearson [Yankees]. Catchers, Frank Hayes [A's], Bill Dickey [Yankees], and Rollie Hemsley [Indians]. Infielders, Jimmy Foxx [Red Sox], George McQuinn [Browns], Ray Mack, Ken Keltner, and Lou Boudreau [Indians], Red Rolfe and Joe Gordon [Yankees], Luke Appling [White Sox].

Outfielders, Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller [Yankees], Lou Finney, Doc Cramer, and Ted Williams [Red Sox], Bob Johnson [Athletics], and Henry Greenberg [Tigers].

All-Star coaches will be Tom Daly of the Red Sox and Del Baker of the Tigers. Paul Schreiber of the Yanks will be batting practice pitcher and the batting practice catcher will be Moe Berg of the Red Sox. Win Green of the Red Sox will be the trainer.

The game, eighth of the series between the two major leagues, the first game of which was originated, promoted and sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in 1933, is scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock [2:30 o'clock Chicago daylight saving time] in Sportsman's park, St. Louis, home of both the St. Louis major league ball clubs. If the contest is postponed it will be played off at 9 o'clock the following morning.

The Manager's the Boss.

In his letter announcing the selections, President William Harridge of the American league included the following paragraph:

"The American league manager will be unrestricted in the handling of the team, except that no pitcher is to remain in the game for a period longer than three innings. However, if the game runs into extra innings, the pitcher who is in the game at the close of the ninth inning may be continued on indefinitely at the discretion of the manager. It is within the manager's jurisdiction to remove a pitcher before the completion of three innings. If a pitcher enters the game after commencement of an inning, that part of the inning will not be included in his three innings of pitching."

Mr. Harridge said he will select the two American league umpires at a later date.

VANDER MEER IS VICTORIOUS IN DEBUT AS INDIAN

Indianapolis, Ind., June 30 (AP).—Johnny Vander Meer, who pitched two consecutive no hit, no run games for the Cincinnati Reds in 1938, before he lost his control, won his first start today for Indianapolis in the American association—a six hit, 5 to 3, victory over Columbus in the seven inning windup of a double header.

Vander Meer walked 3 men, but he struck out 10, and his fire ball was in the groove most of the time.

Runnin' Wild!

There's always the chance that one of the great backs on the College All-American or the Green Bay Packers football team will run wild thru a broken field to win the game when these two teams meet on Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 29. BY FRANK MASTRO.

Forty-nine C. Y. O. boys left yesterday for Round Lake, Ill., where they will prepare to repel the invasion of the amateur boxing champions of Hawaii whom they meet in Soldiers' field July 10. Two chartered buses and several private cars took the boys and six Catholic Youth organization officials to camp.

Johnny Pleasant, last year's Golden Gloves lightweight champion, who knocked out Pat Thomas in a round last week, will return to action tonight in an eight round bout against Mike Gamiere of Cleveland in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. It will be one of four matches of eight rounds comprising the program. Last Monday's card of eight rounders was so successful Promoter Irving Schoenwald arranged a comparable show.

Gamiere, 1933 Chicagoland Golden Gloves 135 pound champion, like Pleasant, is a terrific right hand hitter.

Billy Seward, slugger from Ingomar, Mont., will meet Lou Alcanter, Kansas City, Mo., lightweight, in a secondary feature. Seward will be making his 28th appearance. He has a record of 23 victories, 18 by knockouts. Of the other matches, Bill scored two draw decisions and lost two awards.

Additional encounters involve Larry Greb, Milwaukee 135 pound fighter, and Indian Jimmy Maddox of Terre Haute, Ind., and Buddy O'Dell, Lansing, Mich., middleweight, and Paul Frazier.

Rudy Kay, north side heavyweight wrestler, and Pete Schu of Argo will meet in a one hour engagement in Parichy stadium, Harrison street and Harlem avenue, this evening. There will be three supporting matches.

COALS WIN TWO; MILLS SPLIT IN DOUBLE HEADER

The Mills split a double header with the Michigan City Cubs in Mills stadium and the Spencer Coals won two games from the West Indies All-Stars in Spencer field in semipro baseball games yesterday.

Tonight a Wrestler Aims at Same Jaw

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The Bell Clangs Again Tonight for Dempsey

Just a Business Maneuver.

"The lease was running out and the lease costs $115,000, so Jack moves around the corner and he's got just as good a spot. Maybe it would be a fine idea if people thought Jack was broke. Maybe then people would quit touching him all the time. It don't matter what people think. Anyway, just so you spell his name right."

Well, if Jack isn't staging a comeback and if he isn't broke, why is he going into this thing?

"I'm fighting this Luttrell for the fun of it," he laughed. "I want to show him that a fighter can whip a wrestler any time. He dared me to fight him, so I took him up on it."

The incident which brought the challenge from Luttrell occurred in an Atlanta wrestling ring about two months ago. Luttrell plays the rôle of villain in all his wrestling matches. The script which wrestlers follow calls for the villain of the piece to gouge, pinch, bite, kick, and resort to all known vile and low tricks as ostentatiously as possible. When he has aroused the crowd to the point where it is ready to tear down the arena and wrap it around his neck, the hero suddenly emerges from his comatose condition and pins the villain's shoulders to the floor, amid great rejoicing among the spectators.

And So They Sign.

Luttrell was enacting his rôle with such realism against Don Roche, the local fair haired wrestler, that Dempsey, the referee, disqualified him. Luttrell, following the classic version of the wrestling script, promptly swung at Dempsey and Dempsey swung back. For a few minutes there was a realistic battle in the center of the ring, which may or may not have been part of the act. Ever since, Luttrell has been taunting Dempsey and inviting him into the ring for a genuine fight. Finally Jim Downing, an Atlanta promoter, offered to stage the bout and Dempsey accepted.

Dempsey says he is serious about the affair. He has even done some training. He boxed a few rounds with Arturo Godoy when the Chilean was training for his bout with Louis last week and he claims he has done enough road work to take off 15 pounds.

He Still Looks Fit.

At any rate, Dempsey isn't the pitiful figure one would expect of a middle aged ex-fighter, 13 years away from his last championship battle. There is no sogginess about his appearance. There isn't a gray hair in his head. As he frowned over a handful of cards in a pinochle game with his protége, Red Burman, one could almost see the fighting glare of the Dempsey of 15 or 20 years ago, despite the lines that passing years have engraved in it.

"I'll knock him out in two rounds," Dempsey said. "I'll have to; I can't go much farther than that."

Luttrell, too, appears to be serious about the bout. He is 34 years old and he has nothing to lose, while the prestige that would accompany a victory over Dempsey, even an ageing, creaking Dempsey, would mean much to him as a drawing card.

The bout will not be a mixed-boxing-wrestling affair. It is to be strictly a boxing match with six ounce gloves. Nat Fleischer, editor of Ring Magazine, who will referee, has promised to disqualify Luttrell if he resorts to any foul tactics. And if this is another one of those things, that probably will be the outcome of the match.

Riggs and Alice Marble Win Tri-State Titles

Cincinnati, O., June 30 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Chicago won the men's tri-state tennis championship today for the fourth time by defeating Arthur Marx of Los Angeles, 11-9, 6-2, 4-6, 6-8, 6-1. Alice Marble defeated Gracyn Wheeler, 6-3, 6-4, for the women's championship.

WORLD RECORD VAULT FEATURES NATIONAL MEET

Fresno, Cal., June 30 (AP).—America's greatest track and field athletes headed homeward today, leaving behind a new and glowing chapter for the record book in the windup of the National A. A. U. meet.

Denied international competition because of war wrecked Olympic games, the cream of the country's cinder path and field stars held their own American Olympics last night in spectacular fashion, topped by Cornelius Warmerdam's world record pole vault of 15 feet 1¼ inches. Earlier in the season, the Tuolumne, Cal., school teacher, set a new ceiling of 15 feet for the event.

The official record is 14 feet 11 inches, set by Earl Meadows and Bill Sefton while competing for the University of Southern California. Meadows finished fourth last night at 12 feet 6 inches.

Wolcott Ties Owens' Mark.

The 52d annual A. A. U. meet also saw the world record for the 200 meter low hurdles tied by Fred Wolcott of Rice institute. He was clocked in 22.6 seconds, equaling Jesse Owens' time set in 1935.

Three American records, the 200 meter and 1,500 meter runs and the 110 meter hurdles, were bettered and two, the 200 meters and 400 meter hurdles, equaled.

Eight National A. A. U. meet records were exceeded and two tied. They included those of world and American proportion and the 100 meter run, the high jump and the 400 meter run. The 400 meter hurdle and the 1,600 meter relay marks were tied.

Avenges N. C. A. A. Defeat.

Wolcott squared matters with his keenest rival of the season, Ed Dugger, Tufts college Negro. He lost to Dugger in the N. C. A. A. meet in Minneapolis but beat him by two yards in the 110 meter hurdles last night. His time of 13.9 seconds was two-tenths of a second faster than the American record set by Forrest Towns in 1936.

Sharing double victory laurels with Wolcott were Harold Davis, Salinas, Cal., junior college student, who won both the 100 and 200 meter dashes, and Billy Brown of L. S. U., broad jump and hop-skip-and-jump winner.

Carl McBain of the U. C. L. A. won the 400 meters hurdles crown in the junior division Friday and the same event in the senior class. He tied the American mark of 51.6 seconds in the senior division.

Mehl Beats Cunningham.

Drama was written into the 1,500 meter run. The veteran Glenn Cunningham, making his final appearance as a competitive athlete, lost out in the last few strides to Walter Mehl, University of Wisconsin, who charged home for a new American record. His time of 3:45.9 was only 1/10 of a second slower than the world record held by Jack Lovelock of New Zealand. Cunningham had hoped to close his career by winning the event for a sixth time.

Greg Rice, the ex-Notre Dame star, successfully defended his title in the 5,000 meter run in 14:33.4, breaking his own A. A. U. record by 17.3 seconds.

The San Francisco Olympic club won the team title in both the junior and senior divisions, with points totals of 222½ and 159, respectively.

Tony Socked by Brother in Own Tavern.

since Tony's imagination does not equal Baer's. The fantastic ideas of Max are top heavy with improbability. It is questionable whether Max believed his own stories originally, but in the last five years he possibly has mesmerized himself with conversation.

Simplicity Has Its Reward.

Galento's mind may be poverty stricken. Words of more than two syllables certainly present an imposing hurdle, yet there is a sincerity in his expression that is antidote to Baer's fantasy.

Consequently, one easily becomes partisan and while not liking Galento overly much, wishes him luck if only to end Baer's bombast.

It should be true that the loser will be at the end of his pugilistic career. It may be unfortunate that both Baer and Galento cannot be retired, but Promoter Mike Jacobs seems intent on presenting the winner with the champion, Joe Louis.

Verbal Feud Near Climax.

The verbal feud between Baer and Galento has reached the stage of direct threats. Each has exhausted his list of name callings, and now Baer threatens to "jab my thumb in Tony's eye if he gets funny with me at the weighing in" while Galento says "that dirty so and so I'll do this and that if."

Fortunately all can be settled Tuesday evening. Thirty-five thousand are expected to jam Mayor Frank Hague's Roosevelt stadium to watch. For their labors Max and Tony will get more than half of the net proceeds which are expected to total $150,000.

In his last workout at Madam Bey's hillside camp, some three miles from Summit, Galento gave his followers his best show. Not only did Tony go thru his routine of wisecracks for the folks, but he carried on with his finest performance in the ring since he walloped Lou Nova nine months ago.

Galento, however, does not hold the key to this fight. The result depends on Baer. If Max should feel fit and if he is not afraid Tuesday night he may trounce Galento thoroly. Galento has been beaten more than a score of times but only stopped completely by Joe Louis.

Babe Zaharias Wins Western Open Final, 5-4

Milwaukee, Wis., June 30 [Special].—Babe Didrikson Zaharias won her first major golf title today by defeating Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee, 5 and 4, in the 36 hole final of the women's western open tournament.

One down at the halfway mark, Babe recovered the point on the 20th, where her opponent three putted, and gradually forged to the front. She won the 21st, 23d, 24th, and 25th, the latter with a birdie three, and was 4 up at the third turn with a 36, 1 under women's par and 1 over the men's standard.

She three putted the next two holes, losing the 28th, but her birdie and par bagged the 30th and 31st to send her 5 up, and it ended with a half in par 5s. She was even par in the afternoon, while Mrs. Mann went 7 over. The new champion was around in a morning 81 to 80 by Mrs. Mann, who was playing on her home course at the Blue Mound Country club.

Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., won the 18 hole consolation finals by defeating Ellamae Williams of Chicago, tournament medalist, 2 and 1. Miss Hicks scored a 77, two over women's par.

McNEILL, HUNT WIN IN COLLEGE TENNIS TOURNEY

Haverford, Pa., June 30 (AP).—Don McNeill of Kenyon college and Joseph R. Hunt of the United States Naval academy today advanced to the finals of the National Intercollegiate Tennis tournament. Hunt defeated Frank Guernsey of Rice Institute, 6-4, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4. McNeill routed William Talbert, University of Cincinnati, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-0.

the second game, Smith with a five hitter and Webb and Kreevich with a triple and a homer which produced the decision.

The first run of the game, which was unearned, was driven in on a foul to an infielder. With one out in the third inning, Boudreau singled to center. He reached second and Weatherly first when McNair fumbled the latter's easy bouncer. Pytlak walked, loading the bases. Trosky fouled to Kennedy, Boudreau scoring after the catch.

The big sixth opened with Webb's triple to right, after which Kreevich banged his fifth homer of the year into the left field stand, scoring Skeeter. Kuhel filed out, but Solters beat out a single to deep short. Solters took second while Mack was making a fine play to get Rosenthal. McNair lifted a high fly over first. After a couple of steps, Trosky waited under the ball, then let it pop out of his glove, Solters scoring.

The White Sox will open a three day series in Detroit today. John Rigney will pitch the opener for the Sox. He will be seeking his eighth victory and trying to duck his ninth loss. Buck Newsom was slated for the Tigers.

scoring McCormick with the deciding run.

FIRST GAME

Frey notched his first homer off French with one out in the opening inning of the first game and this slim lead proved enough to appease the champions until one was gone in the fourth. Werber singled to left and Frey followed with his second homer into the right field bleachers. Before French could get thru the remainder of the inning Goodman doubled over third, and with two out Lombardi doubled to center, Goodman scoring to put the Reds in front, 4 to 0.

When Mattick singled to left after Todd's popup in the fifth, it marked the Cubs' first untainted hit off Walters. French bounced out gently, and the Cubs then went to work on the job that lifted them back into a tie. Hack walked and Herman slapped an easy poke in front of the plate, but it went for a base filling single because of Lombardi's failure to pick up the ball. This was where Gleeson came in with his homer over the center field barrier.

Lombardi and Craft fixed up the ouster for French in the sixth by singling. Gamble ran for Lombardi and, along with Craft, advanced on Arnovich's bunt. French was permitted to hand an intentional pass to Joost before departing, whereupon Page came in and did a perfect cleanup job on Walters' double play grounder to Hack.

Werber opened the seventh with a two bagger into Dallesandro's precinct. Frey beat out a bunt and Page was removed for Olsen. He fanned Goodman, but on the third strike Frey stole second. McCormick was purposely passed, but the strategy that succeeded in the sixth failed in this instance. Hershberger singled to left on the first pitch, sending Werber and Frey across. Craft rifled a single into center and McCormick scored the last run.

SECOND GAME

Frey's single and steal of second linked with Collins' bad throw and Gleeson's two base drop of McCormick's fly gave the Reds a one run lead off Root in the opening inning of the second game. They didn't hold the edge for long. In the Cubs' second, Dallessandro singled to right and got a quick ride to the plate on Cavarretta's triple to right. Cavarretta scored when McCormick dropped Joost's throw of Mattick's grounder, which should have been the third out.

Herman slapped a two bagger to left after Hack had been thrown out in the third and developments came quickly. Gleeson walked and Nicholson hit the first pitch into the right field bleachers, giving Root a 5 to 1 margin. This grew by one run on Mattick's single and Hack's double in the fourth, but was suddenly reduced by two in the home half on McCormick's homer, a double by Craft and a single by Arnovich.

That McCormick Again.

There were two reasons for the removal of Root in the fifth. One was a single punched past him by Beggs, who led off, and the other was a pass to Frey with one out. Olsen took over and succeeded in getting Goodman out of the way, but McCormick doubled to left, scoring Beggs and Frey. Then Olsen had to be lifted from a jam caused by singles from the bats of Craft and Arnovich before anybody was retired in the sixth. Mooty quelled the threat before the tying run could get home.

Arnovich opened the eighth with a single, his fourth of the game, and was bunted to second by Joost. Riggs batted for Shoffner, and grounded to Herman. The next happening was Werber's drive off the wall, Arnovich scoring the tying run and Werber being held to a single because of Dallessandro's accurate guess on the rebound. When Frey singled, putting Werber on third, Mooty departed and French ended the inning successfully with the help of a shoestring catch by Gleeson of Goodman's short fly. But French was beyond help in the ninth.

The Cubs will be at home tomorrow for a three game series against the invading Pirates. Ken [Lefty] Raffensberger will work against Onkie Franz Frisch's outfit in the opener. Danny MacFayden may oppose the Cubs.

The Cubs' record for the trip, which embraced five of the league cities, was eight victories and nine defeats. Five of the triumphs were picked up against the second division Bees and Phillies.

He Served in 15 Battles of the Civil War.

Capt. John E. Andrew.

Capt. Andrew, who was elected leader of the now rapidly dwindling group of civil war veterans at the national encampment at Pittsburgh, Pa., last September, suffered a paralytic stroke on Thursday and never regained consciousness.

The aged veteran fought in 15 battles of the civil war.

He Enlisted at 14.

He ran away to the war when he was a boy of 14, working on a farm in Ohio. Tall and strong, he enlisted in the 79th Ohio infantry and marched away in the ranks of Company C. Two years of his campaigning were under Gen. Sherman.

Capt. Andrew was honorably discharged at Camp Denison, Ohio. After the war, he served three terms as mayor of Monticello, Ill., and in 1882 he was elected sheriff of Piatt county, Illinois, an office he held for four years.

In 1913 he was placed in charge of the Illinois Soldiers' and Sailors' home here and held the superintendency for eight years.

He Was Illinois Commander.

Capt. Andrew served as Illinois commander of the G. A. R. from 1936 to 1939. He also served one term as national junior vice commander and another as national quartermaster general.

Several years ago he was awarded the Order of the Purple Heart for having been wounded at the battle of Peach Tree creek in 1864. In that battle he suffered a thigh wound which impaired his walking for life.

Funeral services will be held on Tuesday at Monticello.

MILE LONG ART SHOW IS OPENED AT NAVY PIER

Navy pier has undergone its annual transformation into a gargantuan art gallery. Down the corridor over the lake Chicago artists—555 of them—have hung 1,000 paintings and placed sculpture—a mile of art. The exhibit is the fourth presented on the pier under the sponsorship of Chicago's New Century committee. Mayor Kelly is honorary chairman, Chauncey McCormick, chairman, and Charles S. Peterson is executive vice president and general manager.

A three-week show, the exhibit was opened formally yesterday with a program at which Mr. McCormick spoke and Frances Coates Grace sang two song groups. Mr. Peterson presided.

Almost every well known name in Chicago art is represented in the pier display. The artists value their works as prices ranging from $5 to $3,250. Most of the pictures are offered for sale.

Two Chicagoans drowned yesterday while fishing in Round lake, seven miles northwest of Libertyville. The victims were Thomas Tivy, 39 years old, 903 Rush street, building manager, and Anthony Hoggett, 42, of 1850 Humboldt boulevard.

They were fishing in a boat with Edmund Roberts, 29, of 3903 North Tripp avenue. Roberts told police that Hoggatt got a bite on his line and in his excitement overturned the boat. He said he grabbed Tivy but could not keep him above water until a rescue party arrived. Hoggatt sank almost immediately, he said. Both bodies were recovered.

2 ARE ACCUSED OF ARSON AFTER VILLA PARK FIRE

Two men were held by Villa Park police on arson charges yesterday in connection with a mysterious fire which destroyed a seven room house at 600 North Michigan avenue in the suburb Saturday night. They are Albert Hanna, owner of the house, who lives in another home at 4th street and Michigan avenue, Villa Park, and Leslie Spangler, who, police said, lives with Hanna. Both denied responsibility for the fire.

Chief of Police Whitley Z. Mitchell reported a long-standing grudge between Hanna and Granford Armstrong, the tenant of the burned house. Mitchell said Hanna was placed under a peace bond by Police Magistrate Victor Meyers last Friday after he had been found guilty of assaulting Armstrong during an argument over rent.

Mitchell said witnesses had seen Hanna and Spangler near the Armstrong home Saturday after Armstrong and his family had left to visit relatives. Shortly afterward the fire broke out. Mitchell said Hanna carried $2,000 insurance on the house. Hanna and Spangler will be arraigned Friday before Justice of the Peace Theodore Ashford of Villa Park.

SAILPLANE ACE SOARS 9,000 FEET THRU HAILSTORM

Elmira, N. Y., June 30 (AP).—Despite thunderstorms three of the nation's leading motorless plane pilots took to the air today. Other pilots, here for the annual meet of the Soaring Society of America which began yesterday, made only short hops because of weather conditions.

Lawrence B. Montgomery of Plymouth, Mich., soared thru a hail storm to about 9,000 feet above his point of release from tow on a flight to Newfield, 23 miles away.

Montgomery was the winner of last year's national open meet at Frankfort, Mich., and his wife, Helen, holds the American women's duration record for gliders of seven hours 28 minutes.

John Robinson of San Diego, Cal., one of the nation's three top ranking pilots, soared 40 miles to Binghamton, and Chester J. Decker of Glen Rock, N. J., winner of the national soaring title last year and in 1936, sailed 15 miles to Lockwood.

STEEL MAKING HOLDS AT HIGH RATE; EXPECT BIG DEFENSE BUYING

Altho national defense orders have not yet reached the steel mills, the industry is operating near capacity on export tonnage and stimulated domestic demand, the magazine Steel reported yesterday.

Eagerness of the English to take over French steel contracts in this country with only slight changes in specification has reassured steel makers, and work on the orders is progressing rapidly, Steel said.

"In addition to airplanes and munitions the defense program will bring out heavy requirements for industrial expansion and shipbuilding," the review said.

The steel making rate last week rose 1 point to 89 per cent of theoretical capacity, according to Steel. A downturn is likely this week because of the July 4 holiday.

Railroad buying and structural and concrete reinforcing steel inquiries and bookings have become important factors, Steel said. Automobile production has continued to give way to seasonal recession.

FEWER PERSONS IDLE IN MAY, SURVEY SHOWS

New York, June 30 (AP).—A preliminary estimate by the national industrial conference board today placed the May total of jobless at 8,624,000, a 3.8 per cent decline from April. The board is a research organization supported largely by industry.

The usual seasonal rise in agricultural employment accounted for 314,000 of the decline, and the seasonal trend in manufacturing made that industry the only other major employer showing a decline in unemployment.

"The construction industry did not show its usual large employment increase from April to May," said the report.

OUTPUT OF PORK AT SEVEN YEAR PEAK FOR JUNE

Production of pork in June was the largest for that month since 1933 and ranked near the all time high for the month, the Institute of American Meat Packers estimated yesterday.

Production of other kinds of meat during June ran just about even with a year ago, but well above the average during 1929-1933.

Fresh pork, veal, and dressed lamb wholesale prices declined during the early part of June, but recovered in the latter part, the institute said. Beef prices rose toward the close.

Chicago Business Men Drive for Trade in Latin America

Sixteen thousand "trade ambassadors"—printed in Spanish and listing the wares of 1,100 Chicago exporters—will go into the mail for Latin American countries within a few days, the Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday.

C. M. Wynne.

Entitled "Chicago — Mercado Internacional," the large, colorful directory of what Chicago has to offer South and Central Americans is a direct bid for the trade other countries have lost in the western hemisphere because of the war.

Declares Program Timely.

C. M. Wynne, foreign trade vice president of the association, emphasized the timeliness of the program.

"At a time when European sources of supply for importers in Latin America are practically eliminated, forcing merchants in Central and South America to turn to the United States as never before, Chicago is placing in their hands a highly comprehensive directory of our exporters, printed in their language and offering merchandise we have available," he said.

"Chicago is the only city in the United States that prepares such a guide for its prospective customers, and its trade promotional effectiveness has been demonstrated.

Strong Interest Indicated.

"The fact that there are over 100 pages of display advertisments—many of them in color—in Chicago—Mercado Internacional is a fair criterion of the deep interest Chicago manufacturers now have in the markets of Latin America."

One section of the directory is devoted to illustrations and facts about Chicago's current history and what Chicago has to offer Latin American tourists.

THIRD IN STEEL.

With steel one of the essential needs in the government's rearmament program, it is obvious that steel companies should make larger profits this year. I am thinking about using some cash I received earlier this year from the sale of bonds to buy some Republic Steel stock. Please give me a review of the company's activities and operating results.—G. R.

Answer: The Republic Steel corporation for the last 10 years has maintained its position as the third largest American steel maker. It has an annual capacity of 7,840,000 tons of ingot steel and more than 5,880,000 tons of hot rolled finished steel.

The company's finishing capacity is devoted mainly to lighter steel goods used by the automobile, railroad, tin container, and other industries. Its tube and pipe output is the third largest in the country. Alloy, carbon, and other special steels account for another substantial part of its output. Republic Steel does not make rails and heavy structural steels.

From the point of mining iron and coal to the finishing of a wide range of steel goods, the company is a closely integrated enterprise. Its steel plants are concentrated in Ohio.

Capitalization of the company consists of $87,527,872 in funded debt; 282,304 shares of 6 per cent cumulative prior preference stock of $100 par value; 119,597 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value, and 5,833,066 shares of common stock of no par value.

Dividends on the common stock have not been distributed since 1930. Regular quarterly dividends are being paid on the prior preference stock. On the preferred stock, two quarterly dividends and $6 on arrears were paid so far this year on each share. Unpaid accumulated dividends on the preferred stock now total $12 a share.

Republic Steel had its best year in 1939. Ingot operations averaged 66.2 per cent thru the year and 92.3 per cent in the fourth quarter. Net sales, consolidated net income, and earnings per common share in recent years compared as follows:

1935	$136,165,000	$ 4,456,000	$0.49
1936	218,317,000	9,641,000	1.74
1937	250,448,000	9,044,000	1.19
1938	140,880,000	*7,998,000	*1.86
1939	230,341,000	10,671,000	1.46

DEFICIT OF SIX BILLIONS IN NEXT YEAR PREDICTED

Federal Spending Is Set at 13 Billion.

A probable federal deficit of 6 billion dollars is predicted for the fiscal year, beginning today, by the National City Bank of New York. In a study published yesterday, the bank estimated expenditures at 13 billions and said revenues may amount to 7 billions. The estimated deficit is double the amount indicated in the ordinary budget.

"This does not all have to be financed by formal offerings of new securities," the bank said. "Social security and other trust funds, charged as expenditures but invested in government securities, have been estimated to absorb about 1 billion of new issues, and United States savings [baby] bonds have been selling at the rate of around a billion annually.

Spending 13 Billion.

"These two sources of funds would reduce the amount of new money to be raised in the open market amount to around 4 billions. The latter figure would be further reduced by any withdrawal of funds from federal agencies, but such reduction would in effect be offset by whatever open-market borrowing might be necessary by the agencies themselves.

"The estimated yield of $715,000,000 from new taxes during the fiscal year 1941, added to the total receipts officially estimated in the January budget, raises the indicated total receipts to $6,866,000,000. This, if realized, would set a new high record for all time in federal receipts, exceeding even those of the previous peak year, 1920.

May Borrow 4 Billion.

"Total expenditures for 1941 were estimated in the budget at $9,027,000,000, including appropriations for the social security old age reserve but excluding expenditures for debt retirement thru the sinking fund. National defense appropriations are some $3,500,000,000 larger than the budget estimates, without allowance for the naval six year building program.

"These possible increases over budget estimates, together amounting to four billion dollars, would raise total expenditures for this year to around 13 billion dollars."

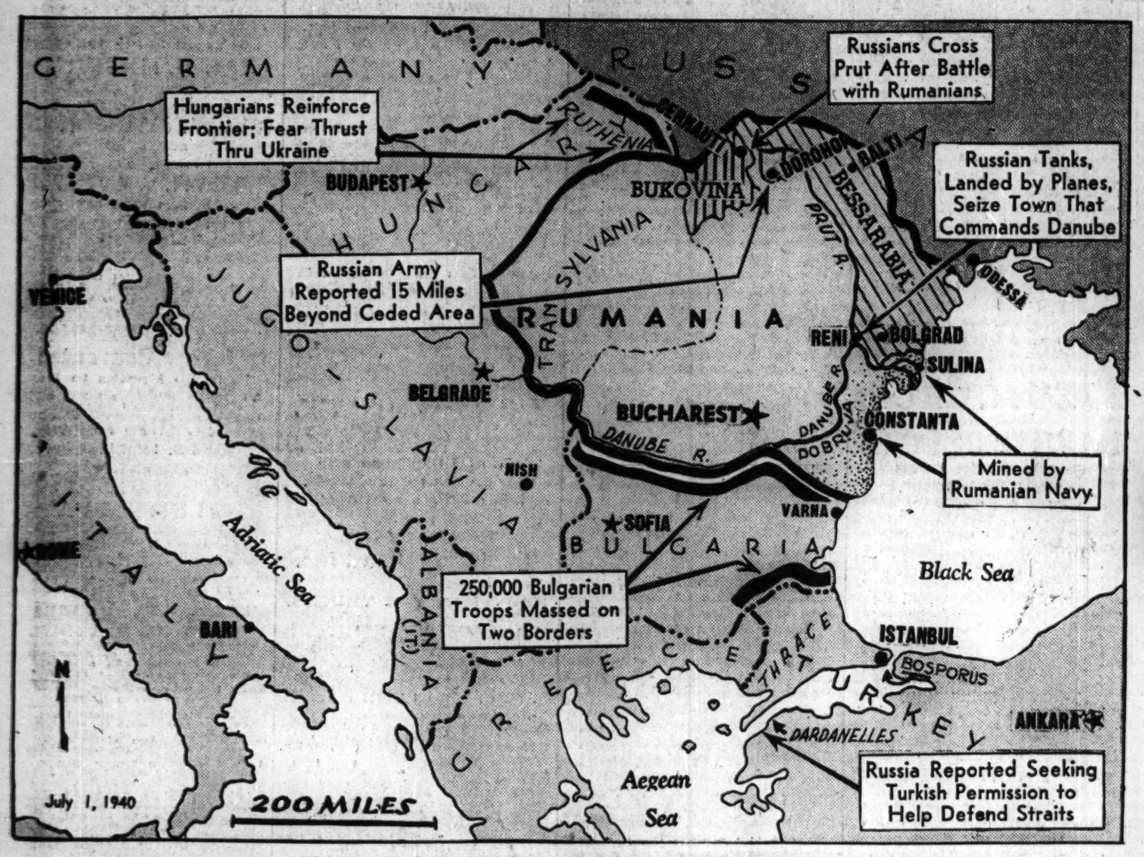
Elwood Basks in Reflected Glory of Wendell Willkie, Its Native Son—Russian Sky Tanks Take Rumanian City



Captions on the map explain yesterday's developments in the Balkans. Russian troops advancing into Rumania were reported to have crossed the Prut river, boundary of ceded Bessarabia and Bukovina (shaded area) and to have taken Reni, where they could threaten Germany's Danube route to the Black sea. (Stories on pages 1 and 2.)
